J. H. Nedderman, Head of Traffic Squad, Quits Post

RESIGNATION OF EX-CHIEF QUIZ SEQUEL

Action Which Became Immediately Effective Followed Interview With Chief Drew Concerning Fund

Department Head Declines to State Whether or Not Nedderman Was Asked to Quit; Ex-Officer Announces Plans

John Henry Nedderman, head of the police traffic bureau and former chief of police, tendered his resignation to Chief of Police Drew at 1 o'clock today.

Nedderman says he is resigning to enter a "broader field of endeavor." He says he has been offered a position at a better salary.

Nedderman's resignation came after a short conference at noon with Chief Drew, and follows a recent investigation conducted by Commissioner Colbourn and Chief Drew for several months concerning a police defense fund supposed to have been collected on behalf of Patrolman Charles Ninghtingale when the latter was on trial for shooting.

BAD FEELING IN DEPARTMENT.

Lee Gross, deputy food inspector, late today refused to resign his position and was dismissed from the department by Commissioner Colbourn, according to an announcement by Colbourn. Gross' dismissal followed the investigation and resulted in charges preferred against him of "incompetence, misconduct, violation of rules of the department and for the good of the service."

Rumors that Nedderman and Lee Gross, deputy food inspector, were in charge of this fund have been probed by Commissioner Colbourn, and considerable ill feeling between Nedderman and Gross has resulted.

A rumor that Nedderman was asked to resign was neither affirmed or denied by Chief James T. Drew previous to the resignation. Drew admitted that he had questioned Nedderman several times, however, about the Nightingale defense fund.

In tendering his resignation, Nedderman made the following public statement:

"For some time past I have contemplated resigning, having been offered employment elsewhere at a larger salary. In fairness to myself and my family I feel that I am making the best move. I am leaving the service with the kindliest feeling towards the commissioner and chief of police and thank them for past favors."

Nedderman's successor to the traffic bureau has not yet been named.

Nedderman's resignation is effective immediately.

Born and educated in this city Nedderman joined the Oakland police force as a patrolman on October 2, 1906, following service on the street cars in this city and four years in the employ of the Southern Pacific company.

He was elevated to the position of sergeant on March 21, 1913, and on September 1, 1917, was promoted to the position of chief by Commissioner F. F. Jackson, succeeding Walter J. Petersen who resigned to serve as captain of artillery in the army.

On the return of Petersen in 1919 he was made captain of inspectors under Chief Nedderman and it was Petersen who preferred the charges of bribery out of which came the grand jury indictments against the chief of police and his subsequent trials in the superior court.

INDICTED IN REFORM CRUSADE.

Nedderman's indictments followed a series of investigations, official and unofficial, into alleged crime situations in Oakland. One of these vice crusade was conducted by Senator Eddie Grant, the year prior to the charges against the chief of police.

The first trial started on June 23, 1919, and on July 18 the jury disagreed and Nedderman was promptly rearrested by order of District Attorney Ezra Decoto on another charge. His second trial started on September 1, 1919, and ten women were impanneled on the jury. He was acquitted at the second trial, after eighteen hours' jury discussion.

Following his acquittal Nedderman was reduced to his civil service standing of sergeant and served in the "fog belt" for some time. Later he was moved into the desk sergeant's office at the central station and ultimately when Commissioner Frank Colbourn assumed office was placed in charge of the traffic department.

It was rumored at the city hall today that Sergeant Charles Hemphill, senior desk sergeant at the Central station, might be appointed to succeed Nedderman as chief of the traffic bureau.

THREE MINUTE TALES

By AD SCHUSTER

Over the Hills.

OF the many wonderful men he knew, Freddie placed the organ man first. He was an extraordinary little man who could look delightfully jolly and intensely ferocious. Freddie liked his dark green velvet jacket, his rakish slouch hat, and, above all his eyebrows and mustache. There never was a week that he did not come down the block and play in front of the boy's house. Freddie always ran to the street, gave a coin to the monkey, and engaged his friend in conversation.

"Where do organ men get their monkeys?" he asked. "And when one monkey dies, or gets old or something, is there another monkey all trained to take his place?"

The organ man took a fancy to the lad who regarded him so seriously and soon learned that of all the tunes in his box the boy liked best, "Over the Hills and Far Away." He started playing it as he approached Freddie's home and it was always the signal for reunion. Sometimes Freddie followed the organ for as many as five blocks up the street where, because this was as far as he was allowed to go, bade good-by to the monkey and musician and ran home. To his mother and father he referred proudly to his friend as Mr. Martoni.

THERE came a time when Freddie was ill and the organ grinder played outside the door.

"Mister," he said to a passerby, "will you tell me what it says on the sign on the door?"

"Diphtheria," the man answered, "Quite a lot of it about."

The organ man did not allow any of the children to sing or shout while he played "Over the Hills" for the invalid. Nor did he wait to see if anyone came out with any offering. Instead he played the one piece and walked on, out of hearing, before he resumed his grinding. Sometimes he waved at the house in the hope that the boy might be looking out of a window.

One day Freddie's father stopped the organ man before the tune was started.

"Don't play today," he said kindly, "the boy is too ill and is resting. He has waited for you, though, the other times, and you have made him happy. When he gets better, come back." He held out a dollar.

"No," said the organ man. "I will come back when the little feller is well." He could not say what he felt. "I play for the boy for nothing. Plenty money from the other kids down the street."

Awkwardly, and with a bond of feeling between them, the two men looked at each other, the organ man pulling his mustache and ill at ease. Freddie's father walked into the house and the monkey and Mr. Martoni went two blocks before they resumed their performance. Not once would the organ man play, "Over the Hills and Far Away."

SEVERAL days after the sign had been taken down Freddie's father and mother, sitting silently in the house, heard the organ playing once more in the street. It was "Over the Hills" and Freddie's mother, who had borne her grief dry-eyed until now, sobbed aloud. The father muttered and strode to the window. "Can't he know?" he asked himself as he parted the curtains.

The organ grinder held the monkey, short-tethered, close to his feet. His head was bared and he turned the crank of his gaudy mechanical box with a genuine reverence. The father led the weeping woman to the window, where though the heavy curtains, they watched the street musician.

At the close of the piece the organ driver leaned a moment on his instrument, then shouldered it and walked away. He does not play in that block any more.

Tomorrow—Jimmy.

Mrs. Peete's Latest Confession Scouted

LOS ANGELES, March 13.—District Attorney Thomas Lee Woolwine said here today that he attaches no importance to the reported confession of Mrs. Louise L. Peete that two prominent residents of Los Angeles killed Jacob C. Denton, wealthy mining promoter, for whose death Mrs. Peete was convicted of murder and sentenced to life imprisonment.

NEW BILL TO CUT ARMY TO 115,000 MEN

Appropriation Measure With Drastic Reductions Sent to Congress by Committee; Carries $270,000,000 Total

$116,000,000 Cut From Estimate of Present Year; Act Would Cause "Plucking" of Officers to Number 11,000

WASHINGTON, March 13 (By the Associated Press).—With provisions which would necessitate reduction of the size of the regular army to 115,000 enlisted men and 11,000 officers, the army appropriation bill carrying $270,353.67 was reported today by the House appropriations committee.

The amount recommended for the military and non-military activities of the war department during the coming fiscal year is a reduction of approximately $116,000,000 from the total of the current year, and $87,996,086.80 less than budget estimates.

As drafted by a sub-committee headed by Representative Anthony, (Republican), Kansas, the bill would require the return to the United States by next July of all troops stationed in China, 6500 men from Hawaii, about 2000 men from the Panama canal zone, and all but 500 officers and men in the army of occupation on the Rhine.

No limitation is placed on the number of men to be maintained in the Philippines, the committee's report stating, however, that Secretary Weeks believes that under present conditions "some reductions" can be well be in force there.

WITHDRAWALS ARE CONTEMPLATED.

The contemplated withdrawals, it was said, would leave 5000 men in the Hawaiian Islands and a like number in the Canal zone. The present actual strength of the army was given by the committee as about 13,000 officers and 132,000 men, exclusive of 7000 Philippine scouts.

An appropriation of $27,635,260 is recommended for continuance of work on various river and harbor improvements, for which the chief of engineers requested $43,000,000; $12,431,000 for the air service against $15,000,000 requested; and $21,130,200 for the National Guard, about $9,000,000 less than budget estimates.

The committee has recommended $500,000 for the chemical warfare service, declaring that sum sufficient to provide for a "minimum amount of development work and training along lines compatible with present conditions," and for maintaining Edgewood arsenal in good condition. An appropriation of $2,750,000 is recommended for supplies and equipment of the reserve officers' training corps, and $1,800,000 for civilian military training camps.

The bill carries $7,740,090 for the ordnance department to meet, in addition to other expenses, the cost of maintaining a skeleton force at arsenals "to keep alive the knowledge of the methods of manufacture."

The amount carried in the bill for sea coast fortifications, the committee reported, would not provide for any new projects, but would go entirely for maintenance of existing works, and for continuing the construction of a limited number of seacoast guns.

The total recommended for river and harbor improvements, about $15,000,000 less than the amount sought by the chief of engineers, is carried as a lump sum, and projects on which work would be continued are not specified. None of the appropriation would go to the new projects, however.

The subsistence of the army, the committee recommended, would cost $16,550,000, approximately $13,000,000 less than last years' item, the decrease being brought about by a reduction to 30 cents per ration.

The sub-committee, which spent three months in holding hearings and framing the bill, reported that "the excessive cost of maintaining the regular army over pre-war expenditures" was found to be largely due to the "expensive methods of its administration."

"It seems to be the fixed policy of the general staff to station full divisions in Hawaii and Panama," the report said. "Except in times of emergency, it is not believed such a policy is justified, as it will cost as much to maintain these two divisions as our entire regular army cost us in the years following the Spanish war."

Commenting on the cost of maintaining troops on the Rhine, the committee calls attention to Germany's failure to pay the cost. The committee also declared that "no adequate reason has been shown for the maintenance of any troops in China."

ALASKA ROAD REPAIR PROVIDED.

An appropriation of $425,000 is recommended for the construction, repair and maintenance of roads, bridges and trails in Alaska. A provision also is carried that if the appropriation for this purpose for the fiscal year beginning July 1, 1923, is not made prior to March 1, 1923, the secretary of war may authorize the Alaska board of road commissioners to incur obligations for the purpose of not to exceed 75 per cent of the appropriation for the coming fiscal year.

An appropriation of $55,000 is recommended for construction of additional wards at Letterman General hospital, San Francisco; $262,000 for general construction work at Camps Dix, Meade and Lewis; and $198,000 for additional quarters for guards at the Fort Leavenworth, Kan., disciplinary barracks.

'Kid' Wedge of Harvard Held In Drunk Case

WATERTOWN, Mass., March 13.—The arrest for intoxication of Frederick R. Wedge, student at the Harvard graduate school of education, was a matter of formal record in the district court here today. The police blotter containing the latest entry in hte spectacular career of "Kid" Wedge, Wisconsin lumberjack, prize fighter, University of Arizona graduate, school principal and student of educational psychology, was brought into court, but the subject of the entry was not. In accordance with the practice in this town, the prisoner was released without arraignment, as a first offender.

Wedge, 42 years old, attracted national attention recently when he was admitted to the Harvard graduate school, a man of letters who had fought his way up from the secondary prize fights. He was in a lunchroom here early this morning, the center of a disturbance, when a policeman was called.

At Harvard University today it was said an inquiry would be made into the facts.

FAST SPEEDWAY IS PLANNED HERE

R. C. Durant and Associates Propose Auto Racing Bowl In or Near Oakland.

By JIM HOULIHAN.

The fastest speedway in the world, a mile and a half in circumference, is to be erected in or near Oakland before the close of this year by a company which is to be headed by R. C. Durant. One hundred and twenty miles an hour speed in races of 100 miles or more will be possible on the new racing bowl. Durant stated last night, and the first meet held on it will witness the breaking of existing records for what ever distance is run.

This news, coming at the same time that plans are being discussed by the Hayward Chamber of Commerce for a mile and a quarter track, which has been proposed to the Hayward commercial organization by S. G. Rayl, a San Francisco promoter who was originally interested in the present San Carlos track, is likely to complicate the speedway scheme of the Hayward business men.

There is room for but one course and that one to have any advertising value for the Eastbay community should be faster than any now built. Rayl declares that he can put up one a mile and a quarter in length superior to any one of the four which California now has.

Durant states that his racing experience, extending over a period of ten years, has taught him that the mile and a half course is the ideal size and he adds that the racing oval he will erect will furnish the most spectacular sport motor fans have ever seen.

PRINCE COMING TO CONFER ON PLAN.

The local motor car manufacturer announces that Jack Prince will arrive in Oakland from San Diego next Saturday and that preparations for his new track will be made known after he has conferred with Prince and selects the site upon which it will be built.

That renewed interest in automobile racing has developed throughout the sections in which tracks are located is evidenced by the crowds which flocked to the last 500-mile classic at Indianapolis and also by the multitudes which filled the huge Los Angeles bowl a week ago Sunday. The Indiana affair drew 125,000 people through the turnstiles while the Southern California 250-mile contest on March 5 as the magnet for 75,000 spectators. The initial attraction on the San Francisco speedway last December is reputed to have had an audience exceeding 35,000.

Although Durant had announced his retirement as a driver, it is believed he may take just one more fling behind the wheel of a racing car. He is building two more 183 cubic inch cars and has engaged Ralph De Palma to supervise their construction and make certain no high-powered juggernaut now on the can equal them in competition. Durant already has Milton under his wing and Milton's ability is well known to race followers. The latter captured the American racing championship for 1921 and is off to a fast start for a repeat performance in 1922. His victory at Los Angeles in the first race this year has given him a decided lead over the other stars of the speedway. De Palma probably will fly the Durant colors this year as will one other

Labor Loses Fight On Kansas Tribunal

BY UNITED PRESS
LEASED WIRE TO TRIBUNE.

WASHINGTON, March 13.—The constitutionality of the Kansas court of industrial relations, an innovation in the warfare between capital and labor, was allowed to stand by the supreme court today.

The high court declared it was without jurisdiction to review the decision of the Kansas supreme court, upholding the court in an attack made by Alexander Howat, president of the miners, and other labor leaders.

PACT BATTLE RAGES ROUND HUGHES NOTE

Johnson and Borah Challenge State Secretary's Claims of Authorship; Lodge in War With Irreconcilables

"If He Wrote Treaty Why Did He Draw Up Reservation First?" Borah Asks; Californian Scores "Alliance"

WASHINGTON, March 13.—(By the Associated Press).—The query "Who wrote the four-power Pacific treaty and its supplemental agreements?" persisted in the Senate debate on the pact today, despite Secretary Hughes' letter taking the responsibility on himself.

In the course of the argument, Senator Borah, Republican, Idaho, declared that circumstances surrounding the reservation attaches to the treaty by Hughes when it was signed presented, in his opinion, the most conclusive proof that somebody else wrote the treaty."

CLASH MARKS JOHNSON'S BROADSIDE ON TREATY.

The Idaho Senator's assertion, coming in the midst of a broadside against the treaty by Senator Johnson, Republican, California, led to a sharp passage between the two irreconcilable leaders and Senator Lodge of Massachusetts, floor leader and a member of the arms delegation.

Both Borah and Johnson later insisted they had not meant to reflect on the veracity of Hughes.

The authorship of the pact came to the front when Senator Johnson asserted that "before the ink was dry" on the treaty itself, Hughes prepared and had the delegates sign a reservation relating to the mandated islands of the Pacific. Senator Lodge interrupted to say that the reservation was really signed before the treaty.

"AMERICAN DELEGATION UNCERTAIN:" JOHNSON.

"So much the worse," responded Senator Johnson. "We sign first a correction of a treaty and then the treaty itself. The American delegation was so uncertain about the meaning of the treaty that they first executed an explanation."

"The delegation was not doubtful," retorted Senator Lodge.

"But you deemed this reservation necessary?"

"Certainly we thought it proper. We thought it undesirable to leave a doubt on that point."

"Who wrote the treaty with a doubt in it?"

"There wasn't any doubt in our minds, but we thought that there might be someone who would find fault."

Senator Borah interjected a question as to why the point was not settled in the treaty itself.

"Mr. Hughes has stated," said Borah, "that he wrote this treaty. Why, then, did not the idea come into Mr. Hughes' mind when he was writing the treaty to include the provisions which concern the mandated islands? To me it is the most conclusive proof that somebody else wrote the treaty."

This statement brought Senator Lodge immediately to his feet protesting against "an impeachment of Mr. Hughes' veracity."

"I'm not greatly concerned about the veracity of Mr. Hughes or any? body else," replied Senator Borah. "But he said he wrote this treaty and I don't see why if Mr. Hughes wrote it it was necessary for him to rewrite it at the same time."

PACT IS "QUADRUPLE ALLIANCE": JOHNSON.

Assailing the four-power treaty as a "quadruple alliance," Johnson told the senate that its ratification would mean not only a recession from American tradition but a national surrender under threat of foreign powers.

If the statements of the treaty's friends are to be accepted, Senator Johnson declared, and abrogation of the Anglo-Japanese alliance is to be regarded as chief purpose of the four-power arrangements then the only conclusion is that the United States must enter the "new alliance" to escape a threat of danger because of the old.

"NO ALLIANCE REQUIRED FOR CONSULTATION."

"From the beginning of the contest concerning the league of nations, some of us have contended to make plain that our position was not one of aloofness or isolation for the United States," he said. "We neither expect nor wish to live a hermit nation. I believe in consultations and conferences among the nations of the earth. No leagues are required for this; no alliances; no engagements to devise efficient means to meet aggression; no freezing of the status quo by ambiguous treaties, so that wronged peoples will be forever without redress.

"Openness, frankness, the sunlight of publicity alone are required. To just this sort of thing we looked forward in the limitation of armaments conference. The President himself really thought, when he addressed the senate and presented the treaties, that the conference had been conducted in this fashion. In multiplicity of his duties he could not know all that transpired. He evidently was not aware that in all the minutes presented there is nothing concerning the quadruple alliance. Indeed, there has never been greater

1200 Men Shot Down, 2200 Captured in Africa Mine War

FALL OF CAPITAL IS AVERTED

LONDON, March 13.—(By the Associated Press).—An agency despatch from Johannesburg this afternoon says:

"Through the capture of spies and documents it was learned that the money for the 'red revolution' came from abroad.

"It is expected that peace will soon be restored."

(By United Press)

JOHANNESBURG, Union of South Africa, March 13.—"We have the situation well in hand," a telegram from General Jan. C. Smuts, premier of the Union of South Africa to the government, announced today. Smuts is here.

In the Rand mine war, which flared up Friday and Saturday, more than 2200 strikers had been rounded up by government troops and casualties of 200 killed and 1000 wounded had been reported.

After savage fighting, troops which had been brought into action recaptured Benoni and Brakpan, which had been held by the rebels since Friday afternoon.

The encounter at Benoni was a particularly bloody one, the miners murdering their prisoners and setting fire to buildings before being driven out at the point of the bayonet.

Recapture of these two towns relieves a situation which had threatened to end in the fall of Central Johannesburg by the miners.

General Smuts arrived here yesterday and went at once to the troubled areas at the extremities of the Rand. He had a narrow escape, his car being fired upon and struck by bullets. The premier was unhurt.

REBEL ATROCITIES REPORTED.

Rebel atrocities at Boksburg were reported. It was announced they were in retaliation for the bombing of a crowded hall, where a miners' meeting was being held. The use of airplanes by the authorities had inflamed native opposition.

In the capture of Brixton Ridge portion of the Rand, airplane, artillery and infantry were used. Miners were swept from positions they had captured from the police but only after a desperate battle. They clung tenaciously until an artillery barrage blasted their shallow trenchces and hand grenades and bombs from the air drove them out.

An infantry charge resulted in more than 2000 of them being surrounded and captured. Many natives and white miners leaders were killed.

An official communique was issued. It read:

In fighting for possession of Johannesburg yesterday, before arrival of government reinforcements, miners almost completely surrounded the town and launched repeated attacks, which were beaten off by the police. The strikers made desperate attempts to seize Johannesburg in order to cut communications with Pretoria.

MACHINE GUNNERS ARE BOMBED.

An Irish club was seized by government troops and its members placed under arrest on suspicion they were implicated in fomenting the present trouble.

Radicals throughout the Rand district have seized upon the gold miners' strike to stir up the natives against the local government and what began as a mine war grew quickly to assume the proportions of a revolution.

Reinforcements which arrived to aid the constabulary have been turned back by the natives from Johannesburg. Only their timely arrival saved the union here. A detachment of police at Ellis Pork were nearly forced to capitulate to the enemy.

Airplanes have been used successfully in attacks against miners. At Brixton Bridge an aviator probably saved the lives of about 100 police who had been captured. He flew over the ridge where the miners surrounded their prisoners and let drop four bombs. The natives broke and ran in all directions.

Fighting Saturday added over 100 to the death roll, which totalled over eighty for Friday, and Sunday's casualties have not been fully reported.

Boers Use Strike As Weapon to Overthrow British

THE trouble at Johannesburg and vicinity is the result of a three months' strike in the Transvaal gold mines.

The native workers, led by whites, struck to obtain higher wages and better conditions in the mines.

Disloyal Boer chieftains seized the opportunity to use the dissatisfied natives in a minor revolt against the government. It is an attempt to restore a Boer government in the Transvaal.

The native miners are easily inflamed and led and the trouble began with attacks upon police constables guarding mines near Johannesburg.

When it was seen that the trouble threatened to develop into a serious revolt, government troops were rushed to the relief of the police.

WOES OF BRITISH CABINET MULTIPLY

By ED L. KEEN.
United Press Staff Correspondent

LONDON, March 13.—The coalition government, leaderless for the moment while Lloyd George is on a holiday in Wales, today was faced with a series of crises which threatened its downfall.

Trouble in India, in the Transvaal, in the Near East and at home confronted the already shaky Lloyd George ministry.

A hurried call for Lloyd George to return to the helm of the badly battered ship of state has been sent out, it was reported. The premier might start back for London today, it was said.

Anticipated trouble in India, where scarcely repressed revolt has been intensified by the arrest and arraignment of Gandhi, began with the slaying of two natives in the Hardoi district following rioting. Gandhi and a banker arrested with him pleaded guilty to the charges of sedition. Fears are expressed that Sikhs in the Punjab district, many of whom have deserted to join revolutionary bands, may mutiny. The first troubles since the arrest of Gandhi occurred in the agricultural districts.

The Turco-Greek trouble has broken out again in the Near East, and this, in view of the forthcoming allied conference regarding policies towards these countries, will prove extremely embarrassing to Great Britain, which has backed Greece.

Mass meetings in London yesterday showed that the industrial situation here is approaching a crises which would imperil the government even if events abroad were settled. Unless an agreement is reached by March 25, 600,000 workers will be added to the ranks of England's unemployed.

Coal Strike Certain, Government Fears

WASHINGTON, March 13.—Government officials were represented today as being without hope that the threatened coal strike can be averted, or that the proposed conference between the operators and miners would arranged.

It was indicated that government intervention, at least in the preliminaries of the situation, was practically at an end.

Holding that a strike call April 1 is almost inevitable, government officials, according to the view presented today on high authority, now are chiefly interested in seeing that a sufficient supply of coal is maintained for the country as a whole.

"The degree of the government's intervention in this strike situation," a high official said today, "must be determined by the extent of the public inconvenience and suffering which is caused by the strike." It was intimated that the government did not propose to enter upon any attempt to force a conference.

Body Found in Bay, Foul Play Feared

The body of an unidentified man, apparently a soldier, and believed by Coroner Grant D. Miller to be the victim of a murder, was found floating in the estuary at the foot of Fourteenth avenue late today. Police detectives and operatives from the coroner's office, who are making a detailed examination of the body, declared that there is no doubt but what the man met with foul play.

The body was found by John Bower, 1731 Eleventh street, who notified the police. The man was clad in army breeches and leggings and a navy pea jacket. He wore government issue underwear.

Two teeth, which apparently had been knocked from the front of the man's mouth, was given by police as their reason for suspecting that he might have been murdered. The body gave evidence of having been in the water for some time.

Gandhists Burn Alien Made Goods In Demonstration

LONDON, March 13.—Press despatches from Madras, Bombay, Calcutta and Lahore agree that there was little excitement in India over the arrest of the non-cooperationists' leader, Gandhi, which had long been expected.

The Morning Post's Madras correspondent reports that the Gandhists there organized a meeting and made a bonfire of foreign-made cloth.

Premier Lloyd George will make a statement in parliament upon the political unrest in India as soon as he returns from his vacation at Criccieth, Wales. A despatch from the Welsh town quoted the premier as saying that he could "only answer the assertions of E. S. Montagu, former secretary for India, upon the floor of the House of Commons."

ARBUCKLE CASE TALESMEN GONE

17 Summoned on Panel Fail to Show in Court and the Trial Is Delayed.

By ELLIS H. MARTIN.
International News Service Staff Correspondent.

SAN FRANCISCO, March 13.—Failure of fourteen members of the jury panel to report today brought to an abrupt halt the third trial of Roscoe ("Fatty") Arbuckle for manslaughter when the film comedian was arraigned before Judge Harold Louderback.

Assistant District Attorney U'Ren removed adjournment until 2 p. m. this afternoon, when a roll call disclosed the absence of the prospective jurors. Bailiffs were instructed to go out and bring in the missing talesmen.

Both sides announced their readiness for trial when the case was called. Arbuckle wore a blue sport suit today and was accompanied into court by his wife and her mother, Mrs. Durfee.

CONFERENCE IS MYSTERY.

Some mystery surrounded a conference held in Judge Louderback's chambers prior to the opening of the trial at which Assistant District Attorney U'Ren and Nat Schmulowitz of defense counsel were present.

Judge Louderback suggested that the selection of the jury might proceed while the fourteen missing jurors were rounded up but U'Ren refused although Gavin McNab, chief of counsel for Arbuckle, offered to go ahead.

The absence of the jurors drew caustic comment from Judge Louderback who indicated severe penalties might be imposed if it developed their absence was a case of "dodging jury duty."

The bailiffs were instructed to find the absentees and bring them into court regardless of their excuses.

Bank Runner Robbed Of $13,500; 2 Shot

PHILADELPHIA, Pa., March 13.—Robert McGirr, a bank runner, was held up and robbed of $13,500 as he left the Southwestern National Bank at Broad and South streets this afternoon. Two men waylaid and blackjacked McGirr. In the chase which followed two policemen and one bandit were shot. One of the policemen is said to be in a serious condition. The robbers' automobile was pursued more than a mile before the men were caught and the money recovered.

veteran, whose name is being withheld.

WORK QUIETLY ON PROPOSED PROJECT.

Durant and Prince have been working quietly for some months on the proposed Eastbay project, and public announcement has been deferred because of Durant's close attention to his motor car manufacturing interests.

The dreams for a California racing circuit which the managers of the Los Angeles, Fresno and Cotati courses have discussed for the last six months may be realized with the erection of the track on this side of the bay. The existence of such a circuit probably would mean two races a year for each of the tracks on stated dates and the assurance to lovers of high speed of a meet once every thirty days somewhere in the state.

The estimated cost of the mile and a half track will run in the neighborhood of $250,000 exclusive of the land it will occupy.

With Durant's declaration that he will construct a board saucer without delay the outcome of tonight's meeting in Hayward will be watched with interest by motor car men around the San Francisco Bay.

HAYWARD TO ACT ON RAYL'S PROPOSAL.

HAYWARD, March 13.—Acceptance or refusal of the proposal of S. G. Rayl, former automobile racing driver, to construct the largest and fastest speedway in the world in or near Hayward will, it is expected, result from a meeting of the board of directors of the Camber of Commerce, to be held here tonight. W. T. Knightly, banker; W. H. Daniels, automobile dealer, and M. J. Madison, of the Prune and Apricot Growers' Association, have been investigating Rayl's proposal and will report their findings to the board tonight.

While Rayl's project has not definitely been endorsed, it has been favorably received by business men here, and it is believed that the support of the chamber will be given if the plant appears feasible. Rayl proposes the construction of a mile and a half speedway, to be the fastest in the world. He declares that Hayward is ideally situated for auto racing. George Sheldon of the Oakland Uptown Association has pledged the support of Oakland should Hayward decide to undertake construction of the bowl.

Albert Waddell, former Western representative of the American Automobile Association and at present with the association's speedways, will attend this evening's meeting.

Appointment of a permanent secretary for the Chamber will be another subject considered by the board this evening. Hal P. Angus, local business man, and D. W. Pledson, former captain in the Eighteenth Engineers in the World war, are the most prominent candidates. Angus declared today that he is a candidate partly because he does not believe that the position should go to an "outside man." E. A. Hey, president, of the board, recently stated that to secure the services of such a man is not the inteitno of the Chamber.

BOX CAR TRAPS PRISONER WHO ESCAPES JAIL

REDDING, Calif., March 13.—The open door of a box car on a siding at Garber, Saturday, offered haven to George Temple, alleged mail robber, who tunneled to liberty with his companion, W. H. Browning, two hours after they were placed in the Dunsmuir jail Friday.

But the box car proved a stouter prison than the jail. A brakeman slammed and locked the door. Officers heard Temple's efforts to get out and arrested him. He admitted his identity when brought here yesterday and confronted by his companion, who had been recaptured the day before.

The pair will be taken to Sacramento.

secrecy concerning any document submitted to our people.

"It is true that two distinguished members of the senate were members of the conference. It is obvious from their statements upon the floor that they know little or nothing concerning its making. The treaty is presented to the senate without word or explanation and with a denial of any information."

Quoting the statement of Senator Lodge, Republican leader and a member of the armaments delegates that abrogation of the Anglo-Japanese alliance, is the "main object" of the treaty, Senator Johnson asked whether it were true that the United States "had something to sell and we were compelled by those to whom we were to sell it to accept the price they fixed."

He reviewed the efforts of the London conference to set aside the alliance and quoted Premier Lloyd George's statement to parliament regarding "merging" of the alliance into an understanding including the United States."

"TO GET RID OF AN OBNOXIOUS ALLIANCE."

"If we credit the assurances solemnly given us by both governments," continued Senator Johnson, "then there is neither threat nor danger nor menace to us in any alliance between Britain and Japan. Have we entered into partnership with them because we did not believe their protestations, and feared they might at some future time join forces against us."

"The fact is that Britain had an irksome alliance. Her people would not permit its renewal. Japan would not consent to its abrogation. They came to Washington. Britain was determined to get rid of an obnoxious alliance and succeeded. Japan was determined to get something as good, and got something better.

ARTICLE TWO COMPARED TO ARTICLE TEN.

"The discussion upon this treaty illustrates the infinite variety of the human mind. The curtain has only just been rung down upon the league of nations. The storm center there was an obligation not unlike that here implied. If article X touched us so deeply that in honor bound we would have been required to act upon the advice of the council then Article 2 of the national alliance does all these things.

"How strange it is now to hear some of the proponents of this treaty contemptuously say its article two cannot harm us because we can act only under constitutional sanction and congress alone can declare war. How we were thrilled by the same gentlemen when they were engaged in the delicate task of safeguarding American rights under the league of nations. Then they demanded a reservation to article X, by which the final determination of any action should be with congress. Today they talk of constitutional sanction under which no action could be taken until congress decrees it.

"Now the label is changed. That which was once Democratic policy has become Republican policy. What I believed menacing and dangerous to the republic under Democratic rule, I decline to accept under Republican rule.

"If they purpose here to provide merely for consulation, the masters of English who wrote this treaty would have said so. But, after the communication among the parties, there is yet something to be done. The communication is for a definite purpose and that purpose is 'to arrive at an understanding.'

"Now, assume on aggression from an outside power. Communications pass among the parties. The parties reach an understanding and if the aggression be an armed aggression, of course there can be but one conclusion, to meet it and defeat it.

"WHO IS CERTAIN WHAT TREATY MEANS?"

"Our friends on the other side say that after thus agreeing, any one of the parties may 'quit' or 'scuttle and run.' Then contend that there is no legal or moral obligation for subsequent action. There may be no legal obligation but surely there is some obligation, call what you will, to execute the means agreed upon.

"Who is certain what the treaty means? Certainly not our representatives, for so doubtful of its meaning were they, that at once they endeavored to construe its intent with a reservation. Not our President, for his view was at variance with the view of all the signatories. Perhaps Mr. Balfour, who with the treaty in his pocket, as the press tells us, was royally welcomed in England. Perhaps the Japanese premier who, speaking of the new alliance, characterized it as a quadruple entente.

"Oh, yes, Great Britain and Japan seem to know what the treaty means. Theirs is the knowledge, and theirs the rejoicing."

Bulgaria Apologizes For Legation Blast

SOFIA, Bulgaria, March 13.—The police today are searching for the person or persons who bombed the United States legation on Saturday night. The building was only slightly damaged, and American Minister Wilson was absent at the time. The Bulgarian government has apologized to the American diplomat, and promised that every effort will be made to find and punish the guilty person or persons.

WASHINGTON, March 13.—The only official message reaching the State Department regarding the explosion in the American legation at Sofia was a cablegram sent by Minister Wilson. The message said the explosion occurred in the chancery of the legation at 8 o'clock in the evening, breaking all the chancery windows and doing some additional damage, but that no one was injured.

Painter Slugged By Mysterious Foe

Harry Brown, a painter, attacked last night by unidentified assailants, was found lying unconscious at the corner of Thirty-sixth street and San Pablo avenue early today.

He was found by Policeman E. Hull. Brown was suffering from a fractured skull and from severe cuts about the head.

At the hospital Brown revived sufficiently to tell the attendants his name and business, but he lapsed back into unconsciousness before he was able to tell what had occurred.

An examination of Brown's injuries disclosed that he had been beaten with a blunt instrument. Robbery does not appear to have been the motive, as Brown's wallet, containing $50, was still in his pocket.

Girl's Escort Hit In Jaw by Assailant

Attacked by a man at Twenty-third street and Broadway last night while he was escorting a young lady home, Walter Frederick is at the Emergency hospital today suffering from a broken jaw. Frederick told Police Inspectors Joseph Enright and William Haldeman, who questioned him at the hospital, that after delivering the blow, the man ran down Twenty-third street.

The injured man refused to divulge the name of the young woman and said that he did not know the name of his assailant. He said that the stranger walked up from behind and struck him on the jaw. Frederick told the police that he believed the man was a friend of the girl and was jealous of him because he was taking her home.

PIEDMONT NABS 43 IN DRIVE TO CURB SPEEDERS

PIEDMONT, March 13.—Speed cops were on the job here yesterday in a special campaign to reduce the menace of reckless automobile driving. Forty-three arrests were made.

Most of the arrests were made on Grand avenue at Oakland avenue. The arresting officers were Sergeant F. W. Heer and Patrolman R. M. Beagle.

A policeman's "trap" was set to catch the reckless drivers. An officer was stationed at one corner and when a machine passed he would signal to an officer further along the avenue. The machine was timed by a stop watch in the hands of the second officer.

The arrests were made between 2 and 6 p. m. A similar wholesale arrest of speeders was made earlier in the year. On that occasion 12 arrests were made.

The Opening of our New Suit Department on the Main Floor

Our Suit Department has outgrown its quarters on the second floor. There is no opportunity for expansion there because of the insistent demand for more space from the Coat and Dress Departments. Consequently we are opening a new Suit Department, occupying one-third of our Main Floor space, affording us ample facilities for carrying one of the largest and most varied Suit stocks in San Francisco. And the larger the stock we carry, the finer the values we can offer.

THE WOMEN'S DEPT.

The enlarged stock room and selling space which the Main Floor department offers mean a tremendous expansion in the Women's Suit stock. We have always carried a wide variety of models, but we are now able to show an almost unlimited selection of styles, with complete size ranges in nearly every model. You cannot help but find just the suit you want in the size you want it.

THE MISSES' DEPT.

At last we are able to develop adequately our Misses' Department. We have always carried a very fine stock of suits for misses and small women, but our inadequate quarters on the second floor prevented proper display and emphasis. Now, with increased space enabling us to carry an even larger stock, we will have a Misses' Department second to none.

BODIES OF FAMINE VICTIMS FOUND IN STACKS IN RUSSIA

Secretary Hoover Receives a Gruesome Report of Conditions in Soviet Land.

WASHINGTON, March 13.—Tangled heaps of frozen corpses, some attacked by starved dogs, sickness, dirt and cold in the Volga Valley are described to Secretary Hoover in a nightmare picture of the famine districts of Soviet Russia drawn by Dr. Thomas H. Dickinson, of the American Relief Administration, in a special report on conditions there.

Dr. Dickinson made a month's tour of the Volga Valley and the foothills of the Urals, traveling 4,000 miles by rail, auto and sledge, inspecting 150 villages on the snow covered steepes. In his report to Mr. Hoover, Dr. Dickinson gave the bare and gruesome details of his observations.

"Losses from famine in Soviet Russia," he said "come under the heads of emigration, disease and death. Emigration from the villages now rises to about 30 per cent. Houses are deserted, not a dog, cat, or pig left, with snow breaking through the roofs and windows. Smoke comes from the chimneys of not more than half the houses. Traveling on the roads one comes across pathetic caravans, father, mother, grandparents and samovar. When camel or horse falls sick they leave him to die on the open plain. Sick persons sit on top of the the sledges and are taken to town to die.

DISEASE GENERAL.

"Disease is general. Swollen bellies of children are so common as to no longer excite remark. The characteristic expression of childhood in Russia is that of a person 'sore at life.' I have learned to dread going into a room full of children. They all look up at me accusingly, bitterly, as if I had done it. They are born with resentment in their hearts.

"So many are already dying that they are burying them in wagon loads. They take off the clothes of the dead, throw them into boxes, put snow on the bodies to freeze them, then transport them in piles to the cemetery. There, twice a week, they are thrown in great holes, crosswise, packed closely. Dogs have become a menace and attack piles of bodies in droves and dig into graves. Dead children, starved to death are left outside in open ways in piles, covered with rags until they can be hauled away."

DOGS GNAW DEAD.

From his notes Dr. Dickinson described a burying ground near Samara, where the dead, gnawed by dogs, were piled in frozen mounds until thrown into great excavations.

"There were three great holes," he continued, "ten by twenty feet and eighteen feet deep. Around these were piles of frozen naked bodies, men women, and children who had died of typhus and hunger. Dogs had been at some bodies and these were bloody. The dogs were driven away, all terribly emaciated and contorted into all shapes of grotesque agony.

"As one sees the lopsided houses of the Russian villages, the gnarled, skin clad bones of the famine corpses, one seizes the dominant motifs of the new Russian art. There was an unreality about these corpses that made it seem appropriate to discuss anything in their presence, cabarets, soda-water, futurist verse.

"In piles they were badly tangled up and had to be released like stiff puzzles. Dropped into the graves they made noises like wooden things of the same weight and shape. They had been men, women and children. About fifty come every day."

Antigonish Ghost Electrical Force, Scientist Thinks

BOSTON, Mass., March 13.—Edward J. O'Brien, scientist and author, declared today that the ghost of Antigonish was in reality the product of electrical energy. After a month's investigation in the Nova Scotia country, where he was lecturing at St. Francis Xavier university when the ghost stories first came from Antigonish, O'Brien said he found that strong wireless currents between the two great radio stations at Wellfleet, Mass., and Glace Bay, N. S., ran through the valley at Caledonia Mills, where stands the home of Alex MacDonald, scene of the errie events.

"The MacDonalds," said O'Brien, "will have to move their house out of range of these powerful radio currents if they wish to avoid the ghostlike incidents. If not the house may be burned down when the atmospheric conditions are just right, as they apparently were when the fires were set around the barn."

The braiding of the tails of the MacDonald cows, which has been considered another of the manifestations of the unseen influence, was done by Mary Ellen, the Antigonish farmers's foster-daughter, because it was good fun, in the opinion of O'Brien.

Harold Whidden, the reporter who had experiences of his own when he went to investigate those of the MacDonald family, continued O'Brien, "was completely carried away by his enthusiasm and really believed that a ghost slapped him."

"Whidden slapped his own face when he suddenly waked in a temperature of 25 below zero and his numbed arm became suddenly suffused with good warm blood," O'Brien said.

O'Brien predicted that Dr. Walter Franklin Prince, New York, director of the American Society for Scientific Research, who has spent the past week in the "haunted house," would fail to find any other causes of the phenomena.

COMMENT FAVORS AMERICAN CLAIM IN REPARATIONS

LONDON, March 13 (By the Associated Press).—Although America's claim to priority of payment for the upkeep of the United States army in the Rhineland has been featured in the news columns, the first extended comment appeared today.

The Daily Chronicle, under the caption "America's Bombshell," says: "Intrinsically the claim is not unreasonable, and if the practical effect is to make some of our continental friends less zealous to prolong the occupation of German soil this would be quite as much to the taste of British public opinion as to American."

MORAL CLAIM UPHELD.

The newspaper admits it may be urged that, as the United States is not participating in the treaty of Versailles, it has no claim to money collected under that treaty, and that the more correct course would have been to claim it direct from Berlin under its own treaty, but thinks the fact that America undertook the Rhine occupation jointly with the allies "does give her some moral claim for joint reimbursement."

The Westminster Gazette, using the same headline, says that there is not much doubt that every penny the United States takes will have to come out of the allies' share of the reparations.

"America has already intimated that she thinks the whole reparations question a proper subject for discussion at Genoa," adds the Gazette, "and we may properly assume that this sudden and unexpected insistence on her rights is a part of the same policy, and that she wishes the curtain finally rung down on the reparations farce."

GERMANY PLEASED.

The Morning Post's Berlin correspondent says news of the American demand was received there with undisguised satisfaction at the embarrassment it was likely to cause the allies.

The Taglische Rundschau is quoted as saying that the moment has come for Germany to inaugurate an active foreign policy, aiming at obliteration of the treaty of Versailles.

The correspondent ascribes to the newspaper the statement that America's antagonism to France being no longer concealed, the German demands are conquering the enemy world. In conclusion, he quotes:

"Away with control commissions! Away with the reparations betrayal! Away with the locust plague of armies of occupation! Out of your trench, Herr Wirth, and up to the counter attack!"

INDIGO DYE USED 2922 YEARS AGO

LONDON, March 13.—German scientists have discovered that the "navy blue" fashion of today was the vogue among the aristocracy of Egypt long before the days of Cleopatra.

Dr. Rathegen, in the German Chemical Newspaper, says a portion of an Egyptian princess's garment of the period about 1000 B. C. was submitted to a chemical analysis to test the coloring, and the presence of indigo-dye was detected.

Several feminine household goods were examined, including a Babylonian vase of glass and a finger ring made of tin, dating back to about 1000 B. C.

It was found that the vase had been made by means of a shaped mould of clay, the fluid glass being placed on the outside. The glass was opaque.

DRIVER'S CAR SEIZED.

SAN LEANDRO, March 13.—Nicholas Simney, 1406 Fairview street, Oakland, was arrested here Saturday night by Officer J. Newton on a charge of reckless driving. Simney's car was taken from him and parked in a local garage as an assurance of his appearing before the justice's court March 18.

Mellon Opposes Loan Feature of Bonus Bill

WASHINGTON, March 13. — The new soldiers' bonus bill, as drawn by House Republicans, was attacked last night by Secretary Mellon as involving "a dangerous abuse of government credit."

Replying to a request for the treasury's comment on the new bonus bill, Mellon, in a letter to Chairman Fordney of the House ways and means committee, made public by the treasury, sharply criticised the features of the proposed measure providing for loans by banks upon adjusted service certificates as indirect and "forced" borrowing by the government. He suggested that the "direct and regular way" to provide for a paid-up endowment insurance feature would be to authorize insurance certificates with provisions for direct policy loans to be financed by the government. Mellon contended that "it is both dangerous and unwise" to attempt to avoid the cost of the bonus for the time being.

"There is no way," he said, "by which the American taxpayer can avoid the burden, and if a bonus is to be imposed it is far better for all concerned that it be placed upon a direct and definite basis and paid for each year out of current revenues. To do this at this time will necessarily mean the imposition of additional taxes for the purposes.

COST IS ESTIMATED.

The secretary estimated the cost of the bonus under the bill considering each of the possible choices offered to veterans, at more than $1,200,000,000 by January 1, 1926. Whatever form the bonus measure might take, he asserted, would mean a cost to the government of from $300,000,000 to $400,000,000 for the next three or four years and possibly continuing liabilities thereafter of more than $200,000,000 a year until 1943.

Accompanying his letter Mellon transmitted statistical tables prepared by treasury experts showing the varying cost of a bonus according to what percentage of veterans might choose the different plans of payment offered.

Mellon called attention to the fact that the bill makes no provision for raising additional revenue to meet the cost of the bonus, and recalled to Fordney, President Harding's letter of February 16 in which it was suggested that a general sales tax be enacted to provide the necessary funds or the bonus legislation be postponed.

Secretary Mellon's letter, in part, follows:

"The bill makes no provision whatever for sinking fund, amortization or other reserves against either the liability that would be thrown upon the government in 1925, or against the liability on the certificate at the end of twenty years, nor does it make any provision for the payments which would accrue in ordinary course from year to year on account of the death of veterans.

HALF WOULD BORROW.

"The direct cost to the government of a bill carrying these provisions for about 4,500,000 ex-service men is almost impossible to estimate because of the uncertainty as to which of the plans will be chosen and in what proportions. But the government actuary has prepared tables of estimated cost on the assumption that 70 per cent will choose the certificate plan, 23 per cent the farm and home aid plan, 5 per cent the vocational training plan and 2 per cent the land settlement plan. In the calculations as to the cost of the certificate plan, it is assumed that half of the veterans will borrow on their certificates from the banks and default on their loans, in view of the attractive provisions for cash redemption in case of default. * * * It appears from these tables that on the basis assumed by the actuary the total direct cost to the government in the fiscal year 1923 would be $289,954,000; in the fiscal year 1924, $216,440,000; in the fiscal year 1925, $128,013,000, and in the fiscal year 1926, for the most part by October 15, 1925, when the adjusted certificates issued as security for bank loans would have to be redeemed, $515,522,000. This would mean total payments within about three and one-half years of over $1,200,000,000. These estimates take no account of amortization or other reserves against certificates to remain outstanding after the fiscal year 1926, which would add at least $40,000,000 a year to the current charge, or of possible additional costs under the land settlement plan if the reclamation projects therein authorized should be carried through. It is estimated that about $100,000,000 per annum would be required after 1923 if these reclamation projects should be pressed. * * *

COULD REACH BIG TOTAL.

"If all the veterans should choose the certificate plan the total face amount of the certificates would amount to over $4,500,000,000, distributed over twenty years, and that if all the veterans should choose the farm and home plan, the total cost would amount to $2,093,000,000 within the next two or three years.

"Apart from the direct cost of the bill a most serious feature is the provision for bank loans upon adjusted service certificates during the period between its passage and September 30, 1925. The effect of this provision is to transfer the cost of policy loans from the government to the banks, and to place in the banks, to the extent that the ex-service men are able to obtain loans from them, a mass of unliquidated non-negotiable paper, upon which the banks will be unable to realize until 1925. The result would be frozen bank loans and inflation of currency and credit. To the extent that the banks are obliged to make loans on adjusted service certificates, their ability to take care of the demands of business and industry will be correspondingly reduced, and even though the paper accrued by the certificates may not be eligible for rediscount at Federal Reserve banks, the indirect result is certain to be increased borrowings by member banks from the Federal Reserve banks. * * *

SEES SERIOUS ASPECT.

"From the point of view of the treasury, the most serious aspect of these loans on adjusted service certificates is the fact that the loans would be floated at the banks on the credit of the United States. The plan in substance, therefore, involves a dangerous abuse of the government's credit, for it contemplates the issue of a vast amount of government obligations which are non-negotiable and have no present realizable value unless pledged with banks, in which event the obligations become, in effect, two or three notes, which the government would be obliged to pay off in 1925 upon default by the veterans.

"This practically means that cash payments on adjusted service certificates would be financed for the next three years through a forced loan from the banks. . . . From the point of view of the banking system and the general financial situation, it would be far better if a bonus is to be financed by borrowing, for the government to resort to direct borrowing and to provide for direct policy loans on adjusted service certificates from the outset. If congress concludes to adopt a soldiers' bonus with paid up endowment insurance as its chief feature, the direct or regular way would be to authorize insurance certificates with provisions for direct policy loans and the amortization or other reserves that would be required as a matter of sound business policy.

PAYMENTS INVOLVED.

"A certificate plan on this basis, if chosen by all ex-service men eligible to elect it, would, according to the best available estimates, mean an aggregate liability of about $4,500,000,000 and on the basis of a twenty-year maturity would involve the following current charges each year for the next twenty years (1) the payments necessary on account of the maturity of certificates on account of death averaging about $40,000,000; (2) amortization payments, computed at 4 per cent compounded annually, calculated to provide within twenty years for the whole liabilty, averaging about $123,000,000 a year; and (3) provision for direct policy loans from the government on about the same basis as is customarily allowed by life insurance companies, in an amount that would probably average not less than $200,000,000 a year for the first two or three years of the operation of the plan.

"On this basis an insurance plan, standing by itself, would cost at the minimum about $400,000,000 a year for the next few years.

"It is clear from these estimates that whatever form the soldiers' bonus may take it will cost from $300,000,000 to $400,000,000 for the next three or four years, and may involve continuing liabilities thereafter of over $200,000,000 a year until $1943."

SEVEN PERISH IN ATLANTA CRASH

ATLANTA, Ga., March 13.—The sixteen persons injured in the derailment and destruction of an Atlanta, Birmingham & Atlantic passenger coach at Camp Creek early Sunday were pronounced out of danger today and arrangements were being completed for burial of the seven persons killed.

The coach was sent crashing from a trestle into the shallow creek 50 feet below. A broken wheel caused the wreck, according to B. L. Bugg, receiver of the road.

C. T. Elmore, cashier, local station A. B. and A. railroad company.

W. E. McIntosh, Imperial hotel, New York city.

B. C. Driver, Roanoke, Ala.

W. E. Johnson, Birmingham, Ala.

R. W. Lanier, operator, Senoia, Ga.

Mrs. J. H. Etheridge, Atlanta, Ga.

W. M. Brooks, Western Union Telegraph company, Manchester, Ga.

A graphic description of the wreck was given by H. F. Hentz, one of the survivors, who escaped without injury.

An irregular motion of the car just before the trestle was reached was the first indication that something was wrong, he said.

"About five seconds later," continued Hentz, "we suddenly plunged backwards into space. A crash followed and there were screams from portions of the car.

"Those of us who occupied the front section, when we regained our senses, looked for an avenue to escape. An opening was found through the front door. I managed to assist the three women who were with me through the opening and then returned to help others."

Mexico Volcano Forms New Crater

MEXICO CITY, March 13.—A small volcano, which is showing some signs of activity, has been formed within the crater of Popocatepetl, which is situated 26 miles west of the city of Pueblo. Trusses

If you need a truss there is one thing above all else that you must be certain of—that it is accurately and properly fitted. So very much depends upon the fitting that an improperly adjusted truss may be an actual menace.

For many years we have specialized in trusses. Thousands of working men who have suffered from strains have relied upon us to protect them with trusses. This very experience has given us invaluable knowledge.

At both of our stores we maintain expert fitters who study each case carefully and see that exactly the right truss is applied and adjusted.

We even have developed a special type of steel truss that is made only for us and that we have found to have many superior qualities.

Our stock of trusses for men, women and children is complete at all times so that there is no delay in supplying the one that is fitted.

BONUS BILL IS TO BE RUSHED, DESPITE MELLON

Measure to Be Put Through House, Will Meet Delay in Senate.

By LAURENCE M. BENEDICT, United Press Staff Correspondent.

WASHINGTON, March 13.—The House ways and means committee Republicans, wrathy at Secretary of the Treasury Mellon for his letter of advice on the bonus, decided today to ignore him and his recommendations and shove the bill along through the House as scheduled.

Representative Frear, however, with approval of several other members, prepared a letter to Mellon, which was in part prompted by a feeling that Mellon had gone too far in giving Congress advice.

Slight alternations were made in the bill today and the redrafted measure will be introduced before night. Representative Hawes of St. Louis attacked the bonus bill in a statement today, charging that it "proposes to sell the soldier a gold brick to secure his vote."

The alteration is in regard to grants of house and farm aid. Instead of adding 40 per cent to the adjusted pay in case of such a grant, the bill now carries a 25 per cent addition, making it conform to the insurance certificate account.

Despite the fact that the bonus is losing strength daily in the House, its passage there is held certain.

The Senate, however, is busy with the arms conference treaties, and after those are disposed of it has the tariff and a vast lot of other important legislation which must be passed before adjournment.

SAN LEANDRO

REGISTRATIONS IN SAN LEANDRO SET NEW MARK

SAN LEANDRO, March 13.—Registration for the April election of city trustees exceeds that of any held in the past, proving the unusual interest displayed in the choosing of city officials, according to Mrs. Eugene Pike, in charge of the main registration office. Figures arranged by Mrs. Pike show an increase of over 300 registrants above the largest previous number. One of the earlier city elections produced a registration of approximately 1100 persons, while over 1400 persons have signed up for the coming voting day. Registration offices were placed in various parts of the city, but the main office, under the supervision of Mrs. Pike, was located at the Home Supply company.

The present city hall has been used for forty-seven years.

Don't Let That Cold Turn Into "Flu"

Rub Musterole on the Congested Parts

Grippe, "Flu," Pneumonia all start the same way—with a cold.

All colds are congestion and Musterole is a simple counter-irritant which brings circulation back to normal and helps prevent serious developments.

Remember that messy old mustard plaster, how it stung and blistered! It did the work all right, but Oh, it was a stern measure! Musterole has all the healing properties of grandmother's pet remedy without the sting and blister.

Made of pure oil of mustard, camphor, menthol and other soothing ingredients, it has been used by physicians for years for treating "Flu," Lumbago, Grippe, Pleurisy, Rheumatism, Neuralgia, Headache and Pneumonia.

It was used in our training camps during the "Flu" epidemic a few years ago. The Y. M. C. A. sent thousands of jars to France for our soldiers over there.

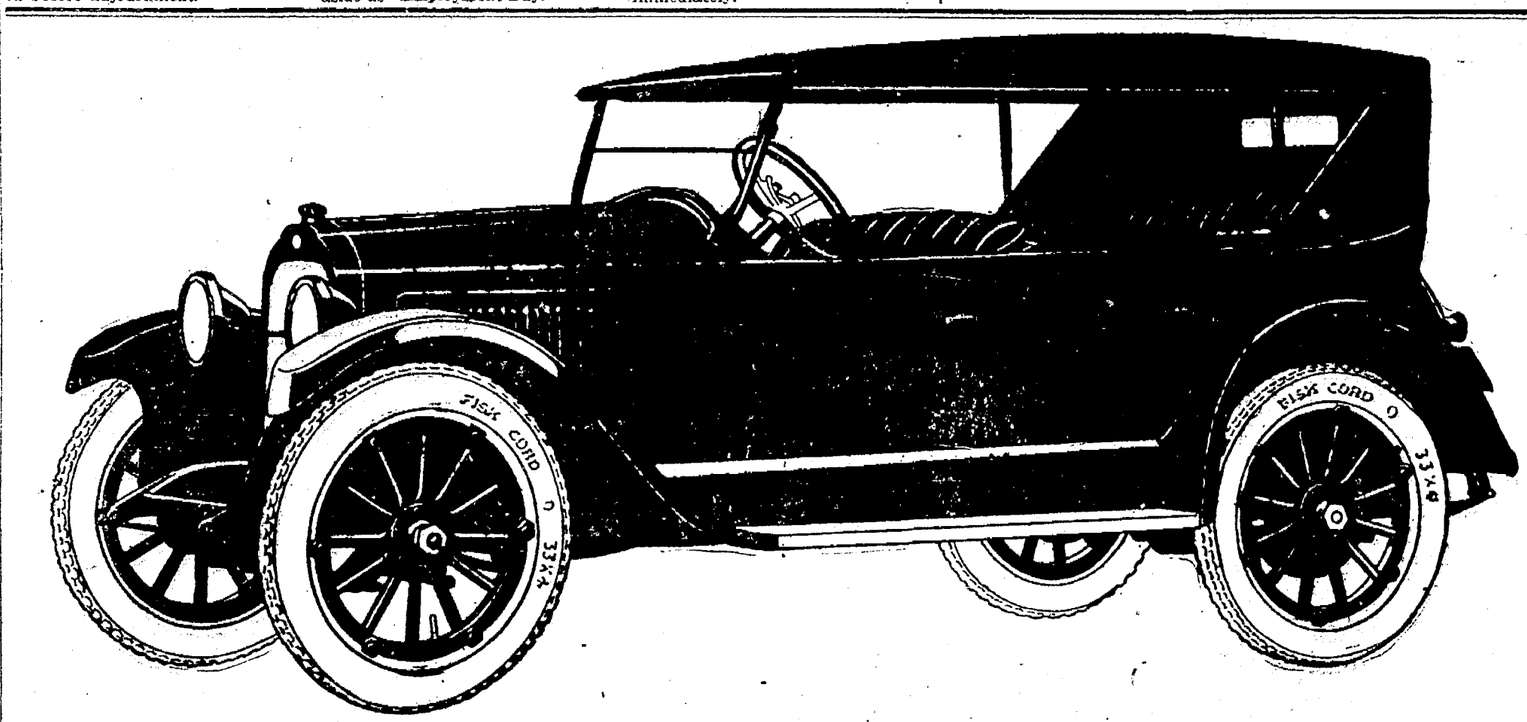

At the first sign of a cold, get out the jar of good old Musterole and rub it gently on the congested parts. You will feel a warm, tingling glow as it goes into the pores. That sensation will be followed by a cooling, soothing feeling that makes you more comfortable right away.

If you have fever, ache all over, take a hot bath, drink plenty of hot water, rub on Musterole, call a doctor and go to bed. Keep warm and get plenty of fresh air. Those are the best precautions you can take against serious sickness.

Keep Musterole always handy on your bathroom shelf. You can buy it at any drug store.

35c and 65c, in jars and tubes. Hospital size $3.00.

SUPREME COURT DECISION DUE ON S. P.-C. P. DRIVE

Government's Appeal on Suit Started Five Years Ago Up for Ruling.

WASHINGTON, March 13.—Proceedings which the United States instituted in the Federal courts of Utah five years ago to divorce the Southern Pacific railroad from control over the Central Pacific will be up for re-argument in the Supreme court this week. The government lost in the lower courts, and in July, 1917, appealed to the Supreme court, where the case was argued last April.

Other cases on the docket for argument during the week include a proceeding against the Winsted Hosiery company, brought by the Federal Trade Commission to test its authority to prohibit alleged mis-branding of product.

Whether the emergency fleet corporation of the United States Shipping board is a governmental agency or in the courts is the same status as a private corporation also will be argued jointly before the Supreme court during the week.

Action is thus expected to go toward settling the question raising from enforcement of dry laws will not early be decided in an appeal brought by Volney Vigilotti against the State of Pennsylvania. The Supreme court will be called upon to decide whether fines and imprisonment imposed under State laws will stand, or whether the Federal prohibition act has superceded all State statutes.

Following the Vigilotti case, the court will hear argument in an appeal brought by the State of Connecticut to determine whether Federal prohibition enforcement officers can be prosecuted under State laws on charges of having accepted bribes to influence their action in prohibition cases. The United States district court for Connecticut held that the Federal government and note the States could prosecute such offenses.

Romantic Diamond Is Purchased by Chinese

LONDON, March 11.—The massive diamond, which once dazzled the eyes of admirers of Gaby Deslys, has passed into the hands of a wealthy Chinese, according to dispatches received from Shanghai.

The famous stone, which weighs 102.63 carats and is over an inch in width, has a romantic history. Centuries old, the stone is said to have glimmered as the eye of an Egyptian goddess in an ancient temple and to have been a motive in some of the smaller wars of world history. More recently it has glittered in the turbans of court beauties.

Recently the jewel was taken from Paris to China, where it was shown to a select group, and eventually purchased for approximately $60,000 by a wealthy Chinese.

Fifteen Minutes of Radio Daily

By Edward M. Davis

If you have—and are interested in the marvelous science of radio communication, a few minutes devoted each day to careful reading of this series of articles will provide the essentials necessary for a thorough understanding of this newest, most interesting and extremely valuable branch of electrical communication.

To understand these articles requires no previous knowledge of radio telegraphy and telephony, the subject matter will describe clearly the elementary and basic principles and lead rapidly to explanations of the highly developed modern equipments and their methods of use.

The intense interest in the latest developments of radio telephony has been stimulated, as never before, by the highly specialized features of the comparatively recent broadcasting operations extending from the New England states to the Pacific coast.

The pleasure of listening to the rich, vibrant tones of our operatic stars in their delightful rendering of arias and songs—the instructive talks by eminent men on vital questions of the day—the stock market quotations the bedtime stories for children—the accurate transmission of time signals by the government station of Radio, Va. (Arlington)—the government forecast of weather for further knowledge of this highly developed science of wireless communication.

The amateur of today is the skilled engineer of tomorrow, striving ceaselessly for new discoveries along technical lines. The man of affairs, attracted first by its novelty, realizes on mature deliberation, the flexible and far-reaching possibilities, in trade and commerce and is eager to know how best to use for his purpose the ways and means of sending or receiving messages which travel with the speed of light.

By knowledge of radio communication we understand the manner in which powerful stations on both sides of the Atlantic maintain transoceanic intercourse day and night, and how the electric waves generated by these stations girdle the earth at a speed of 186,000 miles per second, reaching the most distant points, so that nations widely separated geographically, have close contact through the mutual knowledge of daily happenings by virtue of this bond of electrical communication.

The articles that are to follow, carefully read, will provide a clear understanding of the fundamentals of radio telegraphy and telephony and step by step will explain the varied functions of the present day commercial apparatus.

STARLIGHT

by Idah McGlone Gibson

Virginia Fairfax, daughter of the first families of Virginia, rebels against the puritannical rule of her grandfather and, lured by Filmland, runs away to become a motion picture actress. Arriving in Los Angeles, she meets Gloria Summers, who is in the movies. They become warm friends. Gloria—Ria to her friends—takes Virginia to find work in the movies. At the Service Bureau they see Herbert Richardson, a wealthy young man who has been interested in Gloria. Virginia registered for work and the girls return to their kitchenette apartment. There Gloria tells Virginia the story of Herbert Richardson and the ring he gave her. Gloria shows Virginia some beautiful jewelry given her by Herbert Richardson. Virginia is amazed, especially when she learns that they are not engaged. Gloria explains that it's the game among the people of her world. Virginia cannot grasp the idea. Gloria explains to Virginia how a class of people of great wealth and leisure flock to Los Angeles as the world's playground and cultivate the stars as the elderly women cultivated Herbert Richardson—and gave him jewelry he did not want. Gloria confesses her feeling for Herbert Richardson, who has dropped her friendship. She loves him and yet she hates him as a type of man dangerous to a community.

AN UNINTENTIONAL HURT.

I thought a great deal about what Gloria had told me as I pulled my "built-in" bed from out the dining room buffet.

My life had changed as completely in the last three weeks as that bed which masqueraded as a buffet in the daytime was a change from the old four-poster which my mother and other ancestors had used for centuries way back in old Virginia.

Vaguely I seemed to understand that I had entered into an entirely new world—a world where it is up to the girl every minute—a strenuous world where no one but the girl herself can decide—a world of opportunity beset by dangerous temptation—a world where the girl has to fight not only for her daily bread but for her very soul.

I wondered if Gloria and the girls who, like her, had had to fight these battles over and over had lost any of that feminine charm I had been taught to consider woman's greatest fascination.

True, Gloria had lost every intimation of helplessness, but as I thought of her in her varying moods, I felt that she was the most interesting little creature I had ever met.

I contrasted her with Naomi, my childhood friend, and the picture was so utterly at variance that I laughed aloud. This brought Gloria back into the room.

She was a picture of girlish beauty. There was no charm missing from that radiant face or slender form which was thinly covered by her mull nightdress.

No girl who had lived under the protection of home and family could have had a sweeter expression. She looked as though she might have stepped out of a room that had been forever hemmed about with those who had kept every shadow of adversity and sophistication from her.

Her red brown hair had been brushed until every strand of it crinkled about her face, frame-like.

She looked at me a moment as I was busily twisting my hair about my fingers.

"Oh, your hair is naturally curly! How beautiful!" she exclaimed as she touched one of the curls that was hanging down my neck.

"It is not more beautiful than yours," I answered. "In fact I like yours better; it is so nice and wavy. While mine, you see, just curls up in little wringlets."

"Virgie, you are a constant source of joy to me—you dear child. Don't you know that my hair has been permanently waved?"

"What is that?"

"Oh, it means that it has been baked and toasted for hours while I sat in misery, expecting every moment to be burned by the electric current which heated every little pad about which it was rolled. It cost me $25.00, but thank heaven it last six months. And you may be sure that no matter how hot the day is your hair will not come out of curl in the middle of a picture."

"Must a girl in the movies have curly hair?" I asked rather complacently as I twisted some of mine around my finger.

"Why, my dear child, don't you know that curly hair is about half the stock in trade of a girl who wants to make an impression upon a director. But what were you laughing at as I came in?"

"I was just trying to imagine what Aunt Virginia and grandfather and Eddie Montforth and all the rest would say about me."

"They would undoubtedly say, Virgie, that I was not fit company for you. And yet, I am not sure, Virgie, that I am not better than you are with all your ancestors. You don't know yet what you will do under stress of circumstances—I do. You have never been tempted—I have. And what these people—who know nothing about the temptation which circumstances may bring to some of us—have to say really matters very little to me. I know it is something they do not understand, and because they do not understand it their opinion is worthless."

I saw that I had hurt Ria—although I did not mean to—and I was ashamed that I had even given her cause to think that I was a Pharisee.

"I wasn't trying to find fault with you, Gloria. I was just making the contrast. I want you to know that I hope I shall be like you, and I know you are going to help me a lot. And tonight, when I say my prayers, I shall thank God that he let me find you."

"You're a dear," said Gloria impulsively. She put her arms about my neck and burst into tears.

"Why, Gloria, what is the matter? I would not have made you cry for the world. Surely you know I did not mean to. Tell me I did not hurt you, Ria."

"No, you didn't hurt me. But oh, Virgie! Virgie! I thought he loved me. I wanted him to love me. And Oh, God! pity me—when I saw him today I knew that I still wanted him to love me, even though, I am only on of the fifty-seven varieties," she added flippantly.

"I wonder," and she looked at me intently, "if you're going to be the fifty-eighth."

"Don't you remember, Gloria, that there are only fifty-seven varities; there ain't goin' to be no fifty-eighth," I said with a disregard for grammar that fitted the moment.

Tomorrow—Gloria's Tears.

Tips Won by Good Lookers: Consumers

NEW YORK, March 13.—Efficiency runs second to charm in hotels where tipping prevails, the Consumers' League announced today, after an investigation.

"It is pleasing appearance and manner, rather than service that brings in tips," said the report. "Tips do not increase with efficiency in service and neither do wages."

TEN ARE HURT IN AUTO ACCIDENTS OVER WEEK-END

One May Die; Autoists Held Here for Failing to Aid Injured.

Ten persons, one of whom may die, are suffering from injuries today, and two men are being held by the police to be turned over to the sheriff's office on a charge of failing to render assistance after an accident, as a result of week-end automobile accidents in the bay region.

The injured:

Archibald C. Haskin, San Francisco, advertising manager of the Albers Milling company, fractured skull; will probably die.

Miss Allie Cashe, 1159 Clay street, San Francisco, internal injuries.

Mrs. Francis Silvey, 160½ Fourth street, San Jose; cut by flying glass.

Mrs. Emma Gonsalves, 700 Twenty-ninth avenue, Oakland; cut about the face and body.

Walter Harris, same address; cuts and bruises.

INJURY SERIOUS.

Haskin and Miss Cashe were injured when the automobile in which they were riding collided with a street car at Hollister street and Railroad avenue, San Francisco, last night. Haskins was taken to the Mission emergency hospital, that city, where physicians said that he has little chance for recovery. Both victims were thrown from the machine to the pavement. Police say that Haskins, who was driving the car, either was on the car tracks and ran almost head on into the street car, or swerved to the track just in front of it.

Beloid and Gill were found lying in the road at the San Lorenzo Junction where they had been knocked unconscious by an automobile last night. George White of Madera, a passing motorist, and Wallace Canning, a member of the morals squad of the Oakland police department, who was riding with White, found the men. Canning obtained the license number from a witness.

TWO MEN HELD.

Canning telephoned a description of the car to the central station and Inspectors Joe Enright and Bill Haldeman arrested E. M. Grossi and Everett Plummer at a garage at 433 Washington street. The car bore the same license number as that which witnesses declare struck the two men, according to the police. Plummer and Grossi were taken to the city prison where they are being held. They will be turned over to the sheriff late today.

Mrs. Silvey was cut by flying glass when the automobile which she was driving collided with a street car at Twelfth and Fallon streets, San Francisco, last night.

When her automobile collided with a machine driven by H. H. Miller, 2195 Forty-second avenue, Oakland, Mrs. Gonsalves was badly cut about the head and body. The accident took place at Thirty-fifth avenue and Davis street. Miller was not injured.

Cento was riding a motorcycle when he was struck by a machine at East Fourteenth street and Eighty-first avenue. He told police that the driver of the machine did not stop. He was treated at the emergency hospital.

AUTO HITS POLE.

Miss Harris and Walter Harris were injured in an accident at Second and Salvador streets, San Jose. C. H. Harris of 1729 Everett street, Alameda, brother of the injured woman, was driving a car rented in Oakland. Accompanying him were his wife, their two children, his sister and his mother. Harris was forced to swing out sharply to the right to avoid a collision with a second machine driven by J. R. Halwell, 789 Willis avenue, San Jose. In so doing Harris' car plunged into a telephone pole. Miss Harris was thrown from the car, which was badly wrecked. The other occupants of the machine narrowly escaped injury.

Jackson was injured at San Jose when a motorcycle he was driving crashed into the rear of an automobile driven by S. Kamoto, a Japanese. Jackson's leg was broken at the ankle.

FUNERAL SERVICE TOMORROW FOR MRS. A. C. TELLER

Prominent Alameda Woman to Be Buried From the Family Home.

ALAMEDA, March 13.—Funeral services will be held tomorrow afternoon for the late Mrs. Annie C. Teller, prominent Alameda resident, who passed away at her home, 1819 Central avenue, on Saturday, following a long illness.

For many years Mrs. Teller has been a leader in civic affairs in this city, being one of the important forces in the Adelphian club, a director of the Alameda chapter of the American Red Cross and active in all relief and charitable work.

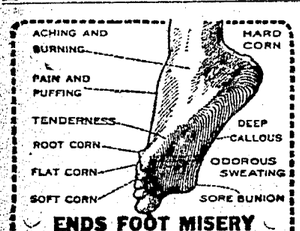

Her husband, Phillip S. Teller, is a director of the Bank of Alameda, past president of the San Francisco Commercial Club and well known in business circles in San Francisco, where he maintains offices at 34 Drumm street.

Although Mrs. Teller has been ill for more than a year her death came as a distinct shock to hundreds of people in Alameda who knew and loved her and had profited by her friendship and through the charitable work she had done.

Among the activities of Mrs. Teller was the free bed ward maintained in the Alameda Sanitarium by the Adelphian club. This was one of Mrs. Teller's principal objects of interest.

She is survived by her husband, a daughter, Mrs. Alice Teller Weinmann, wife of Police Judge L. R. Weinmann; a sister, Mrs. James H. Davis of Piedmont, and a brother, George H. Newman.

The funeral services will be held at the family home at 2 o'clock tomorrow afternoon, with Rev. Henry H. Shires, rector of Christ Episcopal church, officiating. Interment will be private. Mrs. Teller was a native of Pittsburgh, Penn.

QUICK RELIEF FROM CONSTIPATION

Get Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets

That is the joyful cry of thousands since Dr. Edwards produced Olive Tablets, the substitute for calomel.

Dr. Edwards, a practicing physician for 17 years and calomel's old-time enemy, discovered the formula for Olive Tablets while treating patients for chronic constipation and torpid livers.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets do not contain calomel, but a healing, soothing vegetable laxative.

No griping is the "keynote" of these little sugar-coated, olive-colored tablets. They cause the bowels and liver to act normally. They never force them to unnatural action.

If you have a "dark brown mouth" bad breath—a dull, tired feeling—sick headache—torpid liver—constipation, you'll find quick, sure and pleasant results from one or two of Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets at bedtime.

HOW TO GUARD AGAINST APPENDICITIS ATTACK

Appendicitis is an intestinal infection often due to old, retained waste matter. Even though bowels move daily, poisons may accumulate in the system for months. The intestinal antiseptic, Adler-i-ka, acts on BOTH upper and lower bowel and brings out matter which might start an appendicitis infection. EXCELLENT for gas on the stomach and chronic constipation. Adler-i-ka brings out matter which you never thought was in your system. Osgood Brothers, Druggists.—Advertisement.

Get Your Free $1.00 Package of Genuine Yeast Vitamine Tablets from your druggist today.

If you are thin and emaciated and wish something to help you put on flesh and increase your weight

Yeast Vitamine Tablets should be used in connection with organic Nuxated Iron. Without organic iron, both food and Vitamines are absolutely useless, as your body cannot change inert, lifeless food into living cells and tissue unless you have plenty of organic iron in your blood. Organic iron takes up oxygen from your lungs. This oxygenated organic iron unites with your digested food as it is absorbed into your blood just as fire unites with coal or wood, and by so doing it creates tremendous power and energy. Without organic iron in your blood your food merely passes thru your body without doing you any good.

Arrangements have been made with the druggists of this city to give every reader of this paper a large $1.00 package of Genuine Yeast Vitamine Tablets absolutely free with every purchase of a bottle of Nuxated Iron.

BERKELEY, March 13.—"No bridge playing before 10:30 A. M."

This new rule has been added to the regulations of university sorority houses as a result of a card-playing craze which is sweeping the Berkeley campus among women students.

The biggest business in cards ever done by the students co-operative store is reported since the opening of the spring semester. Bridge games flourish during all the free moments of co-eds on all corners of the campus. At the "co-op," bridge games supplement the usual afternoon tea and coffee.

So many devotees has the card game claimed that one sorority house specified the 10:30 a. m. rule covering games. Others have followed suit.

AGED MAN WHO SLAYS SON SAYS HE WAS ATTACKED

SAN JOSE, March 13.—Self-defense will be the plea of 80-year-old Louis Feltin of 418 East Empire street, this city, when he faces a charge of murder as the result of the shooting of his son, Joseph Feltier, 45, in his home her last night, according to a statement from the aged man's cell this morning.

Feltin is the oldest man in the history of Santa Clara county to be charged with murder.

Today he expressed little or no regret over the slaying and appeared cool and collected.

"I didn't mean to kill him," he told The TRIBUNE, "but I just couldn't help it. He tried to knock me down and I grabbed the revolver and fired. I guess I just couldn't miss him. I fired and he dropped. It was a case of self-defense. My son wouldn't purposely have hurt me and I never would have hurt him. It just seems this thing had to be."

The dead man, Joseph Feltin, was married but two weeks ago. He was foreman of the Richmond-Chase cannery here and well known.

The elder Feltin has been a resident of San Jose for forty-five years. He is a native of France.

The argument which resulted in the killing of Feltin started as an outgrowth of the young man's granting permission to Vincent Padilla, a neighbor of the Feltins, to build a chicken coop against a fence separating the homes of the two families.

The aged Feltin had reprimanded Padilla for driving nails into the fence. Padilla ceased work on the coop until later, when Joseph Feltin arrived home from the hospital, where his two weeks' bride was taken, ill from influenza, a few days ago.

Joseph Feltin thereupon told Padilla to "go ahead" with his work, stating that there would be no objection. He then entered his home, where he was met by his father.

The aged man immediately remonstrated with Feltin for allowing Padilla to drive nails into the fence and an argument started.

The father claims that it was during this argument that his son struck at him and kicked him in the hand. He exhibits today a badly torn hand, which he says was caused by the kick inflicted by the son.

"I saw the revolver on the bureau," says the aged slayer, "and he saw it too. We both rushed for it and I beat Joe to it. I turned and fired and he fell. That's all I know about it. I guess it's enough."

Dr. Paul Sanford, city physician, attended the dying man and rushed him to the county hospital, where it was found that all attempts to save Feltin's life would be useless.

Last night's tragedy marked the second in the Feltin family. A daughter several years ago committed suicide by shooting herself.

LANDIS LOVED BY JOURNALISTS

CHICAGO, March 13.—Newspapermen are supposed to stand by and smile at happenings and people in a cynical manner, according to the popular belief. The men assigned by the Chicago newspapers to cover the Federal Building "beat," however, were a little bit different in the case of the retirement of Kenesaw Mountain M. Landis from the Federal bench.

On the famous jurist's last day in court the Federal Building reporters presented him with the following testimonial hand lettered around his photograph on a large plaque:

"JUDGE LANDIS

"For newspapermen the Federal Building will not be the same after you have gone. You will take the life of the joint away with you.

"The good opinion of newspaper reporters is seldom sought, perhaps, but few men can say, as you can, that their departure made the press room blue.

"We've known you for a long time, and we'll miss you for a longer time. Not just because there is 'copy' in your forthright way of doing things, but because we think you are an honest-to-God man and a judge with the right kind of backbone.

If the legislature approves the sale, Mr. Stewart reported, the Americans intend to form a company under Mexican laws to put the land "within reach of small farmers of all nationalities."

The land was said to have great possibilities for farming and stock raising.

The monumental serial was conceived and brought to fruition by Torrey Connor, well-known writer and editor of Oakland, under whose direction the famous authors worked in building the story of "The Trail of the Serpent."

JACK LONDON

For many years the story structure of "The Trail of the Serpent" has been in the process of creating and assembling. The ink is not yet dry on the recent additions to the manuscript—some of the chapters being built up to the last minute of developments in the strange situation that the novel presents.

The theme of "The Trail of the Serpent" is the menace of the narcotic evil, which hangs like a pall over the homes of the people of America. The story is laid in San Francisco bay territory. Among the authors and the roles they assume in the story are the following, each character, in the first person, relating his share of the story. Partial list:

John Grant, reporter, John Northern Hilliard, playwright, author of "The Golden Hope," "Bears' Claws," etc.

Mrs. Carberry, landlady at Seabeach Lodge, Rebecca Porter, author of "The Girl from Four Corners."

Arnold Remson, wealthy dabbler in art; Herman Whitaker, author of "The Planter," "The Settler," "Cross Roads," etc., and Bromley Fowler, short stories.

Dr. Harrison Knox, who knows the ways of narcotics; Charles Caldwell Dobie, author of "The Blood-Red Dawn," "Broken to the Plough"; short stories.

Simms, who sees life through a shop window, Elizabeth Everett, short stories.

Juan Prieta, keeper of the adobe fonda, Charles F. Lummis, author of "Awakening of a Nation," "Pueblo Folk Stories," "Strange Corners of Our Country," etc.

Ben, the Boatman, Shirley Mansfield, sea stories.

Ah Sing, Chinese cook, Charles Caldwell Dobie.

Mary Alice Fitzpatrick, who disappears, Charmian K. London, author of "Hawaii," "Log of the Snark," biography.

QUIET REPORTED BY OIL FIELDS MASKED RIDERS

Grand Jury Investigation Due to Open Tomorrow; Citizens Pack Hardware.

TAFT, March 13.—The prevalent opinion that "goblins 'll git you if you don't watch out" continued to exist here, although, as far as it was possible to learn, there was little or no activity on the part of the Ku Klux Klan or any of the night riders, with white caps and black masks, or other mysterious persons.

There continued to be some difficulty to get at the actual facts because the regular marshal, night marshal and constable were still unavailable and reported out of town, which has been the condition most of the time for two weeks, while the sheriff and district attorney of Kern county, at Bakersfield, continued their policy of silence.

It was understood, however, that there were no activities last night or today.

Business men who had warnings against things it was claimed they either were doing or printing, were about stores and streets as usual, although bulges under their arms and knobby lumps over their hip pockets indicated a good many of them were packing hardware.

While the county authorities at Bakersfield continued to be silent regarding the probable date of reconvening the grand jury, which last Friday began an investigation of the West Side outrages, it was commonly reported the next session would be tomorrow, and that subpenaes were out for about a score of witnesses. The district attorney declined to state whether those to be called would include William Coburn, Los Angeles attorney, and grand goblin of the Knights of the Ku Klux Klan, or anybody else locally known and admitted to be connected with the organized Ku Klux Klan in California.

BERLIN, March 13.—Accompanying the Fifth American Infantry regiment for Antwerp last Friday on the first stage of the voyage to the United States, were thirty-one German brides of soldiers, and eight babies born under the protection of the Stars and Stripes on the Rhine.

It is reported here that the town of Mayer, fifteen miles west of Coblenz, in the American sector, will now receive a garrison of 500 French troops.

Jewish Emigrants Seek Square Deal

NEW YORK, March 13.—The Jewish emigrant asks no exceptions in his favor, but demands that he shall not be discriminated against, John L. Bernstein, president of the Hebrew Sheltering and Emigrant Aid Society of America, declared at its annual meeting today. What is needed, he said, is "an intelligent and humanitarian viewpoint of immigration."

Statistics submitted at the meeting showed that of 107,300 Jewish immigrants who arrived in 1921, 430 were deported.

Cremona Catholics, Socialists in Pact

LONDON, March 13.—A pact of alliance between the Catholics and the Socialists in the province of Cremona was signed Saturday, says a despatch to the London Times from Milan. INDIANS LAUD MONTAGU, SCORE BRITISH POLICY

DELHA, March 13.—(By the Associated Press).—Twenty Mohammedan members of the Indian legislature now here have sent to Prime Minister Lloyd George an emphatic protest against the British government's "deplorable action" in connection with the resignation of Secretary for India Montagu.

The formal business of the legislative assembly Saturday was prefaced by an address in which Dr. H. S. Gour expressed the deep grief of the assembly and of India generally over the resignation of Montagu, whom he characterized as a staunch supporter of the Indian reform scheme and a true friend of India.

YOUNG STUDENT HELD AS SUSPECT IN HART ROBBERY

William Spiez, 19, May Furnish Clews As to Where the Leader Is Hiding.

SAN FRANCISCO, March 13.—The police expressed the belief today that in William Spiez, 19, student at a local business college, who was taken into custody yesterday, they have a possible source of clews that ultimately will lead to the capture of William ("Tommy") Thompson, sought as the leader of the gang of men who robbed the home of Julian Hart, Menlo Park millionaire, of liquors and silverware valued at $25,000.

Spiez was taken into custody at his home at 56 Langdon street on a charge of being a member of the gang and an accessory after the fact. He later was released after being interrogated. Detectives trailed him, however, and again took him into custody. They express the belief that Spiez knows Thompson, has kept him informed of the progress of the search being made for him and that he shielded Thompson [illegible] after first [illegible] Thompson has been [illegible] the captain of the [illegible] who was in charge of the bandits while they ransacked the Hart home.

Spiez, the son of a well-known local contractor, denies that he knows where Thompson is, or that he is in possession of any information bearing upon the robbery or the identity of those who committed it.

Two of the alleged "booze bandits" are in custody. Thompson and two other men still are being sought

"---and we are a healthy, happy family now"

—Louis Gingras

TINGLING with abundant energy, appetites hearty, nerves strong and steady and their faces radiant with the glow of perfect health, the entire family of Louis Gingras, 9 Harrison Ave., Provincetown, R. I., are an eloquent tribute to the powers of Tanlac the greatest family medicine the world has ever known.

"I've put Tanlac to the test four times right in my own family and it hasn't failed me once," declared Mr. Gingras. "My wife, my son and my daughter, as well as myself, have all been built up from a half-sick, run-down, worn-out set of people into a healthy, happy family brimful of new life and energy."

And the experience of this family is only typical of thousands of others whose statements are on file in the Tanlac offices. Hardly a day passes that does not bring scores of such messages of praise from every part of the United States and Canada from families where mother, father, son and daughter have all found health, contentment and the joys of living through simply taking a course of Tanlac.

Take, for instance, the case of John Widner, 1571 Roosevelt Ave., Los Angeles, Calif., who says: "My wife, myself and little boy are now as healthy, happy family as you will ever see—and it's all due to Tanlac."

Or that of Mrs. John Marquis and her family of sixteen living in Manchester, N. H., at 293 Belmont St. She says: "Tanlac has been the only medicine used in our house for two years and it has kept every one of the sixteen here in the best of health."

In Chicago, Frank R. Richards, of 441 South Wood St., writes: "We will never be without Tanlac in our house after the remarkable way it has built up my wife, my son and myself to where we are the very picture of health."

Representative of New York is the case of Chas. E. Van Colt's family, residing at 129 Fourth Ave., Albany. He says: "Every member of our family is enthusiastic over Tanlac. It's certainly a medicine for all the family."

From far-away Canada comes this message: "My little girl, my son and myself are all enjoying splendid health now and Tanlac brought it all about." Mrs. Bert Hewer, 193 East Avenue, Toronto, Ontario.

"We call Tanlac 'The Family Medicine' here in our Virginia home, because it restored my mother and sister to perfect health, just the same as it has done me," is the enthusiastic statement of Mrs. J. F. Robertson, Danville, Va.

And on through the list, men, women and children from every state in the Union and every province of Canada unhesitatingly come forward and tell in words ringing with sincerity of the wonderful benefits of health and happiness that Tanlac has brought into their homes that were formerly darkened by the gloom of sickness, suffering and despair.

And should yours be one of those homes where any member of the family is thin, run down and weakened from loss of appetite caused by indigestion and stomach troubles, you have at your very door the means that will no doubt bring the sunshine of vigorous health back into their lives and yours, just as it has done in so many thousands of other cases. Do not delay. Get a bottle of Tanlac from your druggist today. Tanlac is sold by all good druggists.—Advertisement.

Toll of "Flu" Greater than World War

Here's Your Protection

"Flu" Is in the Air

Wherever crowds gather—in street, elevator, shop, theatre or office—deadly influenza germs lurk in the air you breathe.

Caution should be your watchword. The influenza epidemic of 1918-19 snuffed out more lives than the greatest catastrophe in history—the World War.

In the present emergency commonsense demands that you protect yourself and those about you by strengthening your resistance to disease.

Take Hill's Cascara Bromide Quinine Tablets regularly and avoid colds, headaches, grippe, constipation and other strength-sapping disorders that weaken your resistance to deadly influenza germs.

Wherever there is a drug store you will find Hill's world-famous C. B. Q. tablets in red box bearing Mr. Hill's portrait and signature. Keep a box at home and office—never be without one. While "Flu" lurks in the air avoid danger by regularly taking Hill's Cascara Bromide Quinine.

The present emergency calls for calmness and common sense—not hysteria and fear.

Shun sneezing crowds. Walk on the sunny side of the street. Exercise. Get plenty of sleep. Avoid fatigue, colds, headaches and constipation. Take Cascara Bromide Quinine tablets regularly—and don't worry about influenza.

For colds, headaches, grippe and influenza, C. B. Q. Tablets are best by test. Like no other quinine tablets they disintegrate and start work in ten seconds, giving quick relief.

Hill's Tablets are sure, safe, dependable. They leave no bad after effects—no "head noises" Convenient and pleasant to take.

The convention which has been in progress for four days has considered many phases of social service work, stressing particularly activities along the lines of citizenship, education and Amerizanization.

Mrs. Julius Baer, president of the San Francisco Council of Jewish Women, was hostess last night at a dinner in compliment to the visiting Jewish leaders. Resolutions of courtesy to the convention hostesses in San Francisco and Los Angeles were adopted. Mrs. Adolph Dinkelspiel, of Seattle, the newly elected president of the Interstate division, was presented. Mrs. Louis Hertz, in the absence of the president, Mrs. Max C. Sloss in Boston, presided as chairman of the conference.

Positions are open in Sacramento, San Francisco and Los Angeles, but the principal need is in Sacramento.

BUT ONE ABSENT AS MARCH JURY PANEL ENROLLED

No Requests for Relief From Duty, Following Judge's Ultimatum.

Superior Judge George Samuels today called the March jury panel. Out of fifty men and women in the venire only one failed to answer. Bailiffs were unable to find John L. Todd, 207 Peralta Apartments, Oakland, and his name was stricken from the list. None of the jurors summoned asked to be excused from duty, probably because Judge Samuels, in an address made to a civic club several days ago, declared he would make it hard going for anyone seeking to evade jury service.

Prominent among the jurors are Mrs. Annette Adams, 6425 Hillegass avenue, Oakland, former United States district attorney, and B. A. Forsterer, Oakland newspaper man. Thirty-seven of the jurors are from Oakland, eight are from Berkeley, two from Alameda, one from Piedmont and one from Livermore. The list of jurors follows:

Dodge's Son Held On Girl's Charge

KALAMAZOO, Mich., March 13.—John D. Dodge, son of the late John F. Dodge, millionaire Detroit automobile manufacturer, and Rex Earl of this city, were held in the county jail today pending further investigation into an automobile accident yesterday that resulted in serious injury to Miss Emmeline Kwekerneck, 19 years old, a Western State normal school student.

Miss Susan Stegenga and Miss Ethel Clemens, also Western normal students, who also were in the machine, told officers Dodge and Earl offered to take them to their home from a dance, and that Miss Kwakerneck leaped from the machine when Dodge, who was driving, ignored their protests that he was not driving in the right direction to their rooming house. They charge he drove into the country at high speed.

$11,354.40 Asked as Sequel to Collision

Joint trial of two sparate damage suits against the San Francisco-Oakland Terminal Railways was begun today before Superior Judge A. F. St. Sure. The plaintiffs are Donald M. McKenzie, owner of an automobile, which he says was demolished by a Key train near Thirty-second and Louise streets, and George A. Gray, a passenger in McKenzie's car. A suit brought by survivors of Barclay Bonbrone, who was killed in the accident, has been settled out of court. McKenzie is asking $904.40 for damage to his automobile, while Gray demands $10,450 for personal injuries.

HAYWARD

HAYWARD, March 13.—Local shippers expect that the movement of rhubarb, cauliflower and other early vegetables will start early this week and will be in full swing before the week is over. Despite early setbacks the season is said by shippers to promise well.

As a large quantity of these vegetables is raised in sheltered quarters less damage than might be expected was done by the inclemency of the weather during the early weeks of the year. Rhubarb, particularly, it is said, gives good promise. The yield is large and the market is depleted.

According to F. J. Cunha, of the Farm Products Sales Company, this should be one of the most successful seasons which Alameda and Santa Clara county growers have experienced in several years. After a recent trip through the south Cunha stated that crops there have been almost entirely destroyed and that the eastern markets are clamoring for vegetables.

A. E. Fischer, E. C. Collins and other shippers also are of the opinion that this season should be one of the most prosperous which this section has experienced since the war boom. Growers, too, are optimistic over the outcome of the season.

WOMEN ARE INTERESTED.

HAYWARD, March 13.—That the farm center is rapidly taking its place with Alameda county women is the opinion of Miss Carolyn Wetzel, farm home demonstration agent of the extension division of the University of California, voiced today after a tour of the county with Miss Jessie Lee Decker, home furnishings expert of the University. Miss Decker advised the women of the various farm centers on economic home decorating.

"The women are growing more and more to realize that our service offers them abridged editions of courses which people come from all over the United States to take at the university," Miss Wetzel said today, "and that the university is providing them with experts to present these courses to them. Miss Decker is widely known as authority, and is thoroughly established as a practical success.

"We have always been fortunate in securing the co-operation of the women of the centers, and I am glad to see that this co-operation is growing. The University of California is foremost of all universities in extension service, and the women of Alameda county are most fortunately situated to reap the benefits of this service."

MRS. KAMMERER BURIED.

HAYWARD, March 13.—Funeral service was read at 1:30 today for Mrs. W. B. Kammerer at the home of Pratt and Richmond by Rev. H. J. Windsor, pastor of the Methodist church here. Interment followed in San Jose. All Hayward paid respect to the wife of W. B. Kammerer, principal of the Hayward grammar school. Mrs. Kammerer had firmly established herself in the hearts of the people here, and regret at her passing was universal and sincere.

Mrs. Kammerer was the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Burleigh, and was a native of Nebraska. She is survived by her husband, her parents, and three children, Patricia, Winifred and Burleigh.

DANCE IS ANNOUNCED.

HAYWARD, March 13.—Odd Fellows and Rebekahs and friends of the orders will dance Saturday evening, March 18, in I. O. O. F. hall. Sycamore Lodge No. 129 will act as host to Odd Fellows and Rebekahs of the entire Eastbay. The affair is an annual one, and one for which invitations are much sought after.

Entertainment features by Hal P. Angus, the Tom Dias orchestra and other entertainers have been arranged, according to Shirley Nelson, secretary of the lodge, and light refreshments will be served. While the dance is not strictly a St. Patrick's affair Nelson said today that the hosts and their guests will pay proper homage to the memory of Ireland's internationally favorite saint.

HAYWARD ENTERS SUIT.

HAYWARD, March 13.—Hayward will be represented as intervener in the suit of Patterson Brothers against the Spring Valley Water Company by C. W. White, city attorney, when the case is opened in the superior court today. Decision that Hayward should intervene on the part of Patterson Brothers in their attempt to prevent further impounding of storm waters in the Niles canyon was unanimous by the board of trustees of the city.

Opinion of the trustees and of farmers and businessmen is that unless further impounding of the waters is prevented this section will undoubtedly soon find itself in the position of lower Alameda county, where the natural flow of underground waters has already, it is said, been severely affected by the deflection of the natural flow down the channel of the Alameda creek. Should the water level sink lower, according to well informed parties here, the cost to Hayward would be thousands of dollars.

COEHLO CASE ON.

HAYWARD, March 13.—Following a continuance of six days the case of Antone Coehlo, accused of illicitly selling intoxicating liquors, will be heard by Judge Jacob Harder Jr. sitting as town recorder today. Coehlo has demanded a jury trial. Coehlo was arrested after a confession by two boys found by Fred J. Schilling, city marshal, with liquor in their possession, that they had bought it from him at the Jackson Inn. Coehlo denies having sold the liquor.

ST. PATRICK'S DAY TO BE OBSERVED BY LIVERMORE

LIVERMORE, March 13.—Appropriate to the occasion, the parishioners of St. Michael's church will hold an entertainment at Sweeney opera house on the evening of Friday, March 17, as a benefit for the church and academy.

Rev. Father D. J. Looney has charge of the affair and he has combed the valley for the best available talent with the result that an exceptionally attractive program has been arranged.

The program for the evening will be made up mostly of vocal and instrumental numbers by adult performers, but the children, too, will have their parts as the vocal classes of the academy will participate.

One of the feature numbers on the program will be the apeparance of Miss Pearl Allen's pupils of San Francisco, who will entertain with fancy dances, and Scotch and Irish folk dances.

Among the other out-of-town performers will be Miss Lucille Jenkins of the College of Holy Names of Oakland, who will render a violin solo. Miss Isabella Sylvia of Pleasanton, who is celebrated as a vocalist, will add to the quality of the evening by her singing, as will also Miss Theresa Perry of Pleasanton, who will entertain with panish songs.

The program will have in its list some of the best talent in Livermore. Among these notably will be Miss Margaret Mack, who has gained for herself, not only here but in the bay section as well, a creditable reputation as a vocalist. Mrs. C. G. Clarke is another who will add to the quality of the entertainment. Among the men wh owill take part are William Rapson and J. V. Sweeney, both of whom are well-known in musical circles throughout the valley.

U. S. May Withdraw All Troops on Rhine

BY UNITED PRESS
LEASED WIRE TO TRIBUNE.

WASHINGTON, March 13.—Congressional demands that all American troops immediately be withdrawn from Europe were expected today as a sequel to the allied refusal to consider the claim of the United States to pay $241,000 for maintenance of the army on the Rhine.

There were fewer than 5000 American troops on the Rhine, several thousand having been ordered home. The administration planned not to withdraw entirely for the present, but would leave about 2000 United States soldiers in Europe indefinitely.

If neither Germany nor the allies will pay the bill for these troops, which up to May 1, 1921, amounted to $241,000,000 they should be brought out, many members of both the House and Senate believe.

Thugs Rob L. A. Man Of $3000 in Cash

LOS ANGELES, March 13.—Attacked by two bandits while he was walking in Spring street, C. C. Weber, a railroad man, was knocked down and robbed of $3000 in money, according to a report to the police.

SANTA CRUZ MILK HERDS ARE HELD TUBERCULAR FREE

SANTA CRUZ, March 13.—President F. L. Selleck has called one of the most important County Farm Bureau directors meetings in the history of the organization. The main topic for discussion and action is making this county a tubercular free area regarding dairy cows. J. P. Iverson, chief of the Animal Industry division, State Department of Agriculture, explained this project in detail.

If Santa Cruz county is declared a tubercular free area there will be absolutely no tubercular cows in the county, every one will have to go to the block. As there is less than 1 per cent tubercular cows in the county now, practically no loss will be suffered in meeting this requirement.

If this county is declared a free area by the State Department and the Federal government, buyers of dairy cattle will be able to purchase stock here with a Federal guarantee that it not only is free from tuberculosis, but has not been subject to any contamination. Another splendid result from this project will be that Santa Cruz county can advertise that all of its milk comes from non-tubercular cows. This will mean a great deal to people coming here during the summer, knowing that no matter what milk they drink there is no chance for it being contaminated with tuberculosis.

The Farm Bureau directors voted in favor of this and set the next month for deliberation on the project. The matter will be finally acted upon at the next Farm Bureau directors meeting, April 14.

When the septic tank campaign was taken up, the directors voted that each community pay for its own portable demonstration form. It was decided that those in the community who wished to build the tanks should co-operate in building the portable form which could be used on all of the tanks.

Farm Adviser Tom Mayhew, of Monterey county, gave a very interesting outline of the way in which the Monterey county farm centers are planning out their community projects on paper.

Farm Adviser Jack Tocher, of San Benito county, gave some interesting suggestions coming from the success of the San Benito County Farm Bureau.

Marines "Missing" In L. A. Postoffice

LOS ANGELES, March 13.—Marines who were assigned to United States mail trucks several months ago in an effort to curb activities of mail bandits were mysteriously missing here today. Government officials and local postoffice authorities refused to comment on withdrawal of the armed mail guard or tell who authorized the change.

It was rumored among postal authorities that the change in postoffice administration at Washington was responsible.

The Oakland postoffice has not been notified of any order for the withdrawal of marines guarding mail trucks, Postmaster Joseph Rosborough said today. The armed marines were on duty as usual today.

DEFENSE FIGHTS MOVE TO REPLACE SEPARATE CHARGE

Alleged Criminal Syndicalists Oppose Attempt at a Joint Trial.

Efforts of the district attorney's office to dismiss the old separate indictments charging six men with violation of the state criminal syndicalist law, so that they might be tried jointly under the blanket indictment recently brought against them by the grand jury, were vigorously opposed by the six defendants today. The six, most of whom acted as their own attorneys, one and all demanded separate trials.

They based their demand upon assertions that in a joint trial each of them would lose the advantage of his own individuality, and also that they had been waiting more than two years for separate trials.

In the cases of J. A. Ragsdale and J. E. Snyder, the motion of Deputy District Attorney Wade Snook to have the old indictments dismissed was granted by Superior Judge Samuels, and the two men, over their protests, were held upon the joint trial indictment.

CASES CONTINUED.

Four others, who appeared before Superior Judge Lincoln S. Church, had their cases continued until Thursday morning, for the hearing of arguments for and against the motion of Deputy District Attorney Earl Warren for the dismissal of the separate indictments. These were J. G. Reed, J. H. Dolsen, C. Aylward Tobey and E. B. Smith. They, together with Snyder and Ragsdale, are charged with being members of the Communist Labor party.

Trial of Clarence Tobey, son of one of the other defendants, on the charge of belonging to the I. W. W., was set for April 10.

The indictment against Max Bedacht, charging him with belonging to the Communist Labor party, was dismissed on the ground that he had recently been convicted on the same charge in a federal court in Chicago.

J. H. Dolsen, defendant in a previous trial in which the jury disagreed, bitterly arraigned the district attorney's office for opposing his demand for a separate retrial.

BITTER ATTACK.

"The action of the district attorney is in total contravention of all justice," he declared to Judge Church. "It is an attempt to railroad me to the penitentiary to save expense for the county."

According to Deputy District Attorney Warren, the fact that the six defendants have been waiting more than two years for their trials, is due to the fact that both the prosecution and the defendants have been waiting for the Supreme Court's decision on appeals taken by previous defendants convicted in the local courts on the same charge. These include John C. Taylor, whose appeal was denied, and Charlotte Anita Whitney, whose appeal is still pending.

BRITONS HAVE UNIQUE CURES FOR INSOMNIA

LONDON, March 13.—What are the best methods of inducing sleep?

Dr. Hildred Carlill's advise to those suffering from insomnia has aroused the greatest interest.

Exhaustive inquiries have proved that great minds are not often troubled with sleeplessness.

The best authority states that Lloyd George is usually an excellent sleeper, but when he is unable to sleep he reads history, biography, or translations, which are always plied up by his bedside.

The following are typical replies of famous people to the question, "How do you secure sleep?"—

G. K. Chesterton—Few things will keep me awake when it is time for me to go to sleep. If I lose sleep one night I manage to make it up the next—but I never count sheep.

Ambrose McEvoy, the artist—It is seldom that I cannot sleep, but when this is the case I not only count sheep but I visualize them in pictures. I paint mental pictures of sheep jumping over stiles or sheep in fields until I fall asleep.

Miss Phyllis Neilson-Terry, the actress—If I cannot sleep I read a book that has been recommended to me by a friend, and that is usually effective.

A Barrister—I have only to read a page of Bernard Shaw and I fall into a doze, two pages brings a refreshing sleep that lasts for some hours, and a whole act of one of Shaw's recent plays provides me with a hearty night's rest.

ACCUSED DUO IN DIAMOND THEFT FREED, RETAKEN

Jack Harris and Gustave Schachtel, alias "Gloomy Gus" Schaefer, wanted in St. Paul, Minn., on a charge of robbing Gus Shapiro, jeweler, of $130,000 worth of diamonds, were ordered held as fugitives from justice and their bail fixed at $75,000 each by Judge Harry W. Pulcifer today. Judge Pulcifers' action immediately followed the release of Harris and Schachtel by Superior Judge Lincoln S. Church on a writ of habeas corpus sued out by their attorney, Senator Frank M. Carr.

Jack Harris, Schachtel and Max Harris were arrested on Thursday night by Deputy Sheriffs Bert Brown, Jack Collier and Joe Soares on request of Sheriff John Wagner of Ramsey county, Minnesota. Max Harris was later released by Sheriff Frank Barnet, there being no charge against him.

Senator Carr, their attorney, immediately sued for a writ of habeas corpus. When the case was brought before Judge Church, he declared the evidence against them was too intangible to justify their being held in jail. Warrants for their arrest, which must come from Minnesota and must be accompanied by a requisition from the governor of Minnesota and an acceptance and governor's warrant from Governor Stephens of California, have not yet arrived, although deputy sheriffs are expected probably Tuesday.

In order to hold the men for the Minnesota officials, Sheriff Frank Barnet had prepared warrants charging Harris and Schachtel with being fugitives from justice and the men were rearrested by Deputy Sheriffs Bert Brown, Jack Collier and Joe Soares as they left the courtroom.

When Judge Pulcifer fixed bail at $75,00 0each, Mrs. Ida Schachtel who was in court, broke down. "It is impossible to raise that much money," she cried.

Harris and Schachtel will have a preliminary hearing on Friday afternoon.

BERKELEY MAN IS OBJECT OF HUNT

BERKELEY, March 13.—Believed to be wandering as an amnesia victim, police search was instituted today for Thomas Woolley, former member of the Berkeley police department who has been missing from his home, 1619 Alcatraz avenue, for eight days.

A quiet search was instituted for Wolley immediately after his disappearance, but with the failure of relatives to locate the former officer the disappearance was made public today. Wolley has been ill for more than a year and of late had been in a serious condition at his home. On Sunday morning, March 5, he eluded his nurse and slipped from the house before any of the family knew of his intention. When his absence was discovered a thorough search was made of the neighborhood but to no avail.

That Woolley, as a result of his long illness, has suffered a mental lapse and is a victim of amnesia, is the fear expressed by his brother, Special Officer Dan Woolley, who is directing the search for the missing man. Woolley's mother, Mrs. M. J. Woolley, is seriously ill as the result of worry over the disappearance of her son.

For fifteen years Woolley was a member of the Berkeley police department. He resignd two years ago to accept a position at Coalinga, but a year ago was forced to give up work of any kind. He has been under the care of physicians since that time.

Woolley is a member of a pioneer Berkeley family, and was affiliated with Berkeley Lodge of Elks and California Aerie of Eagles. He is described as 43 years of age, 6 feet in height, weighing 170 pounds and with blue eyes and blond hair. He was wearing a blue serge suit, brown hat and shoes at the time of his disappearance. According to members of his family Woolley had no money on his person ata the time of his disappearance.

DIVORCE SOUGHT BECAUSE SPOUSE SCOFFED AT L. A.

Four Unhappy Wives Seek Freedom on Grounds of Cruelty.

Because her husband designated her home city of Los Angeles as a "den of thieves," and further insulted her by calling her a cannibal, Mrs. Christine P. Landy wants a divorce from John Landy, a reclamation engineer, she told Superior Judge T. W. Harris today.

She said that when she wanted to go home to Los Angeles on a vacation, her husband objected, saying that the movie metropolis was a den of thieves where the inhabitants spent most of their time robbing tourists. Her husband called her a cannibal in the hearing of the patrons in a crowded Los Angeles restaurant, she said, because of her fondness for mussels.

DOESN'T LIKE SHACK.

She also objected, she said, to being compelled to live in a "shack" in Contra Costa county, while her husband was engaged in reclamation work there.

The couple, who separated last May, were married in 1912, Mrs. Landy said. There are no children.

"If I could get a divorce from you I would marry May Taylor myself," said John Linderman to his wife. So, to be accommodating, Mrs. Julia Linderman today filed suit for divorce, alleging the above remark as one of the acts of cruelty committed against her during twelve years and nine months of married life. She asks the custody of their one child, Mabel, aged 12.

GRANTED DIVORCE.

On the seventh anniversary of her marriage, Mrs. Ethel Pope was today granted an interlocutory decree of divorce from John Pope, whom she accused of cruelty. The decree was signed by Superior Judge A. F. St. Sure. Mrs. Pope testified that her husband had been arrested on a criminal charge involving another woman. She was awarded custody of a minor child.

Mrs. Hazel Harper, who is awaiting trial in the superior court for alleged violation of the state medical practice act, was the principal witness in the divorce hearing today of Mrs. Esther E. Wiese, local chiropractor, against John E. Wiese, also a chiropractor. Mrs. Harper corroborated Mrs. Wiese's charge that Wiese had deserted her more than a year ago. The plaintiff was granted a decree by Judge St. Sure.

PADEREWSKI IS IN MARKET FOR WINE GRAPES

TURLOCK, March 13.—Further fame has come the way of Turlock through the purchase here of a shipment of Zinfendel grape vines by Ignatz Jan Paderewski, greatest pianist living, and late prime minister of Poland, who has established himself as a vineyardist at Paso Robles, San Luis Obispo county. The vines were selected by H. F. Stoll, editor of the Grape Grower, and were inspected by the consulting viticulturist, C. A. Ware, of Fresno, before being sent forward. The Turlock vines are the safest in the state so far as the deadly phylloxera is concerned, being perfectly free from the disease.

HUNT STARTS FOR MISSING WARDEN IN MARIN COUNTY

SAN FRANCISCO, March 13.—Bands of armed men are scouring the woods about Greenbrae today in an effort to locate Walter B. Sellmer, fish and game commissioner for Marin county, who disappeared mysteriously last Thursday morning after being called to that point to apprehend some one who was breaking the game laws.

Sheriff J. J. Keating, directing the search, declared that Sellmer may have been made prisoner and left to die by some one he attempted to arrest. Rumors of a bootleggers' headquarters in the wooded hills cause many to think that the commissioner discovered the camp and has been made prisoner. All efforts so far to find any trace of him have been without success.

According to Mrs. Sellmer, the missing man's mother, he answered a telephone call from Greenbrae early last Thursday. Although Sellmed did not discuss the summons, she said he armed himself before leaving. His final words were that he would return at dinner time that night.

Sellmer lived at San Anselmo and is 29 years old. He has been fish and game commissioner for Marin county for three years.

BAY FARM ISLAND BRIDGE AGAIN IS OPEN TO TRAFFIC

Niles Canyon Span Also Put in Condition and Ready to Accommodate Vehicles.

Bay Farm Island bridge, which has been closed to traffic for nearly three months, formally was declared open to traffic today by the board of supervisors, acting on the report of County Surveyor George Posey.

The bridge has been put in better and safer condition than it has been for years, and its formal opening will make it possible for the school buses, which bring children from Bay Farm Island to Alameda schools, to resume traffic without liability for accident resting on the county. The Aeolian Yacht Club of Alameda, whose boats are moored in San Leandro bay, behind the bridge, will also be able to reach deep water now without the necessity of going through five bridges that span the estuary.

Temporary repairs on the Niles Canyon bridge, just out of Niles, have been completed under Posey's direction, and the bridge was thrown open to traffic today. Sunday traffic through the canyon was allowed to cross the bridge at its own risk.

Work on the Carrol overhead crossing, one mile west of Altamont, was begun today. Posey notified the board of supervisors. The crossing will require about six months to complete. It is a duplicate of Altamont crossing.

Trotzky Fears New Spring Revolutions

MOSCOW, March 13.—(By the Associated Press.)—Leon Trotzky, soviet minister of war, addressing an extraordinary session of the Moscow soviet today on the subject of the Genoa conference, presented documentary, newspaper and circumstantial evidence designed to show threatening interventionist and counter-revolutionary activities against Russia this spring.

For perhaps the first time Trotzky included American capitalists with "Paris and London" as behind the curtain in schemes particularly in the Caucasus where he said Baku oil was the motive behind foreign capitalists who he declared were backing former Grand Duke Nicholas. Trotzky throughout his address advised preparation of the red army.

Requa, former director of the oil division of the fuel administration of the government during the war. The statement was issued in connection with the proposed federal investigation of the acquisition of the Union Oil company by the Royal Dutch Shell interests.

EXPORT DEMAND FOR CALIFORNIA PRUNES GROWING

Available Stocks Coast Fruit Found in New York Sought.

SAN JOSE, March 13.—Export demand for California prunes, which had been reported on the incline during the latter part of January and early February, continues on a steady increase, according to advices to the California Prune and Apricot Growers' Association here from the New York market. Export buyers, it is said, are picking up both stocks of spot prunes in New York and available stocks of coast prunes which they can secure.

The market for the export buying, according to the reports here, lies in the northern European countries and in England.

Germany, which, until the latter part of January, had not played a very active part in the export prune market since the previous spring, is still purchasing stocks, principally of the smaller sizes, where they can be picked up at a lower market price, the association's report shows.

All of the Scandinavian countries are continuing to bid strongly for stocks and apparently the holdings in these countries have been fairly well exhausted, buyers finding themselves forced to purchase at this time in order to secure a sufficient supply to tide them over the spring and summer months.

The export demand, according to officials of the California Prune and Apricot Growers' Association, is slowly but surely coming back to the level which prevailed before the war and will undoubtedly play an important part in the sale of the 1922 crops.

"We are going to have the strongest market, both in this country and in the export fields, that we have yet had, judging from all indications at the present time," stated Manager H. G. Coykendall here this morning.

COUNCIL VOTES MONEY TO AID UTILITIES MOVE

Today was "appropriation and transfer day" with the city council, sums being granted or switched around for various purposes.

To defray Oakland's part of the expense of the inter-city water or public utilities district campaign, the council by resolution appropriated $485. Soon thereafter it appropriated $499 for the entertainment of the Grand Parlor, Native Sons of the Golden West, in April.

To pay for new armature coils for the dredge, $3954 was voted in an ordinance. Resolutions transferred $6500 from the general fund to the police relief and pension fund, and $5000 from the building fund to the playground department.

The city engineer was requested to draw plans for the pavement of Fourteenth street from Market to Poplar, and Seventy-sixth avenue from East Fourteenth to Rudsdale street.

A communication was received from the Golden Gate Improvement club, complaining about the whistles of passing trains in the district at night. The matter was filed.

THREE HUNTED IN BRUNEN SLAYING

RIVERSIDE, N. J., March 13.—Three men, possibly five, were implicated in the slaying of John T. Brunen, circus owner, at his home Friday night, in the opinion of County Detective Ellis Parker. Thus far, Parker said today, he had been unable to establish a motive. Brunen was followed at least two days before he was shot to death while sitting near a window reading.

A clew to the identity of the slayers is a piece of gunstock found near the Brunen home.

County authorities, including Prosecutor Kelsey, said last night that developments in the case would make necessary a long examination of Mrs. Brunen and her 18-year-old daughter, Hazel.

William Parkson, a lion tamer, who married Hazel Brunen in the face of her father's opposition, sent word to the authorities that he would be glad to give any information he could regarding the case. He was attending a dance at Perth Amboy when Brunen was shot. The circus man had the marriage of Parkson and his daughter annulled.

Mrs. Mary Walker, a neighbor, told detectives that on the night before the circus man was killed she had seen a man knocking at the kitchen door of his house. She said that she had seen Mrs. Brunen, her mother and Hazel leave for a theater and that she knew Brunen was alone in the house.

Hazel Brunen last night denied that her father had been a friend of William Desmond Taylor, motion picture director, recently slain in Los Angeles. She said, however, that he had been closely associated with William Fox, president of the Fox Film corporation, and that they had jointly owned concessions at Coney Island at one time.

GIFT OF DIRT TO CITY HALTS STREET TRAFFIC

A big heap of fine black loam, several wagon loads in all, was donated to the city of Oakland this morning by some kind soul whose name and address are unknown.

The street department is looking for him.

The street department does not object to receiving free gifts of dirt. The department uses large quantities itself, but the department earnestly objects to the giver dumping the stuff right in the gutter of a public highway during the rainy season, as was done in this instance.

The dirt was found at dawn on Santa Clara avenue, where residents noted a young mountain of earth heaped high in the most inconvenient place, blocking a gutter and making traffic precarious. The street department officials sent a gang of workmen and in a short time the stuff was cleaned off and sent to the dump. Several men and wagons were needed.

The street department suspects that someone wanted to get rid of the dirt and chose Santa Clara avenue as the victim, rather than haul it across the city.

The famous Shoshone cavers at Lime Spur, Mont., have never been fully explored owing to their great extent.

NIGHT RIDERS IN SAN JOSE AREA CLOSELY WATCHED

San Jose Police Chief Voices Opposition to Parade Being Planned.

SAN JOSE, March 13.—Activities of the Ku Klux Klan in this vicinity are to be "closely watched," according to a statement today by officials of the city, who promise to take immediate action "in case of any violation of the law on the part of the Klan members themselves."

Chief of Police J. N. Black, informed of a contemplated parade in this city by members of the Klan, garbed in their masks and robes, declared today that the parade would have to be carried out "at an unknown time" if it is to be a success. He declared himself against any such demonstration.

Report today of receipt of a letter purporting to be from the Ku Klux Klan and warning him to "leave other men's wives alone," was made to police headquarters by a local man, whose name is withheld by the authorities. The latter threatened the man with "dire consequences" if he failed to heed the advice of the letter.

While the local authorities continued to look upon the K. K. K. letter received by a local evening newspaper last Saturday, in which officials of the city were scored for laxity in the enforcement of the law, in the light of a joke, they admitted today that the epistle probably came from actual members of the Klan. This belief was brought about by the fact that the letter was printed on stationary bearing the letter head of the organization, with all of its mysterious markings, etc. The letter of warning received by the local citizen above mentioned was also upon similar stationery, it is said.

City Manager C. B. Goodwin stated today that he had been requested to join the organization, being informed that a number of his "close friends" were members. The manager issued a flat refusal of the offer and laughed at the mention of his "friends."

Short Freight Line To Be Investigated

FAIRFIELD, March 13.—The board of supervisors of Solano county have received a notice from the Railroad Commission that a hearing of the commission's investigation into the methods and practices of Martin B. Behrenz, in his operations of a freight line between Sacramento and points in Solano county, will be heard March 22, in Sacramento.

The order to show cause why the certificate of public convenience and necessity authorizing the operation of the freight line should not be revoked sets forth that March 4, 1921, the commission authorized Leonard C. Brotzman to transfer to Martin B. Behrenz the certificate originally granted to him. However, accordhe would not be a candidate. Because of the probability that one of the candidates sponsored by the league may not consent to his name being placed on the ballot the league authorized the executive committee to name a candidate in case of a withdrawal.

Although his name was not submitted as a candidate of the league five ballots were cast for Mayor J. E. Colton. The vote was cast as follows:

J. F. Brunscher, 24; L. M. Miller, 19; O. K. Smith, 16; C. H. Hayden, 7; A. Lancaster, 6; J. F. Colton, 5; E. A. Arthur, 4; Raymond Claeys, 1.

He was for a tim a police officer here, but studied law while on the force and was admitted to the bar while still a policeman.

Water Storage Plan Is Up to Towns on River

MARTINEZ, March 13.—Possibility of obtaining water from the Sacramento river and storing sufficient quantities at reservoir sites in the hills near the old coal mines at Somerville was discussed at a meeting at Hotel Oehm by members of the county's water district formation committee. While no definite decision or definite plan has been outlined as yet, it was indicated today that serious consideration is being given the idea of storing water in reservoir sites near the mines. The plan was advocated and thoroughly discussed at the meeting.

It was divulged that the idea of storage in the hills was first advocated by industrial concerns seeking a good, sufficient and steady supply of water. Positive plans, it was declared, show that one storage site is capable of caring for 600,000,000 gallons of water. It is declared the site could be so utilized as to provide for a billion gallons storage. The availability of the sites and their closeness to all town's interests in the water district has produced serious consideration of developing a home water supply. Members of the committee, however, made it plain that discussion of this proposition was only as a possibility. Complete data on other water sources has not yet been secured. There was no advocacy of any particular place from where water should be drawn from the Sacramento river.

Those attending the meeting Donlon of Antioch, Otis Loveridge and George S. Oliver of Pittsburg, Mayor H. F. Spencer and Mr. Harrison of Walnut Creek, Warren McBryde of Crockett, A. Salz of Benicia and A. J. Washburn and C. H. Hayden of Martinez.

News Notes of Vallejo And the U. S. Navy Yard

VALLEJO, March 13.—It is expected that all of the directors of the Six Minute Ferry company will attend a meeting tonight, so that a vote can be taken on the proposition of favoring or turning down the recommendation of the harmony committee to sell out to the Rodeo-Vallejo Auto Ferry concern.

It is stated on good authority that there is a movement on foot to have Contractor Jack Ames ask the court to dismiss the charges filed against the Vallejo Builders of alleged violation of the Cartwright Anti-Trust law. The fact that the builders and union men have settled their differences is one of the reasons for the above-mentioned action.

Business girls and women are all to be invited to visit the Y. W. C. A. this month and participate in the festivities which are being featured by that organization at the headquarters in York street. Capable committees have been named to arrange for greeting the women.

Frank Boyle is the president of the Vallejo Roller Canary Breeders' association. The organization members state that they intend to improve the breeding of canaries in Vallejo.

Close to $375,000 is to be spent at the navy yard this year in the construction of target rafts for use by the vessels of the Pacific fleet in southern waters. The rafts are to be constructed in the two navy yard cradles.

Boy Scouts are to be organized by the Vallejo Bay Terrace Improvement club. Paymaster Bert Peoples, U. S. N., of Mare Island, is the president of the Bay Terrace Improvement club, and is a booster for the Scout movement.

City Engineer T. D. Kilkenny is to submit a report to the city council this week on the cost of paving the alley in the rear of the Lincoln school in Carolina street. The job is necessary, according to the school authorities.

Announcement is made at the city hall that steps will soon be taken to remove the old Liberman building from the waterfront. The building was vacated by Liberman several weeks ago when his new factory was finished.

A four-foot gravel walk is to be built to the new high school grounds on the eastern outskirts of town by the city of Vallejo. City Engineer T. D. Kilkenny is to submit the figures on the cost of the job.

PACIFIC PROBLEMS LECTURE THEME

"Problems of the Pacific" will be discussed by Dr. Edward T. Devine, philanthropist, lecturer and writer, following a luncheon sponsored by the Social Workers' Association of Alameda County at Hotel Oakland Wednesday. Roscoe D. Jones will preside.

Dr. Devine was the personal representative of President Roosevelt in San Francisco following the 1906 disaster, the plans for the expenditure of the $9,000,000 relief fund being largely of his drafting. He was formerly an attache of the American Embassy in Russia and served with the American Red Cross in France during the world war. His address this week will deal with the application of the Monroe Doctrine to Eastern problems, the open door policy in Korea, Siberia and Manchuria; the twenty-one demands; the Anglo-Japanese alliance; Congress and its probable action on the four-power treaty.

The committee arranging the luncheon includes Mrs. Helen A. Neal, president of the association; Mrs. A. G. Douglas, Miss Alice M. Brookman, Miss Elizabeth D. Skeele, Mrs. Helen S. Artieda, Sam Ghinsberg and O. F. Snedigar. The luncheon is open to the public. Reservations may be made with any member of the committee.

13,000 Volts Fails To End Boy's Life

BERKELEY, March 13.—Despite the fact that 13,000 volts of electricity passed through his body Edward Johnson, aged 13, 2809 Ninth street, Berkeley, was able to leave the Emergency hospital yesterday.

Physicians who attended him say he will recover. The case is considered the most remarkable of its kind ever treated in Berkeley. The accident occurred when the boy climbed a Southern Pacific Company's electric tower at Ninth and Folger streets after a kite which had become lodged in the wires.

3 INDORSED FOR MARTINEZ BOARD

MARTINEZ, March 13.—J. F. Brunsacher, O. K. Smith and L. M. Miller have been endorced as candidates of the Martinez Civic League for the three trustee posts to be filled at the municipal election on April 10. The endorsements were made at a meeting of the league at the city hall after the names of seven candidates had been presented and a ballot taken, the three receiving the greatest number of votes being endorsed as the league's candidates. The meeting was attended by about thirty persons. William H. Hanlon, president of the league, presided.

The endorsement of Smith was made even after he appeared at the meeting and stated positively that ing to the order, it appears to the commission that Behrenz has discontinued service as authorized and is purported to have transferred such operations to R. H. Wakefield without authorization of the commission and in violation of conditions under which he secured the certificate.

According to the notice received by the local board Wakefield is confining his freight service between Sacramento and Vacaville only, having abandoned his service to Vallejo.

Martin B. Behrenz and R. H. Wakefield have been cited to appear before the commission on that day and show cause why their certificate should not be revoked.

THREATS ARE ALLEGED.

MARTINEZ, March 13.—Charges that her husband, Daniel Merone, employee of the Standard Oil Company at Richmond, threatened to "wipe out the whole family" and that in the last two years, as often as twice a week, threatened to take his wife's life, are contained in suit for divorce filed today by Josephine Nerone. The couple married in 1907 and have three children. The wife asks custody of the children and $75 monthly for their support.

Russia was the first country in the world to use wood paving for streets.

FRUIT IN SANTA CLARA ORCHARDS PERILED BY COLD

Snows on Surrounding Hills Bring Smudge Pots Out in the Valley.

SAN JOSE, March 13.—Growers of Santa Clara valley were apprehensive today concerning the extremely cold weather conditions prevailing since Friday night, the excessive cold causing much danger to apricot blossoms already out in the valley.

With heavy snows on the surrounding hills and the themometer down to close to 25 early this morning, the ranchers of the valley were busy with their smudge pots in the hope of saving their crops. Yesterday morning was one of the coldest March days in the history of this county, according to the local weather bureau. The predictions for today and tomorrow were not particularly hopeful to the growers.

Prunes are less seriously menaced by the extreme cold, the blossoms being later. Many apricot trees throughout the valley, however, have already started to blossom and these are seriously endangered. The cold will delay blossom time two weeks, it is generally believed.

The amount of the quota desired by the officials has not been announced and may not be prior to the campaign week, it was said. Belief that many would hold back were the sum stated has caused this decision. It was emphatically stated, however, that the amount is not large.

R. C. Smedley, general secretary of the "Y" here, stated to The TRIBUNE this morning that he is "fully confident of the good will of the public."

"The people of this community have never failed to come to our aid in years past," he said, "and we do not expect them to fail it this year."

Swift, president of Swift & Co., Chicago meat packers, arrived in San Francisco this morning on the United States Shipping Board vessel Golden State, operated under the Pacific Mail flag. Swift has been on a trip to Honolulu. He says that conditions in the meat packing industry have returned to normal, and that no further reductions among the employees of the concern will take place. Swift stated that it was found necessary recently to lay off ten per cent of the employees of the company.

He stated that the operations of his concern in California are progressing satisfactorily, and that the plant in South San Francisco, known as the Western Meat Packing Company, will be considerably enlarged.

NAVAL BASE STILL NEEDED.

Senator Miles Poindexter of Washington, acting chairman of the Senate committee on naval affairs, calls attention to the fact that the assertion is frequently made in influential quarters that by the navy limitation treaty we are surrendering our sea-power. It is said that we are going to scrap the navy and scrap the navy yards. There is going to be a struggle, asserts Senator Poindexter, to prevent the maintenance of the American navy on the basis defined in the naval treaty of the recent Washington conference. Then Senator Poindexter goes on to say:

"Great Britain may be expected to maintain such a navy as is provided in the treaty, and Japan will, in all probability, do likewise, but if the "little navy" men have their way, the United States, instead of being upon a relative basis of five to Great Britain's five and to Japan's three, will drop to a position in the equation somewhere near the ratio of two. So that the practical question is not so much what the treaty provides as it is what Congress will provide. In other words, the limitations which will be put upon our naval strength will, in all probability, be placed there by Congressional action, and not by the treaty.

"Nevertheless, there is a powerful sentiment in Congress, particularly in the Senate Naval Affairs Committee, and also in the country, when it is properly aroused, in favor of maintaining our sea power on a par with that of Great Britain or any other nation, and on the relative basis with regards to Japan that is provided by the treaty."

THE TRIBUNE has already called attention to this struggle to reduce the strength of the navy far below that contemplated in the naval limitation agreement. It is pressed by pacifists out of Congress and pacifist and vote-seekers in Congress. Its mode of operation is to deny appropriations of money adequate to maintain the navy on the ratio authorized in the treaty. This, as we have previously stated, is designed to cripple the navy by crippling its personnel.

There is still another phase of the effort which contemplates scrapping the navy yards by the same process, denial of money for their operation to keep the ships of the navy in proper condition.

But there are also members of Congress who believe this country should maintain a navy on a par with Great Britain and on a ratio to Japan's navy certainly not less in effective fighting strength than 5 to 3. They recognize that the way to maintain equality of naval strength with Great Britain or the 5 to 3 ratio with Japan is by proper attention to personnel and to facilities for repair and maintenance of the fleet and a proper shore supply and rendezvous base for the capital ships when they are in active operation.

In this connection, and Senator Poindexter's statement is doubly interesting, the proposal of a new base adequate for the accommodation of the largest capital ships of the Pacific Fleet and for the larges ships which may hereafter be assigned to duty in the Pacific, to be located in San Francisco, assumes a new importance. Secretary of the Navy Denby has again said, within the last ten days, that this new militiy of the Pacific Fleet was necessary and that the Navy Department would start construction of the base as soon as possible. In this plan he has the support of all the technical chiefs of the department and of the President. Alameda has been selected as the site of the proposed base by the department and approved by a joint congressional committee of investigation.

Mr. Denby's statement of plan is in conformity with the Helm commission's report, which contemplated no decrease in the importance of the Mare Island navy yard. And it is noteworthy that the directors of the Oakland Chamber of Commerce have formally taken action looking toward the maintenance of the navy yard.

Now the one curious circumstance in this connection is that everybody connected with the naval establishment and interested at all in the national question of adequate provision for the maintenance of a defensive fleet in the Pacific, has officially and formally approved the establishment of a new base and its location in San Francisco bay with the exception of the two Senators from California. The two Senators from this State have done nothing. They have assumed to consider it as "a local political controversy," because some local business interests in the Sacramento valley have opposed the new base on the groundless fear that it meant doing away with Mare Island navy yard.

Senator Poindexter, although he represents the State in which Puget Sound and its numerous good harbors are located, has loyally stood by the principle laid down in Congress six years ago when the Helm Commission was authorized. He has supported the decision of the technical experts of the Navy and the joint committee of Congress. But California may expect, the two Senators from this State may expect, and local politicians in every community may expect, that there may come a time when the indifference of California Senators may seem to release Mr. Poindexter from working for the Alameda site and permit him to seek the establishment of the new naval base on Puget Sound.

The chief officers of the navy want the base at the coast center of the area of tactical operations, where it should be, but they may be unable to stand against efforts of other ports if there is not complete agreement and energetic, active cooperation by the entire delegation of California in Congress. In such a situation there would be great harm to California and to the whole scheme of Pacific naval defenses; and the dogs-in-the-manger would howl loudly.

OUR AFRICAN ADVENTURE.

It is sometimes interesting to see ourselves as others see us. Here, for instance, is the Depeche Coloniale, which attacks the loan agreement recently concluded between the United States government and the government of Liberia, saying that Liberia was the victim of a bad bargain.

"The treaty," it says, "constitutes a veritable annexation of Liberia by the United States, as Liberia becomes purely and simply an African colony of the United States and not merely an American protectorate."

This observation is fairly typical of many other public expressions of French opinion of recent months in connection with the agreements between this country and Liberia, all of which have financial assistance extended to the African free state as their motive. Some of the strictures are not honestly conceived; they are merely emanations from quarters desirous of embarrassing American relations in Africa and thereby American viewpoints and enterprises directly related to Europe.

But there are opinions, such as that of the Depeche Coloniale, which seriously hold that the financial agreements existing between Liberia and the United States constitute an actual status of Liberian dependency to this country. And of course if the rules and formula of the old-time, cynical diplomacy of Europe were to be applied as a test, there would be some excuse for this conclusion.

But in reality all the conditions of payment and security for payment imposed in the financial agreements between this country and its African protectorate have been designed as much to impress upon the people and the government of Liberia the urgency of sound, responsible practices of government as they have to insure the United States against loss. If there has ever been an altruistic enterprise by any government it is America's adventure in Liberia.

Designed as rectification as far as practicable for the practice of slavery in this country, a crime which developed when the moral and spiritual consciousness of the world was not as highly developed as at present, our relations with Liberia have had no other motive than to help to the fullest possible extent a submerged and backward people in their experiment of self-government. Europeans may hypocritically lament over the terms of loan agreements between the United States and Liberia, but if they desire to know the real character of these compacts they must look upon the manner in which they are observed and executed.

AUTOMOBILITY.

The word "automobility" seems not to have found its way into our dictionaries, but the motor statistics published in Sunday's Times suggest the need of such a noun. According to these figures, 83 per cent (that is, 10,505,660) of the 12,588,949 motor vehicles in use in the world are to be found in the United States. Truly we are an automotive or an automobilic people. In the agricultural area of America there is a motor for every 7.75 persons.

It would be conceited to argue that the civilization of a people is directly as its ability to move above in vehicles that are self-propelled. One might compare, for example, the United States with the Malay States or with Liberia, whose capital is credited with three motors. Moreover, according to some scientists, the development of life from its lower into its higher ranges is the result of its struggle to escape a static slavery to roots into a freedom of feet, and then from a freedom of feet to a mobility of wheels and of wings.

As a rule "automobility" implies higher individual power, better economic distribution and a potentially higher social state. If Russia, which has only 35,000 motors for her one hundred and fifty millions, and China, with but 8,150 for her four hundred millions, were more highly "motorized," such intensive famine conditions as have prevailed in those countries could hardly have persisted. Certain political conditions would also not have been conceivable in a highly "automotive" State. One of the serious problems seems now to be to find the means of continued automobility after our known stores of power have been exhausted. A day of the Mining and Metallurgical Engineers' meeting held here last week was devoted to the discussion of this hemisphere's regional supplies of oil. No one appears to doubt, however, that, somehow, somewhere, new sources of power will be found to make possible man's continuing and heightened mobility.—New York Times.

HILL AND SEA.

I'm sailing far on the bounding sea
Into the skies of the west,
The sun has pulled a quilt of blue
Over his chin and gone to rest.
The world is flat and the sky is wide
And the wind blows strong and free,
And in my heart I'm a sailor man
—Here by my redwood tree.

The sailor dreams of the wooded slope,
The trough where the river sings,
He looks for gold on the pebbled bar
And he drinks of the mountain springs.
The hills close in and the world is small,
And the sky is a jagged patch,
And I have dreams of a moonlit sea—
And he of a dog and latch.

A Santa Rosa man has had an egg membrane grafted on his skull. At last he has the excuse to crow.

Letters to My Bootlegger.

I.

Dear Old Fellow: I dont know whether your are as glad as I that you occupy a cell. Not that I glory in the loss of freedom to any man, but somehow I breathe easier since you ceased to sell me what you used to sell me. I breathe easier and I can breathe in any man's face and not have him follow me to find out where I got it. Isn't it a happy thing to know that where you are you will not be able to drink any of the stuff you used to assure me was 99 proof and in the original grenade?

Your,
ARCHIE.

NOTES and COMMENT

New York World on old-fashioned virtues: "Commissioner Tigert in an address before the National Education Association urged a greater insistence by educators on 'the old-fashioned virtues of honesty, justice and decency' and less on 'highbrow' subjects. 'If we cannot teach these virtues along with modern thought,' he said, 'then we had better dismantle our splendidly equipped institutions and turn to the old log school-house.' The old log school-house is a sacred American heritage but before scrapping our present school system for not inculcating honesty, justice and sobriety, it might be profitable to inquire whether they are not as well inculcated at present as in the good old days."

The Chicago News records the shock that Margot Asquith has received: "Margot Asquith has returned to the eastern seaboard a shocked and saddened woman. She started west with an open mind and a feeling that prohibition might be a good thing. But she has been regaled with all the latest prohibition stories, especially the one about the intoxicated debutante. Has no one told Mrs. Asquith of the purple cow? Travelers are so much more open-minded than natives that no nation has ever been able to resist telling its visitors all the stories it does not quite believe."

* * *

The Merced Star elucidates: "Hidden away on page 7 of the March issue of the Grizzly Bear is the 'mystery' item which has created such a rumpus. The item, which is only six lines, read as follows: 'Register—A new great register is being compiled; everyone qualified who is interested in California's welfare should register and vote; this is the year when all state officers will be chosen, and California can not stand another four years of Governor Stephens, Attorney-General Webb,' etc., etc. That is all, and it is so inconspicuous that hardly one reader in ten would notice it. But it must be there for a purpose, and is contrary to all of the principles of the order which the magazine is supposed to represent."

* * *

The Kansas City Star notes the divergence of tastes: "Tastes differ, as Voltaire once remarked. California likes its varieties of winters and people, and we like ours. And then John Dos Passos's 'Three Soldiers,' which was barred from the Kansas City public library, has been adopted by the University of California for its American novel course."

The New York Sun considers suspenders: "Kipling's New England fisherman of infinite resource and sagacity wore suspenders. He not only wore 'em, he used 'em with terrible effectiveness in the whale that swallowed him, to prevent the swallowing of any more men. Delegates to the joint convention of the New York and New Jersey Retail Clothiers and Furnishers' Association agree with Kipling that men who wear suspenders are sagacious."

* * *

The Stockton Record takes account of recent U. C. occurrences: "A University of California instructor went on strike, walked out of the classroom because his class of 200 freshmen giggled and primped and cut-up like grammar school youngsters when they should have been at work. He also demanded an apology—which was forthcoming. Another of the college faculty resigned as a protest against the location of the stadium in Strawberry canyon. Now he is being besieged to come back. Verily, blessings brighten as they take their flight."

JUST FOLKS

By EDGAR A. GUEST

THE KINDLY NEIGHBOR.

I have a kindly neighbor, one who stands
Beside my gate and chats with me awhile,
Gives me the glory of his radiant smile,
And comes at times to help with willing hands.
No station high or rank this man commands,
He, too, must trudge, as I, the long day's mile:
And yet, devoid of pomp or gaudy style,
He has a worth exceeding stocks or lands.
To him I go when sorrow's at my door,
On him I lean when burdens come my way,
Together oft we talk our trials o'er
And there is warmth in each good-night we say.
A kindly neighbor! Wars and strife shall end

COMIC FILM CURES HER.

Comedy motion pictures are credited with effecting the recovery of Katharine Hartwell, 7 years old, of Pleasantville, an inmate of the Children's Seashore House in Chelsea.

The child had become weak and emaciated; she had scarcely slept for a month and was reduced to a state of helplessness where she could only with difficulty make any voluntary motion. Today she is reported on the rapid road to completely regaining her health.

She was taken to the auditorium and made as comfortable as possible. There was a comic picture on the screen as the child opened her eyes at the suggestion of the nurse. At first Katharine watched the film listlessly. Then she began to take a closer interest. That night she slept, the first full night's slumber in a month. On the following day she could move. Now they look for her recovery.—New York Times.

About YOUR HEALTH

Why Fresh Air Indoors Adds Months to Your Life

By ROYAD S. COPEDAND, M. D., Commissioner of Health, New York City.

Air contamination is of two kinds—the material and the invisible. Dust and smoke are the chief causes of the former. Chemical and bacterial agents produce the latter.

Most of us have sense enough to avoid dust and smoke. The irritation of the nose and eyes gives us a warning we are inclined to accept.

Unfortunately, there is a small fraction of the population apparently hardened and indifferent to the effects of smoke. Such persons will sit in a room filled with tobacco smoke, or spend hours in an atmosphere made extremely harmful to the health in other ways.

It is not difficult to escape the material and visible contaminations of the atmosphere. It is a greater problem to know how to avoid the invisible agents floating in the air.

Since they cannot be seen, you must learn the rules of ventilation, and in this way make sure that you are safe from the dangers of infection.

How some people avoid disease and still work and sleep in close rooms is difficult to explain. The most plausible reason is that the natural powers of resistance of such persons are above the average. A plant will die quickly if kept in a sunless and airless room. An occasional person will survive where a room full of plants would perish.

If you would have good health, firm flesh and red cheeks you must have an abundance of fresh air. You must have out-of-door air in the daytime and volumes of air at night.

If you are sensitive to drafts, have a muslin screen across your open window. A plain board, six inches high, may be fitted into your window to break the currents of air. It is unnecessary to have a glass screen unless you can afford so useful a luxury. You will be able to apply a piece of cloth in such a way as to keep out the snow and to temper the wind.

Never sleep in a room which has not been freshly aired. If you are in a hotel or a strange house, open your bedroom window at once and give the room a chance to be purified in its air.

Whether you ventilate your house or do not ventilate it will make months or even years of difference in the length of your life. Be sensible about it, and by experience learn the benefits of fresh air.

CRACKSMEN RAID JEWELERS' SAFE; GET $3000 LOOT

SAN FRANCISCO, March 13.—Jewelry, watches and precious stones to the value of $3000 were obtained by cracksmen who last night jimmied their way into the manufacturing jewelry establishment of A. Brand Witt and I. Kates, 212 Stockton street.

Experienced safeblowers are believed by the police to have been responsible for the crime which had evidently been carefully planned. The establishment is on the third floor of the building. After forcing the door the burglars used an electric drill with which the combination of the safe was removed and a steel punch utilized in gaining access to the inner compartment. The entire contents of the safe was carried off, as were all of the articles on display in the showcases.

A janitor discovered the crime and notified the police. When detectives Kelleher and Nunter arrived they found the floor littered with empty jewel trays and boxes. A piece of the steel drill and the punch were found on the floor with a sales tag showing that the cracksmen had purchased their supplies on Saturday from the hardware establishment of Charles Browne & Sons.

Denver Woman Asks Aid in Seeking Son

An appeal has come to The TRIBUNE from Mrs. B. D. Corning, 823 Twenty-sixth street, Denver, Colo., who is making an effort to find her son, now 36 years old.

The son is described as being 5 feet 7 inches tall and having brown eyes, dark hair and a dark complexion. He was smooth shaven at the time he left home.

The mother's letter says in part: "I understand he has been attending school, but I don't know the name of the school. Would judge it was a private school. He said he had been instructor in some classes.

"His father was operated on for a tubercular bone and is liable to pass away any day, and I, his mother, am so anxious to get in touch with him so he can come and see his father."

RADIO CLUB OF TRIBUNE ANNOUNCED

Full Details of Club Made Public; Receiving Sets to Be Furnished to Members for Use at a Cost Price

The TRIBUNE today announces the formation of The TRIBUNE Radio Club, with an initial membership of nearly fifty. The club has been formed under the direction of the radio editor and the director of radio transmission for The TRIBUNE. All amateurs who are equipped with radio receiving sets are eligible to membership and will enjoy the benefits provided by the club.

There are no rules governing those members who operate a receiving set only, while those members who are now owners of transmitting sets and who may install such sets in the future, must accept the following rules when making application for membership in the club:

1. To adhere strictly to the federal regulations governing the operation of radio transmitting sets, and to respect and abide by all requests made by the federal inspectors.

2. To refrain from the use of language, when transmitting, that would not be appropriate for the home or public gathering.

3. To abide by the prearranged broadcasting schedules.

4. To refrain from "cutting in" on someone else's time.

WILL RENDER SERVICE.

The club, through The TRIBUNE'S radio question and answer department, will serve its members by obtaining information and answering questions pertaining to the radio industry. The TRIBUNE radio department will be at the service of the members of the Radio Club at all times, and in this way will benefit those members who are already equipped with receiving sets.

Those who desire to obtain sets and become members of The TRIBUNE Radio Club may do so through The TRIBUNE, which is now negotiating for a quanity of high-grade crystal receiving sets at a price far below the cost of the instrument when constructed at home, and far below the price asked for the same instrument when sold at retail radio stores. In order to obtain one of these sets it will be necessary to make application for membership in the club. Membership in the club is free and entails no expense whatever.

RECEIVING SET AT COST.

The crystal receiving sets may be obtained at cost by members or by those who make application for membership. Those who can not afford to purchase the set outright, or who desire to earn it, may obtain it by doing a little work for the circulation department, announcement of which will be made later.

BERKELEY, March 13.—A campaign to raise $8000 for the support of the University of California Young Women's Christian Association will be opened on March 20, with Berkeley clubwomen and college students working jointly in the interests of the institution.

Although the yearly budget of the college "Y" calls for $13,000, the general public will be asked to contribute but $8000 of that amount. The remaining sum will be raised in a campaign to be conducted on the campus later in the spring.

Clubwomen throughout Berkeley will be told of the work of the University Y. W. C. A. by four-minute student speakers now being organized under the direction of Miss Ella Barrows. Clubs who will hear the appeal include College Women's Twentieth Century, Berkeley Center of the California League for Women Voters, Piano, Faculty Women's Agriculture, University Mothers, Hillside and others. Among the prominent student workers who will aid in the campaign are the Misses Kathryn Springborg, Eloise Selleck, Lois Brock and Gertrude Matthew.

The University of California "Y" has the distinction of being the largest institution of its kind in the United States and is unique in the service it renders the community through its Girls' Reserve club and social service department. Mrs. John L. Reith is general chairman of the campaign, while listed on the advisory board are:

MAY PROLONG DRIVE TO AID UNEMPLOYED

Team Captains Will Report on Result of Canvassing at Luncheon Tomorrow; Entertainment to Be of Benefit

Today was the last day of the "1 per cent drive."

Throughout the day workers in the Eastbay district were addressed by campaign workers and told why it was necessary for them to donate 1 per cent of their wages to the cause of unemployment.

Tomorrow noon a luncheon meeting will be held at the Hotel Oakland, at which the various team captains will report on the success of their canvassing. If the sum donated and pledged reaches the necessary $60,000, the work of the citizens' emergency employment and relief committee will be concluded in a short time.

"In the event that we do not reach the quota it will be necessary to continue the drive," said J. Cal Ewing, chairman of the campaign committee, today. "This money is needed to provide work for the army of unemployed and their families. It is not to be dispensed in charity but in work for the men."

The solicitors represent in the main delegates sent to the employment committee by the various luncheon clubs in the city. The solicitors have been organized into teams and have been working for the past week. Their work consists of securing the pledges of the workers and the contributions of the employers.

EMPLOYERS RESPOND.

Thomas Eaglesome, general chairman of the citizens' emergency employment and relief committee, said today that employers are rising to the occasion as strongly as are the workers.

"We are not trying to make the employed men and women of the city carry the burden of this campaign," he said. "The employers and all classes of well-to-do men have been called upon in no uncertain terms to carry their share of the burden, and when the figures are made public it will be seen that they have responded nobly. This campaign, we consider, is an ideal one because it asks everybody to share the burden in proportion to his or her ability to do so. Employer and employee alike have indicated that their heart is in the campaign to aid their less fortunate brothers."

Employees are being asked to give 1 per cent of their salaries over a period of eight weeks and business men are asked for larger subscriptions. The money will be used by the citizens' committee to hire men now registered at the municipal woodyard on public work. Only men living in Oakland and having dependents are eligible to the relief, and virtually no money is dispensed in actual charity, Eaglesome explained. The plan, he said, was to provide employment.

Eaglesome said the present payroll is more than $4000 a week and that all this money is being provided by public subscription, the city funds having been exhausted. The emergency, he said, will continue for at least eight weeks.

ENTERTAINMENT TO AID.

Meanwhile arrangements have been completed by the Epworth League Alliance of Alameda county for a big entertainment to be held at the Auditorium tomorrow evening for the benefit of the unemployed. Two-thirds of the proceeds from the entertainment will go toward providing relief for the families of those out of work.

The committee in charge of the arrangements is headed by E. D. Johnson and the performers at the entertainment will include: The Lyric quartet of Berkeley, which includes the Misses Irma L. Sawyer, May Fraser, Myrtle M. Chestermann and Edith M. Wooldridge. This quartet has been singing in the bay region for several years and is well known among music lovers; Jerome Shaffer, the well-known humorist; Ray Cortsen, tenor soloist of the Shattuck Avenue church; Howard Milholland, impersonator and reader; Hildegard Waasa, soprano soloist; Flossita Badger, contralto soloist, and Reinhardt Looser, violin soloist of the German church. Girls from the Swedish church will endeavor to show "How a Girl Keeps a Secret" in playlet.

PEANUT MACHINE LOOTED.

ALAMEDA, March 13.—Theft of a peanut machine from the lobby of Nelson's pharmacy, Ninth street and Santa Clara avenue, was reported to the police last night. The machine was found this morning a short distance from the store. About $2 had been taken from it, according to the police.

CANYON SITE FOR STADIUM PROTESTED

Campus Protective Association Adopts Vigorous Resolutions Asking U. of C. Regents to Alter the Program

Endorsing the campaign of the Campus Protective association in its crusade to conserve the natural beauties of Strawberry Canyon from what the nature-lovers term desecration by the placing of the proposed stadium in this oak and laurel-lined canyon, the Contra Costa Hills club has presented an emphatic protest to the University regents, following an open-air meeting held on the proposed site yesterday.

Charles Keeler, secretary of the Berkeley Chamber of Commerce, delivered an inspiring eulogy on the late Professor Le Conte, in whose memory the club desires to see the present Strawberry Canyon renamed Le Conte Canyon. He advocated the parking of its watershed as a scenic asset and attraction of Berkeley, and suggested the erection of a stone bench with a tablet and appropriate inscription to "Professor Joe" on a commanding spur of Charter Hill.

MAXIMUM APPROACH.

Dr. William Frederic Bade, president of the Sierra club, declared the maximum approach to the proposed stadium site in Strawberry Canyon would only subtend an angle of 90 degrees, instead of 360 degrees, as in the locations of other stadium bowls centrally located in Eastern States.

"If 40,000 spectators came in 10,000 automobiles to witness contests in this stadium, and 15 feet be allowed for parking space for each car, the line would cover 28 miles in length," Dr. Bade pointed out. "The congestion in consequence in the few adjacent streets would make this canyon site inaccessible."

The following appeal to the board of regents was unanimously adopted:

"Berkeley, Calif., March 12, 1922.

"To the Board of Regents,
University of California,
"Gentlemen:

"We, the undersigned committee representing the Contra Costa Hills club, respectfully submit to your honorable body the following resolution adopted by members of the club in open meeting this day at the site of the proposed stadium in what is now known as Strawberry Canyon.

"We, the members of the Contra Costa Hills club, earnestly protest against the location of the proposed stadium at this site for the following reasons:

"First—It will result in the desecration of a beautiful canyon, with no practical compensating advantages to the university or the city of Berkeley.

"Second—That the site, being in a narrow canyon with steep sides, would obstruct the ingress and egress of the enormous crowds that would attend athletic contests in the stadium. It is a simple demonstration, as Dr. William Frederic Bade, president of the Sierra club, has proven to us, that the maximum angle of approach to this site could only be a segment of 90 degrees, instead of 360 degrees, as is the case of a centrally-located bowl. Such traffic approaches could only be 25 per cent efficient in accomodating the scores of thousands of spectators.

"Third—That this condition would result in intolerable congestion due to parking thousands of automobiles in the few streets leading to the proposed site, and it would jeopardize the safety of the public with many hazards.

"Fourth—That in no way does the proposed site satisfy the requirements that have been set in the selection of the great university stadium sites of the Eastern States.

"Fifth—That it would inflict great inconvenience and injustice upon nearby residents of Berkeley and lovers of the natural beauty of this canyon, which we desire to see named in honor of Professor Joseph Le Conte.

"Respectfully submitted by the Resolutions Committee:

"J. Carl Seulberger, president, Markell Baer, Meta C. Mohr, Charles E. Warner and Harold French."

Weary of Sleuthing Addresses, Workers Ask Plain Numbers

Relief for baffled postmen, policemen, chauffeurs, messenger boys and others who have tried to find a house in a residence district on a dark night is presaged by an innovation suggested to the street department by M. E. Ward of 1016 Oakland avenue, who suggests that the number of each house be imprinted in a cement block at the front of the lawn, and at the same level with the lawn.

Ward wants to know if his plan is legal. Street department officials believe it is.

The present system of numbering houses, according to admissions by street officials, is a hodge-podge that doesn't mean anything. One resident places his number boldly under a side window. The man next door puts his under a cornice near the doorway, where no one can possibly see it from the street.

There is an ordinance requiring residents to display their numbers in frank and legible fashion, but it is admitted that there are so many other ordinances to enforce that this one is lost.

Messenger boys and special delivery men who must find house numbers on dark nights are unanimous in favor of doing something about it.

McHenry, widow of Judge John McHenry, of San Francisco. Mrs. McHenry's death occurred yesterday at the Keith home, 2701 Ridge road, at the age of 94 years. Rev. W. R. Hodgkin will officiate. Interment will be private in Mountain View cemetery.

Tardy Letter Causes Disappearance Report

BERKELEY, March 13.—Tardiness on the part of James Alexander McMillan in writing to his wife caused the latter to report his "disappearance" to the police, according to developments yesterday. Reported as mysteriously missing on Saturday, McMillan, who is a well known engineer, wrote to his wife from Santa Clara that he was detained there on business. The letter failed to reach Mrs. McMillan at her home, 2611 McGee avenue, until late on Saturday.

SOCIETY RUBS ELBOWS WITH PICKPOCKETS

Police Believe Members of Fashionable Set Are Being Robbed by Person or Persons Posing as Elect Friends

Another Raffles has come to Oakland and is being admitted to the homes of the best families.

This is the belief of the police expressed today following the report of Mrs. Ruth Bird Nichols, 330 Twenty-fourth street, that she lost a purse containing $48 and a valuable gold watch at the Ebell clubhouse on Saturday night.

This is the second theft within a period of two weeks, the first being the theft of $1600 in currency from the purse of Miss Zanette Potter at the Municipal Auditorium on Saturday night March 4. This money represented the receipts from the "Vision of Fair Women," a pageant presented by the Mills Club and managed by Miss Potter.

Last Saturday night the Rubiri Club entertained at a dance in the Ebell clubhouse, at 1440 Harrison street. The affair was attended by a host of society people with Mrs. Nichols in charge of the arrangements. She left her wraps in the dressing room and when the entertainment had concluded, found that her effects had been looted.

"The frequency with which these thefts are recurring would indicate that the thief is not the ordinary petty larcenist," said Chief of Police James T. Drew today. "We are inclined to believe that Oakland society is entertaining another Raffles unawares.

WIFE DRESSES UP FOR HUSBAND

Wilbur could hardly believe his eyes. He looked again to make sure it was indeed his wife. It was, but not the same tired looking person who usually greeted him in a faded house dress when he came home for supper.

"Gee, Honey, what's the idea? Are we having a party or something, dearest? A new dress, too, and just the color I like. Hurry and relieve my mind—what's the occasion?"

"Don't be silly, dear. The occasion is that I am going to dress up for supper every evening after this. It rests me to get out of my house dress and into something pretty, and I guess it will please you, too, won't it, dear?"

"You bet it will, Honey. But tell me about that new dress. Will it set me back fifty dollars or so?"

"Oh, no, Wilbur. That's the best part of it. I got it at Cherry's, 515 13th street, and only made a small payment down and then I am going to make convenient monthly payments for the rest of it. You know, Wilbur, you can do the same thing at the men's store—it's at 525 13th street."—Advertisement.

"I'm lucky"

Ed Green said to me when I met him yesterday. Ed has been out of a job for two months and has a wife and two kiddies to look after, so I wondered how he figured himself lucky.

"As soon as I got that job in the yards," he explained, "I put away a certain part of my check every month, no matter what happened, and I'm sure glad I did. Even if I don't find a job for another two months I won't have to worry because I had my little reserve where I could get at it when I needed it."

OAKS SWAMP ALL-STAR TEAM IN FIRST PRACTICE GAME

By EDDIE MURPHY.

OAKS' TRAINING CAMP, Myrtledale Hot Springs, March 13.—The Oaks' infield for the opening of the season has practically been decided upon by Manager Ivan Howard, and the only problems that Ivan has before him for the selection of the opening week lineups are the picking of the outfielders and pitchers. In talking over the makeup of the club with President J. Cal Ewing, who arrived here last Saturday, the Howards said that the infield and catching department will be their least worry, for Bill Mariott, the former Chicago Cub, has cinched the third-base job, and Lafayette promises to fit in very nicely at first base in place of Louis Guisto. Ray Brubaker and Jack Knight will be at their old positions around the keystone sack, while Ivan Howard will fill in as utility.

Babe Pinelli was a valuable man around the third bag for the Oaks last year, and a great favorite with the fans all over the circuit, but Del Howard claims that Bill Mariott will make the fans forget all about Babe. Pinelli was rated as one of the fastest men in the league last season, but Mariott should show as much class if not more than the former Oak in running the sacks. Lafayette is still bothered with a sore rib, and Ivan Howard is looking after the first bag in the meantime, but "Laffy" has already shown enough class to cause Ivan Howard to feel he will not make a mistake in starting the big fellow at first base. Too much cannot be said of Ray Brubaker's work around the short patch, and he promises to be decorated with the crown for being the best shortstop in the league this season.

Ivan Howard Is Sweet On Outfielder Coleman.

The outfield will be unsettled until time that the Oakland owners can come to terms with Claude Cooper, or find out if they are to get a new gardener from some major league club. Every day Ivan and Del Howard are speaking of what a great find they have in young George Coleman. Ivan Howard claims that if Coleman's right can be given its natural strength by the treatments being given by Doctor Finlay, he will be worth close to fifty thousand dollars to any ball club. Ivan has been in many training camps and watched hundreds of bushers break in, but says that he never saw one who appeared so well developed as Coleman.

Howard has taken a liking to him because he seems different than the average busher. In the practice games here he follows out every instruction given, and when men are on the bags, he knows how to hit the ball on the ground and not try to hit it forty miles. Coleman is so fast on his feet that any slow roller to the infield is usually good for a base-hit.

Ted Cathers played good ball for the Oaks last season, and no doubt would have made a better impression had he been in the game regularly. Don Brown of Salt Lake has been contesting Cathers for the left-field job, and no matter which one wins out, it is almost a cinch that both will be carried on the payroll through the season, as they can be used in the infield or outfield in an emergency.

Picking the Hurlers Is the Big Problem.

Ivan Howard has about decided to stand pat on the same catching department as last season, with Art Kohler doing the bulk of the work, with Pete Read and Honus Mitze as assistants. Picking the pitchers will be one of the biggest problems. Ivan Howard has been busy watching thirteen hurlers in action, and has seen so much good in the seasoned hurlers that he will hardly have room to carry any of the young fellows without having to cut the team down in some other department. All the seasoned hurlers, with the exception of Herb Brenton, have been cutting loose, and Herb has been taking things easy because of arriving late. He was given a long treatment by Finlay last Saturday, and tells that he will be able to go out this afternoon and cut them loose.

Bill Rodgers Should Look Over the Young Fellows.

Ivan is hoping that he can make arrangements with some Class B or C league to serve as a farm for the young Oaks, for he says all but one of the young fellows here are worth farming out. Besides Homen as a prospect for future use as an Oak, there are Orville Shoulder, Jimmy Monahan, Dick Arlett and Lanc Shultis. Shultis was with the club last season, before and after going to the Vancouver club in the Pacific International league. With all these young fellows showing so much promise, none of the oldtimers can afford to take things easy, for Ivan Howard says that it never does any harm to carry a young pitcher on the bench.

Del Howard expects to make arrangements with the Sioux City club to take over some of the young fellows. This would be a good place for Manager Bill Rodgers of the Calgary club to visit, as Bill is very much in need of talent, and Del Howard says that he would be willing to help him. Besides some promising pitchers, Howard has almost an entire infield which he is sure would get by in Class B company. Phil Gardner has shown up well as a first-sacker, but has yet to live up to the reputation he built up for himself as a hitter in the bushes. Dick Barry is a good infielder, and it would be hard to get him out of the Coast league if he could hit a little harder. Barney Kearns has tried out for an infield job with the Oaks three different times, and in the spring he always shapes up like a champion around short. He was farmed to the Western league last season, and it looks like he is due to be farmed again.

Howards Also Like Work Of Foster and Alley.

Del and Ivan Howard are stuck on Jimmy Foster's work around the third bag, and they think that he needs one season of experience in a smaller league. Foster, in the opinion of Del, has just as good a pair of hands as Willie Kamm, and all that Kamm has on him is the few years of experience. With as much experience as Kamm has, Howard says Foster will be just as good as the Seal third-sacker.

Dan Alley, the Stockton boy, impresses Del and Ivan Howard almost as has George Coleman. Alley came here to try out for a catching job, but has shown in the practice games that he can play infield or outfield also. Alley also wields a wicked stick, and if any of the three catchers of last year were to lose out, Dan would be the man to fill the opening. Johnny Fox is trying hard, but as yet he has not shown up as well as any of the other youngsters in camp.

Oaks Score a Win Over Pop Arlett's Stars

First Game in Camp With An Outside Team Finds Ivan Howard's Men in Shape.

MYRTLEDALE HOT SPRINGS, March 13.—Ivan Howard's Gray Oaks celebrated their first game with an outside team by defeating Pop Arlett's All Stars of Oakland 10 to 3 here yesterday afternoon. Russell (Buz) Arlett and Hod Eller worked on the hill for Howard's crew and in all the Stars got eleven hits off them, several being the result of pop flies, on which fielders became confused. Arlett worked the first five innings and was nicked for one run. Six hits were made off him, but he was effective in the pinches.

In the fifth inning the Stars loaded the bags with one out and Buz pulled out without any scoring against him, Eddie Rose lining to Lon Brown in center field and George Quellich falling victim of three strikes.

The Stars got a run off Eller in each of the seventh and eighth innings. In the eighth both Gene Kersten and Begier got hits on pop flies, which fell back of the infielders and helped a run over. Ted Cathers got three hits and batted home as many runs for the Oaks. Ivan Howard played first base in place of Lafayette and handled everything well, besides connecting with the horsehide for a triple and single. Both Coleman and Lafayette were unable to play because of injuries.

George Murchio, former U. C. hurler, started on the hill for the Stars and in the first inning his wildness, along with Knight's sacrifice fly and Ted Cather's timely bingle, gave the Oaks a three-run lead. Three more runs were made off him before he retired after the fifth inning, and Gene Kersten, who relieved him, allowed but two hits in the remaining four innings.

In addition to getting a live drive off the bat of Eddie Rose, Don Brown cut off trouble in the eighth inning by going into left center to grab Pop Arlett's long fly. The bags were full at the time. Eddie Rose starred in centerfield for Arlett's team, making two fine catches that robbed Don Brown of base hits. The score:

Bears Win Odd Bout Over Cards in Ring

STANFORD UNIVERSITY, March 13.—The University of California won the annual boxing championship from Stanford Saturday night on the farm four bouts to three in the regularly scheduled events. Stanford won some satisfaction by taking two of the three exhibition bouts, but they do not count on the score sheet, being Freshman events held on account of Stanford forfeiting the annual meets to the Bruins.

Sol Silverman scored the big hit of the evening when he knocked out Tom Boyles of the Cardinal team in the 115-pound class in the opening minute of the first round. Captain Jimmy Clin won a decision over Wassum of Stanford without difficulty in the 158-pound class, while Bob Crowley took the number of Evans of Stanford in the 175-pound match. The Bears won the meet when Stanford refused to meet them in the unlimited division and defaulted the match that meant the meet. The results:

EXHIBITION BOUTS.

VARSITY BOUTS.

Pennsylvania Crew Captain Resigns

PHILADELPHIA, March 13.—E. P. Mitchell, captain and stroke of the University of Pennsylvania, has resigned the captaincy because of information that he could not continue to row and keep up with his classes. He is a senior in the Towne Scientific School. Lawrence Rosenburgh, a senior in the Wharton School of Finance, was named acting captain.

The crew committee announced that hereafter the position of captain would be considered same as commodore in the Cornell navy and that a coach need not feel that a captain necessarily be included in the Varsity boat.

Argentine Swimmer Is Endurance Champion

BUENOS AIRES, March 13.—Rameo Maciel, an Argentine student, yesterday completed a record swim from Colonia, Uruguay, to this city, a distance of 44 kilometers (about 27 miles) across the Platta estuary. He was in the water 24 hours, 30½ minutes, beating the previous record by 20 minutes. This is said to be a world's record for endurance swimming.

He Was Born in Alameda

Here is a new picture of DUFFY LEWIS, manager of the Salt Lake club of the Pacific Coast League. Duffy was born and raised in Alameda and learned to play ball in the sand lots of that city. He broke into the professional game as a member of the Oaks and later gained fame through his work with the famous Boston Red Sox.

TRAINING CAMP ~BREVITIES~

Tigers

LOS ANGELES, March 13.—The Vernon Tigers took another ball game from the Cubs here yesterday. The score was 9 to 6. Arnold Statz and Hack Miller cavorted with the Cubs and were given a big cheer. Statz connected with a two-sacker and Miller went hitless in three times at bat. The score:

Chicago Nationals	6	3	4
Vernon Pacific Coast	9	9	3

Indians

STOCKTON, March 13.—Brick Eldred, holdout outfielder, has accepted President Boldt's terms and will report tomorrow. He has been working out for a week with Sacramento. The Senators were bidding for the player. Stubby Mack and Ben Kelly held a fast semi-pro team to three runs, while the Indians amassed fourteen yesterday.

STOCKTON, March 13.—The Seattle Indians smothered the Sperry Flours, a local semi-professional team, under a 14 to 3 score in an exhibition game here today. The hitting of Shulte, Lane and Murphy and the pitching of Ben Kelly, former New York Giant, featured the contest. Score:

Seattle	14	15	5
Sperry	3	6	1

Seals

BOYES SPRINGS, March 13. — It was announced today that the illness of Sam Agnew, the Seals' star catcher, will not be serious and a week's rest will put him in playing form. It was first feared he was suffering from appendicitis. The regulars returned today with Santa Rosa's scalp dangling, 13 to 1, while Yanningans were smiling over a 5 to 3 win from Vallejo.

Oaks

MYRTLEDALE, March 13.—While Cal Ewing, owner, dickered today with Claud Cooper, outfielder, the Oaks' only hold out, with good prospect of bringing him in line, Del and Ivan Howard were busy figuring on how many of their big league options they will have to exercise a week from today. They have two players coming from the Cubs, two from Cincinnati and one from Detroit.

Angels

LOS ANGELES, March 13. — Wet weather Saturday caused a change in schedule for the Los Angeles club's game with the Cubs. They were to have played yesterday but the Angels gave way to the Tigers, whose game was spoiled Saturday. Friday—St. Patrick's Day—the Cubs and Angels will cross bats at Washington Park.

Bees

MODESTO, March 13.—The Salt Lake Coast Leaguers were forced to extend themselves to take yesterday's game from Harry Coffey's Stars of Fresno, 5 to 2. Kallio, Blaeholder and Thorlander, pitching for the Bees, were hit hard, but fast work by Chavez, Sands, Siglin and Vitt in the infield and Mathers and Light in the outfield cut down base hits. McHenry, former major leaguer, pitched the first six frames for the Stars and Wright finished the game.

Beavers

PASADENA, March 13.—The Portland Beavers weren't feeling so good today over their showing made yesterday when they were handed the small end of a 9 to 2 score by the Cox-Haas semi-pro nine here. The pitching of Al Miller, who sent 'em ready-cut, coupled with the failure of the Beaver batsmen to clout 'em out in the pinches, were the reasons for the Cox-Haas romping away with the victory.

Major Leagues

CHICAGO, March 13.—Sunday found all the big league teams in action, according to training camp reports reaching here today.

The Chicago Americans, tickled with their successful engagement with the New York Nationals yesterday, resumed practice today at Seguin, Texas. The Sox and Giants will meet three times this week in Texas.

In San Antonio the Giants were not downhearted by the Sox defeats, but were boasting of a pitching find in Claude Lonnard, last year's strikeout king of the Southern league with Little Rock. He hurled three brilliant innings and didn't allow a hit or a run and struck out two men. The score was 4 to 3.

Members of the Detroit American squad were prepared to receive Baseball Commissioner Landis at their training camp in Augusta, Ga., today. Commissioner Landis, it was stated, planned to make Augusta his first stopping place on his proposed tour of baseball training camps.

GRIMES IS A HOLD-OUT.

Burleigh Grimes, star right-hander of the Brooklyn Dodgers, is causing the Dodgers' chief a lot of worry at Jacksonville, Fla., training camp over his contract, but President Ebbets says he has made his final proposition to him. Grimes said he was considering an offer of $9000 a year for five years by a semi-pro. club in Chicago.

The Yankees were talking enthusiastically today of the fine showing yesterday by George Murray, who pitched for five innings in the game with the New Orleans Pelicans and allowed only two hits and was never in any danger of being scored upon. Murray is from the Rochester club of the International league.

The arrival of Judge (Shanks) Gharrity and Earl Smith at the Tampa (Fla) training camp of the Washington club yesterday, with Roger Peckinpaugh due to get in today, practically completed the squad. Leon Goslin, the promising young outfielder, has been reinstated. All the players are reported to be progressing favorably in condition except Walter Johnson, who has a cold.

Sacramento Wins Second From St. Mary's

Gene Van Houtte Hurls Good Game, But Errors in Field Beat the Collegians.

SACRAMENTO, March 13. — The Senators made it two straight over St. Mary's College here yesterday afternoon when they beat the Oakland collegians by a score of 3-1. The Coasters had beaten the Saints in the first game Saturday by a score of 11-2. Kunte, Penner and Solyan worked on the mound for Colonel Pick's club yesterday and held the college team helpless, the Red and Blue getting their run off the latter. Billy Orr worked at short while Pick held down second. The combination worked perfectly, handling sixteen chances between them without a bobble.

Coach Leader Has Sundodger Crew on Grind

Bagshaw Approves Abolishing Goal Kick; Spring Practice to Start Soon.

SEATTLE, Wash., March 13.—With the annual regatta between the University of Washington and University of California varsity and freshman crews but little more than a month away, the purple and gold oarsmen are swinging into the final lap of their long training grind. From now until the day of the big race, April 22, Coach Ed Leader will drive the athletes through stiff daily practice rows on Lake Washington regardless of rain or wind. Washington's average weight will top the weight of the 1921 eight by a half dozen pounds. The way the Merrilly, Leader's first varsity boat, lines up at present there is an average of 175 pounds to the man.

The first week in April will see the first turnout of the University of Washington's 1922 gridiron timber. Coach Bagshaw having announced the initial practice of the spring training season for that week. The first practice will see close to 100 football aspirants answering the call of the gridiron for the members of the unusually large 1921 frosh squad are planning to report to Bagshaw en masse. Six varsity veterans are lost to the purple and gold this year through graduation, but fourteen letter-men remain from last fall's organization as the nucleus around which to build a team.

Coach Enoch Bagshaw, University of Washington grid mentor, approves the new ruling by the intercollegiate rules committee eliminating the goal kick following touchdowns. He says it is a good measure that should have been put through long ago and will place a premium on defensive football instead of a simple trick that almost any gridiron athlete can master in a few hours' practice.

Tickets Can Now Be Had for First Game

According to an announcement made by Herbie McFarlin, the genial secretary of the Oaks, this morning, fans can now place their reservations for bix seat and reserve tickets at the opening day of the Oakland park on Tuesday, April 11. Applications should be made direct to the office of the Oakland baseball club, and it will be a case of first come, first served, for the choice seats. "Those who want the positions of vantage to welcome the Oaks in their first game of the season on their home lot should take a tip from one who knows," said McFarlin, "and not delay in placing reservations as there is every indication that there will be an unusually large demand for tickets for the opening game."

Davis Cup Challenge Will Close Wednesday

NEW YORK, March 13.—Challenges for the Davis cup from Japan and Belgium have reached the offices of the United States Lawn Tennis Association.

The Belgian challenge was forwarded by Chevalier Paul De Borman of the Belgian Lawn Tennis Federation, and the notice that Japan would enter its racquet stars was contained in a cable message from Taunekichi Asabuki, president of the Japanese Lawn Tennis Association.

The challenge list for the Davis cup will be closed Wednesday. Besides the challenges, receipt of which was announced today, the association has recorded others from Australasia, British Isles, Canada, Czecho-Slovakia, Denmark, France, India, Italy, Spain and Hawaii.

Coach Wallis Moves McMillan to Stroke

UNIVERSITY OF CALIFORNIA, March 13.—Coach Ben Wallis relinquished his post in the training launch yesterday long enough to step into the first Varsity boat at stroke and put the first-string men through the paces as it was done at Yale some years ago. He then switched Captain Dan McMillan from six to stroke, Bolling from stroke to six and put Gardner, a second Varsity man, in at No. 2. With this combination, the Varsity tore off the best time trial yet recorded this season. The lineup: King, cox.; McMillan, stroke; Brown, No. 7; Bolling, No. 6; Howells, No. 5; Steinmert, No. 4; Haskins, No. 3; Gardner, No. 2, and Rosendahl, bow.

GERALD BEAUMONT sees the OAKS

Reminiscences of "Hap" Hogan.

The boys are gathered around a log fire in the evening discussing the greatest character in the history of the Pacific Coast League. Happy Hogan, manager of the Vernon Club, known in private life as Wallace Bray.

JOE—Well, sir, I never will forget the last game in which Hogan appeared. It was on a Sunday afternoon in Los Angeles. Hap had caught the morning game, and then gone for a dip in the surf. He showed up in the afternoon at the park, donned his uniform and sat on the bench. I think the Seals were the contenders and they needed that game very badly. In the last half of the ninth, with the Seals leading by one run, the Tigers got a man on third and another on second with one out. Hogan decided to go up to the plate as a pinch hitter. He stops the proceedings, brushes off the plate with his cap, and then makes a speech to the grandstand.

"Ladies and Gentlemen—the famous Mr. Hogan will now execute the squeeze play. He will bunt the ball toward third base in such a manner as to score both runners, thereby winning the game. I shall now give the signal to the men on base by tapping the bat against my cleats like this."

Hogan illustrated his words, pulled his cap down, spat on his hands, and assumed a ludicrous pose at the plate. Everyone was looking for him to try and knock the ball out of the park, but with the first pitch, he bunted toward third base just as he had said he would do, and the runner had such a big lead that he easily beat the throw to the plate. The catcher pegged toward first to get Hogan, and the man who had been on second came all the way home with the winning run.

Hogan walks out into the middle of the diamond, raises his cap, bows to left and right, and yells out:

"I thank you!"

HAPPY WAS A REAL CHARACTER.

The next day he was in bed with pneumonia, and two days later death claimed him. Twenty minutes before the end, he looked up at his wife, and whispered: "Well, I think I've got 'em beat."

But, it was not to be, and the game lost one of its most picturesque and beloved characters.

DEL—Did you ever hear about Hogan's favorite form of dueling?

CHORUS—Let's have it!

DEL—One afternoon, Hogan and a friend of his went into one of those tough saloons with sawdust on the floor that used to be prevalent in certain south-of-Market street sections. Hogan and his friend were indulging in a glass of beer when the swinging doors parted and in came a six-foot roughneck with shoulders like the back of a hack. Hogan had never seen the man before in his life, and neither had the other fellow ever seen Hogan. Hap suddenly deserts his friend, walks up to the Goliath, slaps him on the back, and says:

"Can you fight?"

The fellow looked at Hogan a minute in much the same way that a Newfoundland would look at a fox terrier. Then he resumed his conversation with the bartender. Once more Hogan thumped him on the back, and demanded:

Can you fight?"

The big fellow, rather annoyed, replied:

"Yes, I can fight."

"Well, are you willing to fight?"

"Yes, I'm willing to fight if that's what you want."

"Do you mean to say," shouted Hogan, "that you challenge me to a fight?"

The big man shoved his glass of beer away and glared at Hogan in exasperation.

"Yes, I challenge you to a fight."

"That being the case," Hogan proclaimed," I have the right to say how we shall fight."

"Go ahead," said the big man." I'll fight you clean, rough or any other way!" How d'ya want to fight."

Hogan took off his coat, threw it down, drew himself up heroically, and brandished both arms in the air.

BACK TO BACK ON THE FLOOR.

"I'll fight you," he shouted dramatically," "I'll fight you BACK TO BACK ON THIS BARROOM FLOOR!"

Suiting the action to his words, he got down on his back in the sawdust, and motioned to Goliath to do likewise. The big man stared at Hogan for a moment, and then the muscles in his face began to twitch.

"Of all the damn fools I ever see," he grunted, "you're the biggest."

"Is that the way you feel about it?" Hogan asked.

"Yes," said the challenger.

Hogan arose and donned his coat. "All right," he said, "let's have a drink." And that was the way Hogan's duels always ended.

Syracuse Oarsman With Blue and Gold

UNIVERSITY OF CALIFORNIA, March 13.—One of the best crew prospects of the season discovered by Coach Ben Wallis, although ineligible for competition on this year's California crew, is Charlie Loskamp, former Syracuse oarsman who has transferred to the Berkeley institution. Loskamp had a most enviable reputation for bending a mean oar while rowing for the Orange eight in the East and he is working on the third California varsity at the present time. Wallis is a firm believer in looking toward the future for Loskamp will be eligible next year and is an excellent prospect for Stroke. In the East Loskamp rowed on the freshman crew and last year was a member of the Syracuse eight that participated in the intercollegiates in June.

New Rule Passed Governing College Sport Competition

PITTSBURGH, Pa., March 13.—At a meeting of the Athletic Council a discussion was entered into by those present attempting to abolish baseball at Carnegie Tech for the present season. It was, however, moved that beginning September 1, 1922, the varsity teams should not enter into competition with any other teams than regular collegiate opponents. This rule will be observed in every varsity sport and will do away with the playing of club teams in the preliminary season.

OUR "Quality" Clothes have never relinquished the style leadership for which they are noted.

OAKLAND NATIVES WIN CHAMPIONSHIP OF TRIBUNE LEAGUE

By DOUG. MONTELL.

Tommy Lynch up and spilled the Boston s yesterday as far as a championship for his Poplar Candies was concerned when he elected to allow Gene Fitzgerald to chuck baseballs over the plate against the Oakland Natives, the new champions of The TRIBUNE Class "A" league, so called since they draped an 8-2 count on the Kandy Kids at Ewing's baseball village yesterday afternoon. For five innings Mr. Fitzgerald did great work, yea, even noble work. But time and tide wait for no man, and when the veteran of the Seven Years' war weakened before a fusilade of basehits in canto the sixth, Tommy Lynch was somewhere up stage conversing with a deckhand or stagehand, and missed his cue as manager. Whereupon the Natives hit to the four corners of the earth to put a game on ice that could have been kept within reason.

It was a most strategic move in the first place that sent Fitzgerald to the mound. The unexpected always gets by in great style, and for four frames the Oakland N. S. G. W. batters didn't know that first base was in the park as far as getting base knocks to arrive there was concerned. In the fifth Tillie Ferreria gave one a ride for a couple of sacks, and from that point on until he was derricked, Fitzgerald was in hot water. The avalanche hit him in the sixth, and when the clouds of war had scampered on the Natives had overcome a two-run lead that the Poplars had held since the first inning, and were out in front by as wide a margin.

Poplars Get Both Runs In the First.

And as the king remarked to Daniel, many strange things came to pass in the first inning. The strangest part was that the Poplars immediately took to Phillips like a duck to water, and ran two men across the plate before the Natives had an opportunity to camp in their dugout and pick out their bats. Phillips started a trifle wild and passed the Kandy Kid's fiery leader, Tommy Lynch. G. Viani played the role of victim and sacrificed perfectly. Into the picture strode Newman, who, for no reason at all, lifted one into the Texas league class beyond Goldenson that scored Lynch. Newman perched on second and scored on Gallagher's single. The Poplar rooters continued to cheer lustily on the strength of this lead for five innings, and with Fitzgerald pitching airtight ball it looked as though the Kandy outfit were due to hang one on Manager Crosby's aggregation of made in California products.

Fitzgerald Weakens In the Sixth Frame.

Fitzgerald proved to be but a toy balloon, and somebody stuck a pin in the championship stuff to finish the sixth. The Poplar hurler started the parade by passing Garcia. Codington waited until the big one arrived and sent Garcia to third, the Natives' third-sacker then being run down between first and second. Langridge was all feet when Goldenson's roller arrived, and Garcia counted. Holstrom was on a vacation in the swat department that inning, and lofted to short, but Starasinich unloaded a bingle at the right place. Tillie Ferreria popped one on the nose to center to send Goldenson home to tie the count. Here Fitzgerald should have demanded help, but none arrived and the Poplar's chances of winning went up the well-known creek when Bertolacci laid another hit to center to score Starasinich and Ferreria with what proved to be ample runs to win.

And Basehits Also Rained in Seventh.

Not satisfied with having broken Fitzgerald's perfect twirling record, the ten commandments, a flock of the Poplar rooters' bankrolls and other incidentals, the Natives came right back in the their next turn at bat to hand Fitzgerald a royal pasting. Phillips found one that he liked and put it where no Poplar had his feet located at the moment. Garcia was the victim of a ruling by Umps Zimmerman that gave the boys something to argue about for the afternoon. Garcia's best was a foul that went up high enough to clear his shoulder and roll down his back. The Umps ruled him out because he had never seen the play before, and Gardner rushed in to suggest that the batter was out. Codington put one in safe territory to send Phillips to third and then stole second. Goldenson singled and Phillips counted. Whereupon Walter ("Dutch" "Achilles" "Babe Ruth of the Bushes") Holstrom advanced and gave the countersign to the tune of two bags, the ball scooting inside the first sack. Fitzgerald moved to rightfield and there was a general rearrangement of the Poplar line-up. Starasinich greeted the new hurler with a sharp single that sent Holstrom to third. Starasinich took a lead off first base and started for second on the first pitch and "Bambino" Holstrom waddled down the third base line to register on a delayed steal, while the infield ran Starasinich down between first and second.

New Champions All Set to Play Oaks.

And thus was a championship settled. Now that it is all over the Natives declare that there was never any doubt from the start but that they would win. As Manager Bill Crosby said after the game "Every cloud has a silver lining, and today's victory was the silver lining of our championship series." Tommy Lynch offered no alibi, nor should he. He had the ball game as good as won, but failed to yank Fitzgerald at the proper time. It is quite possible that the Natives would have continued their batting spree in the sixth against Gardner, Plummer or Kamb, but after a walk and three singles has tied the count it was evident that Fitzgerald lacked the condition to continue effective work on the mound. Phillips had the situation well in hand for the Natives, and outside of the first frame was never in danger. Now that the Natives are champions of the Class "A" league the fans must wait until March 26th to see them in action against the Oaks upon their return from Myrtledale in the final appearance of the season for the N. S. G. W. nine. The score:

LeHane Is Elected Bruin Hoop Captain

UNIVERSITY OF CALIFORNIA, March 13.—Louie LeHane, standing guard on the University of California quintet and a two-year veteran, was elected captain of the 1923 Blue and Gold basketball five at a meeting of the varsity squad last night. LeHane is a former Berkeley high school player and played on the Bruin aggregation for the second year during the season just closed. He is considered one of the best guards of the Coast Conference.

There is a letter in the sporting department for Johnny Conde.

Winged 'O' and California Men Tied for Lead

Second Round of Inter-Club Tennis Narrows Race to Three Strong Teams.

By taking nine matches from the Berkeley club yesterday afternoon the California club maintained their tie with the Olympic Club for first place in the inter-club tennis play at the end of the second round with a perfect count to date. The Olympic club had no difficulty in making a clean sweep at Sacramento against the Sutter Lawn Tennis Club. The University of California did as well against the Oakland Tennis Club as they had done the previous week against the Sutter club, taking eight out of nine to give them a clear title to third place.

At Sacramento the doubles match between Roberts and Strachan opposed to Keuchler and Oehler was the feature of the day, the Sacramentans playing fine tennis to force the match to three sets, taking the second 6-4 after dropping the first to the Winged "O" players. The Olympians were forced to open up to take the final match.

On the Courts of the California club Ed Levy, former University of California star, was pitted against Clarence Griffin and gave the best exhibition in the singles. The California net team showed superiority throughout and were able to take the entire day's matches without difficulty.

On the Oakland club's courts the veteran E. A. Klein again scored with the only victory for the Oakland organization, beating Buzz Powers, the third ranking player on the Blue and Gold squar, by counts of 7-5, 6-8, 8-16.

Teddy O'Hara is a funny little four rounder. No matter what the newspapers say about him, Teddy remains silent. Most of the little scrappers hurry around to the sporting editors the day after a fight and some of the alibis they offer are ludicrous. O'Hara fights, collects his medal and nothing more is heard of him until the next time he is matched. However, had Teddy cared to he could have told some things about his fight with Joe Coffey the other night. He could have explained how Coffey forced his face against the O'Hara glove and opened his mouth as though in pain. The boys upstairs thought O'Hara was heeling and they hooted him. Then Teddy could have explained that at no time did he force Coffey over the ropes. Coffey deliberately grabbed O'Hara around the waist and pulled his opponent to the ropes. The spectators close to the ring saw this stuff but from a distance it must have appeared as though the Watts Tract boy was doing phoney stuff. We hold no brief for O'Hara but facts are facts.

Harry Greb and Tommy Gibbons clash tonight in New York for the light-heavyweight championship and the sharpshooters have made Gibbons a pronounced favorite in the betting. The pair have stepped four times in no-decision bouts but there will be a verdict tonight if it goes the limit. Gibbons had not developed his present punch when he met Greb last time out and some of the more enthusiastic Gibbons supporters are wagering that he will knock Harry for a goal. In Gibbons' last 24 contests he has registered 22 knockouts. Most of his opponents were set-ups but he must possess quite a kick to knock 'em over at this rate. Greb is a wild-swinging scrapper who flails away with both arms all the time. Gibbons is a cool, calculating individual with much of the cleverness of his more famous brother Mike and possessing a much harder punch than Michael ever showed. Greb is 28 years of age and Gibbons is 33.

Battling Ortega has apparently hit his stride again. The Battler knocked over some gent named Swain in Portland Saturday night. The scrap was scheduled for ten rounds, but Ortega dropped Mr. Swain three times in the seventh and the party was called off.

Nobody knows how the San Francisco promoters get away with it but the principal thing is they do. Frankie Murphy, who was all but murdered over here last week by Dick Wallace in a preliminary bout is matched to box the MAIN EVENT at Dreamland Rink next Friday night with Eddie Diggins. Dick Wallace goxes a preliminary on the same card.

Bobbie Jones and His Partner Beat Champs

ATLANTA, Ga., March 13.—In one of the greatest golf exhibitions ever witnessed by an Atlanta gallery, Bobbie Jones and Perry Adair, local amateurs, yesterday won over Jock Hutchison, British open champion, and Jim Barnes, national open champion, 3 and 1.

The match, which was played at East Lake, was a driving duel all the way between Barnes and Jones, with Hutchison also putting in a long drive once in a while. Jones turned in the low card, his 70 being three under the course par, while Hutchison turned in a 72, Barnes a 77, and Adair an 80.

BUNNY BRIEF SIGNS.

KANSAS CITY, March 13.—Bunny Brief, champion home run hitter of the American Association last season, has signed his new contract with the local club and left today for the Texas training camp.

Alameda W. E. Merchants Win In "B" League

Lefty Klein Singles in Ninth to Beat Victory Motors by 3-2 Count.

By MARTIN ROTKE.

Ray (Lefty) Klein of the Alameda West End Merchants showed the fans who were present yesterday morning at the Coast League grounds a nifty bit of twirling, and then turning around in the ninth frame with a pretty single to score the winning run in a three-to-two pitchers' battle against "Buzz" Cleary of the Niles Victory Motors. The Class "B" encounter proved to be one of the best games ever put on exhibition at Cal Ewing's backyard. Klein was practically the whole show for the Alamedans, and he showed the Motor team some flossy chucking, sending eight of the losers back to the bench via the strikeout route, and allowing one one pass, a fine performance for any left-hander.

"Buzz" Cleary was also in the limelight, and together with Klein hooked up in a pitchers' duel. Larry Hellar was expected to pitch for the motorists. At the last change the U. C. boy was put on the mound. The change worked wonders, and it was no fault of Cleary's that a defeat was attached to his name. The Merchants took advantage of a few errors to sew up the ball game, the fifth frame being their biggest one.

Cleary allowed only one hit for the first three innings, and his teammates getting nary a one off of Klein. In the fourth the Victory Motors broke the ice by cracking out two safeties, which they converted into one run. Combatalade singled and was sacrificed to second by Ahlfs, and scored when Welsh clicked one to the rightfield fence for a two-bagger.

In the fifth the Merchants forged to the front by crossing the platter twice. Warren started the trouble by smashing out a double. Kihn beat out an infield hit, and Warren scored when Welsh threw the pill wild in attempting to catch him at third. Kihn went to second on the play, to third on a sacrifice by Coffey, and crossed the pan on Welsh's second miscue.

The Victory Motors tied the count without a hit in the eighth Gimbal was issued a pass, and when Hohenschild threw Chet Pryor's roller over Klein's head, Gimbal took third and Pryor second. The squeeze play was worked, Cleary bunting Gimbal home.

Cleary proved to be easy pickings for the winners in the ninth inning, three bingles bringing over the winning tally. Bennetts started the fireworks by crashing out a double to center and going to third on an infield hit by Hohenschild. Warren popped up to Welsh, but Ray Klein clicked one through the infield that scored Bennetts with the winning run.

Chet Pryor and Bennetts starred with feature catches. Bennetts had a great time of it around the second cushion all morning, but his stop of Clement's hot grounder in the fourth inning was easily his best performance.

Phillies Expect to Top The Cubs and Cincy Reds

By DAVID J. WALSH,
International News Service Sports Editor.

LEESBURG, Fla., March 13.—According to no less authority than the ball club itself, you can write it down in the family Bible that the Phillies have no intention of running eighth in a field of eight National League clubs this year.

Not that they reckon themselves good. Any team that languishes in last place for three consecutive campaigns has few illusions. It is merely that they have looked about them, and like good business men, have selected their victim in advance. The Chicago Cubs, in training on the west coast, will be pleased to learn they are to be gently, but firmly, escorted to the league basement and there left to their own devices. The Cincinnati Reds, now a team of comparatively slight caste, are another outfit the Phoolish Phillies hold very lightly.

"We may be bad enough," they remark to the credulous inhabitants of the benighted Floridan town, "but the Cubs are worse. What we are going to do to them will just about come within the law of manslaughter. Nice boys, the Cubs. We have nothing against them personally. Indeed, our sleep has been troubled of late by qualms of conscience. It will really not be a very nice thing to treat the Cubs the way we intend to. It seems almost like making war on women and children.

"The Reds are not any better than the law allows, either. The Cubs are one team we will top, another might be the Reds."

And so they beguile the passing hours while waiting for the noon train to pause slightly at the place they call the depot and the village manicurist to pass along exactly at 5:05 on her virtuous way home. At that, their chatter may be no idle fancy. The Cubs appear none too good, in truth, and the return of Arthur Fletcher to shortstop is certain to react to the benefit of the Phils' chances. Some are inclined to think kindly of their team. They may live this down. As the club now looks, it looks best for the pitching, owing to Lee Meadows, one of the best right-handers in the game; Hubbell, obtained from the Giants, is likely to turn in a good performance almost any day he starts, and they have Jimmy Ring ballyhooed for a great comeback. Walter Betts also looked the part of a major league pitcher on several occasions last year.

CAN FIELD ALL RIGHT.

The outfield, to be made up of Cy Williams, Curtis Walker and Lee King, is fair enough. It lacks consistency. King is one of the best hitters in the league against left-handed pitching. Williams is a mark for a good southpaw, and Walker, a good hitter against any kind of pitching, is susceptible to defensive derelictions. King is no defensive giant, either.

The Phillies are essentially a club that will need plenty of good pitching to get by. Therefore, Cubs or no Cubs, they must show something more than a gift for oratory to finish above the cellar. They can't talk themselves out of last place.

Dennis Is Track Star at Stanford

STANFORD UNIVERSITY, Mar. 13.—(United Press)—Stanford is counting on Guy Dennis, who will be a member of the varsity track team this year, to add a good many points to the Cardinal list during the coming season.

Dennis is one of the best pole vaulters in the country. He entered Stanford last summer, and although working out with the Freshman team in its meets before the end of the quarter at Easter, he will be eligible for the varsity squad after April 1. He is a consistent performer. His best mark is 12 feet 6 inches. Jenne of Oregon shows better form at times, but is declared not to be as consistent as Dennis. Dennis placed second in the junior national championship at Pasadena last summer. Emmons of Los Angeles won, clearing the bar at 12 feet 7½ inches. Dennis was captain of the freshman football team last year.

DR. CLARK WINS STAKE.

HAVANA, March 13.—Dr. Clark, running under the colors of M. Goldblatt and ridden by Jockey Garner, yesterday won the Grand Prize of Cuba. The race was at one mile and an eighth and carried $15,000 added money. Seven horses started.

Speaking of minor sports, the bird on the Starboard typewriter suggests that swimming is one sport in which you are not required to start at the bottom and work up.

Winner Tonight Will Challenge Champion Jack

NEW YORK, March 13.—To average Mr. Citizen, it seems nothing short of hoolhardy for any young man to go out of his way to meet Jack Dempsey, affectionately known by the rabid fistic bug as the "Manassa Mauler" alone in a 24-foot ringed enclosure. And yet it is for just such privilege, although it may be a doubtful privilege, that Tom Gibbons of St. Paul will do battle with Harry Greb of Pittsburg in a 15-round decision bout at the Madison Square Garden. The winner is expected to provide the next opponent for Dempsey and although the champion's terrific punches are known not to be very nourishing, still the loser's end of a heavyweight championship battle is said to be a decided balm for a bruised jaw.

Gibbons has been installed a slight favorite for the fracas tonight. This is not the first meeting between the pair, they having met with three other occasions without any conclusive decision.

Olympic Club And Vampires Win Cup Games

Acorns of Sacramento Eliminated in Playoff Along With Barbarians.

The Vampires and Olympic Club survived the first round of the cup tie series of the California Soccer league yesterday afternoon in their play-off round of the first series when the Vamps beat the Acorns by a score of 3-1 and the Winged "O" kickers nosed out the Barbarians by a 2-1 count. The Vampires showed unexpected strength to win their match from the Acorns, having tied the first match at a count of 4-4 a couple of weeks back. The Sacramento team lacked the fight of their first appearance here for the Vamps were handicapped by the loss of Lee, their inside left, who went out of the game with a broken ankle within the first fifteen minutes of play. The Vampires played with ten men for the remainder of the game and their victory under these circumstances is all the more remarkable.

OLYMPICS BEAT BARBS.

The Olympic Club took the Barbs by surprise and displayed their same air-tight defense throughout that they had the previous week when they held the Barbs scoreless. The only count registered by the losers was on a penalty kick. The boys of Edgar Pomeroy opened up from the start and had one in the net before the game had been under way five minutes. Dixon scored the first shot as a result of a perfect center by Foster. The one goal lead was the only scoring by either team for the first half and the Winged "O" were unable to break down the Barbarians defense toward the end of the half to make any noticeable gains.

In the second half the Olympics registered another goal when Foster scored by heading one into the corner of the net. Albrecht scored one for the Barbs on a penalty shot shortly after, but the one point lead was too much for the Bargs to overcome.

Wills Is Puzzle to Portland Mitt Fans

PORTLAND, Ore., March 13.—(United Press)—Fans here are unable to figure who is getting fooled as a result of the Wills-Norfolk fight in New York March 2. After seeing Wills and Bill Tate tangle at the Milwaukee arena here, with Wills making a mighty poor showing against the Chicago heavy, local ring followers merely grin when a Wills-Dempsey go is mentioned.

The first fight Wills and Tate had here, Wills fouled the Chicago man in the first round, the referee giving the scrap to Tate just as the bell rang ending the round. It had been understood that the men should break clean from clinches. Wills didn't do it. The following Friday night the two staged a return engagement and fought a bloody ten-round draw. The second fight was merely to give fans their money's worth and attempt to show ring sportsmen that the two could really fight when they felt like it. Some think that Tate beat Wills.

There are those who question Wills' right to the negro heavyweight title. They claim Tate is as good as Wills, and everybody knows what Dempsey did to Tate when the champion was training for Carpentier. Tate left the camp while he had his health.

Now Wills beats Kid Norfolk in the second round of a scheduled fifteen-round go, and many eyewitnesses of the fight claim Norfolk just curled up on the canvas without even being hard hit. He was up at the count of ten, fresh as a new briquet.

Lord Nortcliffe Backs British Golf Venture

NEW YORK, March 13.—(United Press.)—But for Lord Northcliffe there would be no British golf team invading the United States this year to attempt wresting the Walker Cup from its American foundations.

Last fall it was realized abroad that unless private initiative took up the challenge that it would be at least two or three years before the Walker trophy came off the shelf.

Northcliffe was mentioned at the time as the most likely sponsor, owing to his great interest in the game.

The publisher has put all details in the hands of Pomeroy Burton, one of his assistants. Burton was located in New York for years and has been a golf fan on both sides of the water.

SAN JOSE CLUB WINS FIRST OF HOME AND HOME FROM SEQUOYAH

Local Golfers Defeated on Links at Garden City; Return Match for Tuesday Here.

By W. D. McNICOLL.

At San Jose yesterday, under ideal weather conditions, the first half of the home and home was played. The home team succeeded in securing a lead of four points in the twenty matches played. The points scoring system does not give an accurate description of how close the results may be, and in many instances a single putt means a difference of two points. Dr. C. H. Walter and his partner, F. E. McGurrin, were sailing along nicely for a win on the first one when the doctor's long brassie second to the 490 yards—eighth hole was hole high but just outside the stakes. The second shot also went outside and the hole was finally halved in 7. One up going to the ninth neither Dr. Walter nor Mack laid their approaches dead and John Levenson holed a long putt for a win which halved the first nine.

Levison was playing well for his team and F. E. Gurrin came in a 6 holes for halves or wins when Dr. Walter slipped. Archie Andrew and H. B. Lindsay are to be congratulated on their showing against H. E. Johnston and F. H. O'Keefe. E. J. Hadden started off in great form and had his opponents 2 down at the 4th when he had about a 5-foot putt far a 3. J. H. L'Hommedieu was at this point an admiring spectator but later on came to the rescue. A holed mashie approach at the 305-yard ninth hole by V. J. La Mott gave him an eague 2 for a win. M. Kamena, the local club's longest driver, an dDr. J. H. Stineman, had a regular driving contest in which first one and then the other gained a few yards. Stineman's tee shot at the 16th gave him an easy brassie shot to the green but he hooked it into the ravine.

Oakland Players Were Well Teamed.

E. D. Porter and Paul Lion were in at several of the holes. C. P. Hubbard and Major Crist were teaming well and playing excellent golf to win the maximum points for the visitors. Louis James and Julius Young succeeded in breaking even a strong local pair. R. J. Bentley and H. C. Dunlay. Tom Cushing and Clyde Waterman came through with a good win which scored two points. J. J. Vallentine and Milton Bernard won everything, gaining the full points. H. W. Edelen and Milton Johnson refused to be satisfied with less than three points. A. J. Coogan and F. L. Dettman gained 2 points for Sequoyah, the tricky 18t hole settled the extra point. F. C. Stratford and Arthur Lugden had gained a nice lead over their opponents in the early part of the game, but slipped at the end of the last 9; they failed at the short 18th, when a half would have gained them an extra point. The return match will be played on the links of the Sequoyah Club next Tuesday. The results:

SAN JOSE WINS.

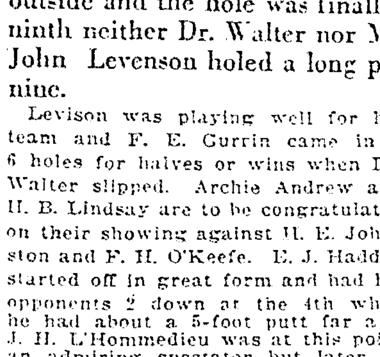

Robt. R. Sayer and V. J. La Mott defeated J. H. L'Hommedieu and E. J. Hadden 1 point.
H. Bray and J. L. Haskins defeated H. W. Beard and F. J. Reggan 1 point.
E. L. Hayes and C. F. Wright defeated C. B. Barton and T. Harry Smith 1 point.
J. M. O'Keefe and A. C. Gresoneff defeated A. T. Brock and J. R. Buck 3 points.
E. J. Och and H. H. Hayes defeated C. T. Hutchinson and J. B. Dusenbury 1 point.

CHICAGO, March 13. — (United Press)—Scoring bowling tournaments by points has come to stay, in the opinion of leading bowlers here.

Briefly stated, the scoring under this system is as folows:

1. One point for every 50 pins, or 1-50 of a point for each pin, is scored to the credit of each bowler after the termination of each game.
2. One point is also scored to the credit of each contestant for each game won from his opponent.
3. An additional point is also scored to a contestant's credit, if, while losing his five-game match, he secured a larger total of pins than did his winning opponent.

In bowling contests heretofore, there have been only two possible ways of declaring the winner, either on games won and lost or on total number of pins.

Under the new system the winner of a contest must not only be a good match bowler, but in addition must be a good total pin getter. Both qualities are determined. Another advantage is that every contestant is at all times bowling against the entire field.

MY FAVORITE STORIES by IRVIN S. COBB

When the H. C. of L. Came Down

As I heard the tale it had to do with a small community in Texas, where the railroad ran through the main street and on either side of the track stood a short order restaurant owned and operated by a colored man.

One night the official bad man of the vicinity came lurching into one of these rival establishments. It immediately was apparent to the apprehensive eye of the proprietor that the visitor was under the influence of strong drink—a circumstance calculated to make him slightly more dangerous than rattlesnakes.

While the uneasy negro made pretense at being glad to see him the bully flopped his long frame into a chair and demanded:

"Nigger, have you got a nice tender sirloin steak here?"

"Yas, suh!"

"All right, then: you cook it fur me and don't you cook it too long else I'll cook you awhile myself. And along with it you better bring me some fried onions and fried potatoes and some celery and a mess of hot biscuit and green peas and roasting ears and pie and coffee and anything else tasty that you've got around this dump. Now jump before I start jumpin' you."

The black man jumped. In a miraculously short time, considering the magnitude of the order, he staggered in from his cubbyhole of a kitchen at the rear bearing a waiter tray piled high with dishes. He ranged the array of food in a half moon effect before his patron and then fluttered back a few paces hoping for the best yet dreading the worst.

When the bad man had eaten he leaned back in his chair, drew a spring-back dirk knife out of his pocket, flipped its five-inch blade out with a nudge of a practiced thumb and leisurely picked his teeth with its needle-like point. His caterer watched him as a fascinated bird watches a coiled serpent.

Suddenly he spoke and the negro jumped.

"What sort of a dump does that other nigger over acrost the tracks run?" he asked.

"Oh, Mister Gatlin, you wouldn't lak dat place a-tall," stated the colored man. "Dat nigger natchelly thinks a fly is somethin' you cooks wid. He ain't sanitatious, lak I aims to be."

"Yes," said the bully, "and what's more, he's a robber—he's a regular pirate."

"Is dat so, suh?"

"Well, judge for yourself. Last night I went into that nigger's joint and ordered just about what I've had here tonight—maybe a little more, maybe a little less. When I got through I asked him what the damage was and, do you know, that black scoundrel had the gall to ask me for a dollar and a quarter? Of course I oughter killed him. In fact, I got up intendin' to kill him. But something sort of stayed my hand. All I done to him was just to cut off both his ears with this here frog-sticker and feed 'em to him. By the way, what do I owe you for this mess of vittles?"

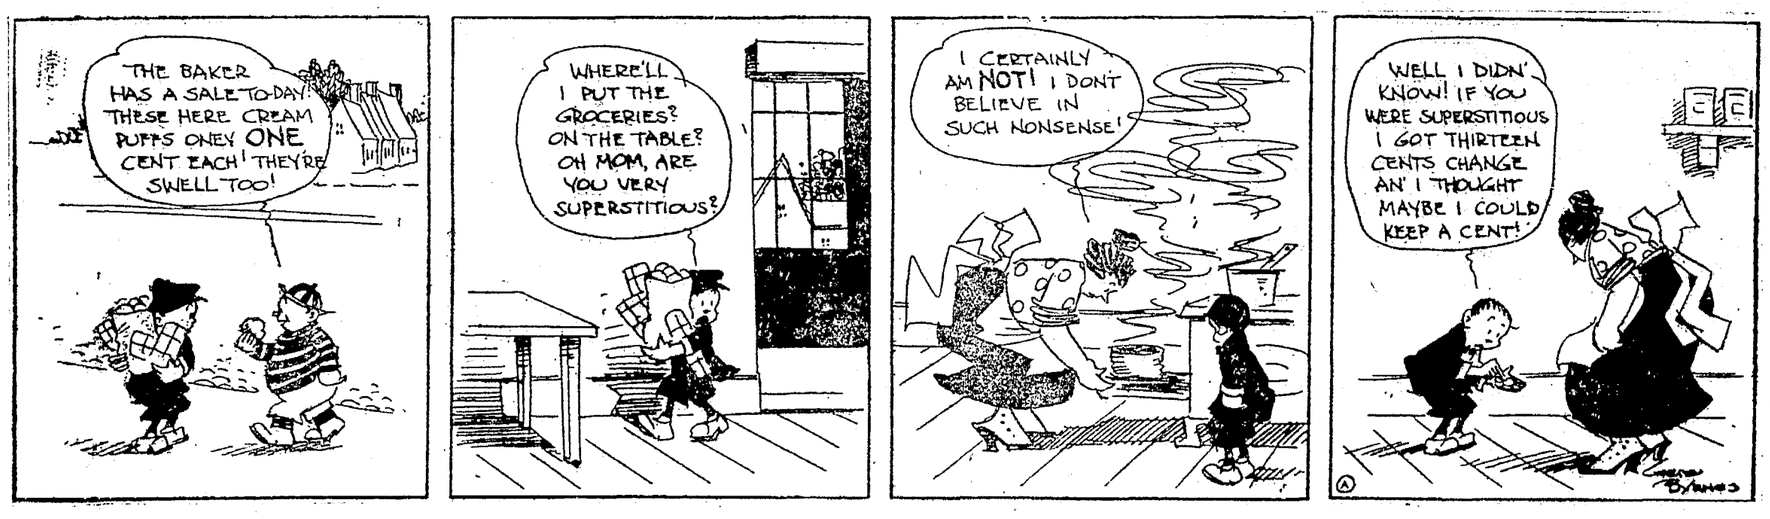

"Boss," said the darkey, "I reckon a dime would be ample."

ZOOLOGY

Zoology is all about animals and their tribal customs. It explains why fishes prefer swimming to tree climbing, why elephants and anteaters have long noses, why kangaroos have portfolios on their stomachs and springs in their tails, why crickets can play sweet little melodies with their hind legs, while giraffes can make no noises at all.

Zoology also gives us what we zoologists call the low-down on the human, in some respects, race. It explains why men who have no voices still insist upon singing in the bathroom; why women like high heels and always wear out the toes of their shoes before men do; why children have more sense than their parents but outgrow this blissful state; why babies like rattles when little and Fords when they grow up, and why men button their coats on the right side while women button theirs on the left, except in winter when they leave them wide open.

A profound knowledge of zoology will make clear to you why hens never lay eggs except when they are cheap; why geese have no more road clearance than a lawn-mower; why pigeons who have wings and can fly still insist upon dumbbelling along the pavements on foot; why bats sleep better upside down; why dogs turn around three times before lying down; why cows cross their legs when they run. Only a zoologist knows whether a cow's ears are in front of her horns or behind, and nobody else cares.

There are a number of other joys which you will know once the science of zoology is yours: Why monkeys can hang by their tails and elephants cannot; why frogs sing bass and fish sing nothing; what hyenas find to laugh about—the why and the wherefore of these curious comicalities will be a source of vast enjoyment to you once you know them. Of course you may never know them, but that isn't my fault. Neither is it the fault of any of us zoologists. We have done our duty by calling your attention to these phenomena. From now on every man for himself.

YOUR VOICE AND MINE.

What she said was perfectly all right—but oh, the way she said it!

And she wasn't calling them at all and I knew it and I couldn't make her listen when I tried to tell her.

I wanted Fairfax 1010, and she was giving me Garfield 1010—I could hear her doing it, and no one answered, and I couldn't make her stop ringing and the boat was going in a minute and my friend at Fairfax 1010 was waiting to hear from me. And she wouldn't pack her suitcase—till she did hear.

And it was hot and the booth was warm and my head ached and I hung up the receiver and oh, the names I called that girl—in my heart of hearts.

Stupid, dull-witted, conceited, know-it-all, insolent, ill-bred—and I almost missed my boat—and come to find out:

It really was Garfield 1010 that I wanted after all!

A NERVOUS THRONG.

I wonder what sort of names the Telephone Girl was calling me in her heart of hearts.

I suppose she just put me down as one more unfortunate and let it go at that. Now, if she only hadn't put all these things into her voice, I wouldn't have minded, but oh, that voice! It was like a whip over my shoulders, or a direct sneer full in my face.

I wonder what she thought of my voice when I kept insisting on the Fairfax—was it as sweet as honey and as mild as the falling dew?

I tried to be polite. I kept saying "Please" and "Pardon me," but—whisper—those two very words can be made more insulting than all the epithets in the world—just by an intonation.

I wonder what my own intonation really was.

There's a big public market in the city where I live, and the people have been crowding in so fast to get tomatoes and beans and potatoes for something they can really afford to pay, that really the service was rather demoralized.

I went down there the other day, and saw hundreds of women stewing in the sun, too cross for words. And the men who were waiting on them were cross and the porters who were wheeling the vegetables down the walk were cross, and even the sun up in the heavens looked as if he had what we call in these days "a good sized grouch."

She's my sweetheart,
I'm her beau.

A man shuffled through the crowd rolling a wheelbarrow and roaring out the old song at the top of his voice—not a young man, either—a man with a thick thatch of snow-white hair, and a pair of broad shoulders that could have been a little straighter—but, oh, the twinkle in the blue Irish eyes of him and the laugh in his voice!

THE STARTLING CHANGE.

"She's my Annie—I'm her Joe!" he roared. "Come, ladies, who's ready to look at the finest bunch of tomatoes that were ever wheeled down a gangplank?"

And before you could turn around everybody was laughing. The salesmen grinned, the porters ironed out their faces, the women smiled and spoke to each other, and in another minute the wheels of that market were turning as if they'd been oiled.

There's a whole lot in a voice, isn't there?

I am going to try mine out the next time I'm having trouble on the telephone.

WHAT DO THESE PICTURES ILLUSTRATE?

The boys and girls whose parents take THE OAKLAND TRIBUNE may now prepare for one of the greatest treats of their lives—a treat which will last an entire year, and which will leave them both happier and richer.

It is the Child's Story of the Human Race—a series of fascinating stories which will appear daily in THE TRIBUNE, and which will trace the whole great story of mankind. The series is written by Ramon Coffman, former instructor in history at Tome Institute, Port Deposit, Md., one of America's most popular children's authors. To tens of thousands of children, Coffman is affectionately known as "Uncle Ray."

The Child's Story of the Human Race will start with man as he was before the Stone Age opened. Without fire, without clothes, without even such homes as caves afford, human beings started out upon a career of conquest which made them master of forest and field, of sea and air. The steps by which all this was accomplished will be told in this history, which has been described as "more interesting than a story book."

The first chapter of the Child's Story of the Human Race will appear in THE TRIBUNE one week from today—on March 20.

PSYCHO-ANALYSIS
by ANDRE TRIDON

THE DONKEY'S CHOICE

ANDRE TRIDON

WE imagine your choice is free. Old-time psychologists, who held the same belief, said that if a donkey could be led to equal distance from two bales of hay absolutely identical in all respects he probably could not make a choice in the actual meaning of the word, but being a practical animal would start nibbling at either one of the bales without any specific reason.

Laboratory psychologists and physiologists have upset the theory. It is possible to determine in advance which bale the donkey would eat. Or rather a slight operation on the donkey's brain could compel him to begin with one and the same bale every time.

Our brain being a machine which produces electrical current, if a part of it is weakened, the side of the body which that part supplies will also be weaker. As the cross over, if the left side of the brain is injured, the right arm and leg may be weaker. You know what happens to a row boat when one of the oars is stocked. The boat turns to the side on which we keep on rowing. Our organism works just the same.

If our donkey's brain is damaged on the right side, our donkey will naturally turn to the left and select the bale on that side. If another donkey has his brain injured on the other side, he will do the opposite.

A dog whose brain had been damaged on the back kept running ahead; one whose brain had suffered an injury in front was constantly trying to run backwards, etc.

Electricity also plays a great part in determining the choice of living beings. Many varieties of fish swim to the side of the aquarium on which the positive pole of an electric circuit has been immersed. When the positive pole is applied to your right temple, the negative one to your left temple you may feel dizzy with a tendency to fall to the right.

Habits, memories, shocks, fears, etc., act on us as minute "injuries," or rather let us say modifications of the power of the brain. When we are perfectly acquainted with those modifications, we can regain our freedom for, knowing to which side we are likely to lean naturally we can compensate and on purpose turn a little more than necessary to the opposite side.

Uncle Wiggily Stories
by HOWARD R. GARIS

UNCLE WIGGILY AND THE STEAM BOAT.

"Good morning, Uncle Wiggily!" called Mrs. Littletail, the rabbit mother of Sammie and Susie, as she saw Mrs. Longears hopping along one day.

"Good morning, my dear Mrs. Littletail," replied the bunny uncle. "You are going to the store, I suppose," he added, as he saw a basket on the paw of the rabbit lady.

"Yes, I am," admitted Mrs. Littletail. "And I suppose you are hopping along looking for adventures. Well, as you hop past would you mind stopping and looking in my house?"

"Not at all. I'll do that right gladly," said Uncle Wiggily. "Is there something new in your house you want me to look at?"

"No, but I left Sammie and Susie home alone," was the answer. "Susie wasn't feeling well. She had a sore throat and I thought she might catch cold if she went out. I kept Sammie in because he had the sniffle-snuffles, and he might also catch cold. So I left my rabbit children playing, and if you go past just look in to see if they are safe."

"I'll do that," promised the bunny. "What are they playing?"

"A very nice game," said Uncle Wiggily. "I have never played it myself, though I did have a ride on a play train the other day. But don't worry, Mrs. Littletail, I'll see that Sammie and Susie are all right!"

So, having made a low and polite bow with his tall silk hat, the bunny gentleman hopped along, over the fields and through the woods and soon he was near the Littletail home.

"Gracious goodness me sakes alive and a milk bottle full of ice cream," cried the rabbit gentleman. "Susie in the water! I must save her! I suppose they have been playing steam boat near the bath tub and she has toppled in! Oh my!"

Up the steps, three at a time, leaped the bunny. Into the house he hurried, crying:

"I'm coming! I'll save you, Susie!"

Uncle Wiggily was just going to hop upstairs to the bathroom when he happened to look in the dining-room and there, in the middle of the floor, he saw Susie sprawled out, kicking her legs as fast as she could kick them. Sammie in a big wooden box, near Susie, was dangling a piece of clothesline to his sister.

"Why, Susie, what's the matter?" asked the bunny. "Why aren't you in the bath tub?"

"In the bath tub?" asked Susie, in surprise, turing over on her back and laughing. "I had my bath this morning, Uncle Wiggily, if you please."

"But I heard Sammie shouting that you were in the water, Susie!"

"Oh," laughed Sammie with a twinkle of his pink nose like his uncle's. "I see what you mean. This is only MAKE BELIEVE, Uncle Wiggily. You see we're playing steam boat.

Sammie was dangling a piece of clothesline.

This box is the boat and the carpet all around is water—'cause a boat has to go in water, you know. And Susie made believe falling overboard into the water, and I'm pretending to save her with the clothesline."

"Oh," said Uncle Wiggily, sort of faint like, "I see! It's only PLAY water."

"Yesst," answered Sammie. "Go on, Susie, wiggle your legs some more and make believe swimming and then grab hold of this rope and I'll pull you back into the boat."

So Susie did this and soon she and Sammie were making believe steam boat again—Sammie with the fire shovel for a paddle and Susie with the floor scoop.

"We're making believe the engine of our steam boat won't steam so we have to paddle," Sammie explained. "Don't you want a ride in our boat, Uncle Wiggily?"

The rabbit gentleman liked to play with the children, so he took his place in the box which stood in the middle of the dining-room. The green carpet was the ocean water.

"Ah ha!" howled the Wolf. "You left the door open, Uncle Wiggily, and I came in to nibble your ears!"

"Splash water on the Wolf, Splash water all over him, Sammie, with your fire shovel, and I'll splash water with the flour scoop!" And the animal children flapped the shovel and scoop very fast indeed.

"Oh, don't!" howled the Wolf. "It's so cold outside that if you splash water on me it will freeze to my fur and I won't be able to walk! Don't splash water on me and I'll go out!"

And out he went, not nibbling Uncle Wiggily at all.

"Ha! Ha!" laughed Susie. "He thought I meant REAL water, when I was only making believe. Ho! Ho!" Sammie and the bunny gentleman laughed also at the way Susie foled the Wolf.

Kitchen Economies

VEGETABLE PROBLEM.

Potatoes with one extra vegetable seem to be the usual order for the family dinner. For the fortunate housewives with kitchen gardens at their command the selection is not a difficult problem, though the manner of cooking sometimes is. For those who wish to try cooking some usual vegetables in unusual ways the following recipes may be helpful.

Escalloped Eggplant.

Select a good-sized eggplant and peel and chop it fairly fine. Peel and chop two onions and one pepper as fine as possible. Mix all together, add a beaten egg, pepper, salt and a tablespoonful of sugar. Butter a baking dish and put in a layer of the vegetable mixture, dust with crumbs and grated cheese, continue until the mixture is used, making the top layer of crumbs and cheese. Dot with butter, add a quarter of a cupful of sweet cream and bake a delicate brown in the oven. Bake thirty to thirty-five minutes.

Fried Cucumber.

Select long, slim cucumbers, and peel and slice them in thick slices. Let the slices lie in salt, no water, for ten minutes. Rinse off, dry the slices, then dip them into a good, heavy fritter batter, and fry a delicate brown.

Swiss Beets.

Boil six or eight young beets. Peel, and when cool, dice them. Take half a cupful each of water an vinegar, add the juice of an onion, pepper, salt, a dessertspoonful each of butter and of sugar, and when melted together thicken with a teaspoonful of cornstarch dissolved in a little of the water the beets were boiled in. When creamy, add the beets. Serve hot.

Asparagus Ramekins.

Boil a bunch of asparagus in the usual way. When done, cut the tender part of the tops into small pieces and let them cool. Add a beaten egg, the juice of an onion, pepper, salt, a small cupful of crumbs, and a quarter of a cupful of tomato juice. Fill buttered ramekins with the mixture, dot the top with plenty of butter, and bake. Grated cheese may be added to the top if liked.

Parsnip Pats.

Boil four parsnips until tender. Peel, mash and add butter, pepper, salt, a little sugar, a quarter of a cupful of dry crumbs and a beaten egg. When cool enough to handle, form into little pats, dip in flour, and fry in hot fat. Sometimes if the parsnips are inclined to be woody in fibre a potato cooked and mashed with them helps make them softer.

Creamed Carrots with Chives.

Scrape, wash and boil two bunches of baby carrots until they are done. Make a rich and well-flavored cream sauce, and add to it two tablespoonfuls of washed and cut up chives. Add the carrots, and when all are hot, serve, garnished with toast sippets.

Summer Squash.

Peel as many little custard squashes as are needed. Drop into fast boiling water, and cook rapidly until tender enough to pierce with a straw. Drain, then mash in a colander. Drain until fairly dry, then remove to a hot dish, and add pepper, salt, a generous lump of butter and a tablespoonful of sugar. Serve at once. Or if more elaborate dishing is desired fix as directed, then add two beaten eggs with a half cupful of cream, a small cupful of crumbs and a quarter of a cupful of grated cheese. Put into a buttered baking dish and bake fifteen minutes, or until brown.

Gray of Geraldine's SHOULDER

Listen, World!

I HAVE always been led to infer by the Best Authorities that well bred people know instinctively that Black was Black and White White, and could, at a glance, detect a Sheep from a Goat. In fact, an instinct for the smelling out of moral rats was supposed to be born with you. But though I have sniffed conscientiously, and nosed with the pack, I'll have to admit that I'm a failure. There's either something wrong with my smeller—or with the creed by which I was bred.

Perhaps I lack a conscience. Perhaps my sense of values have all melted and run together. But certain it is that the more I study Humans the less I believe in differences and boundary lines. Rarely indeed does Black look Black to me. It either looks a sorta tired, discouraged gray—or else a most alluring rosy pink!

And much of the Whitness I see fails to impress me with its inward glory. It merely tires my eyes. It's the whiteness of whitewash, which is not my idea of spiritual interior decoration. Also there's this Sheep and Goat business—I'll admit with sobs of shame that a Goat has ever seemed to me a much more diverting animal than a sheep. The very thought of being a Sheep has always robbed Respectable Life of half its glamour for me.

I'm not defending all this. I suppose my moral nature is hopelessly askew. But, nevertheless, I keep wondering—"How did we get this way? Who gave us a license to be judges and sniffers? Somewhere there must be an absolute standard of right and wrong, but surely it isn't to be found in all these smug and sneaky compromises which I see about me! How can we judge a deed unless we see its innermost motives and uttermost consequences? And if we can't see these, how dare we judge at all? How may one really know Sin from Sanctity or a Sinner from a Saint? Or is it, after all, our business to know? Have we any greater duty than just being a friendly neighbor to everyone we meet? I wonedr." . . . These things I ask. Can you answer?

How a woman "carries on" after receiving the ultimatum "You will never walk again," is shown in one of the bravest letters that ever came to me. I'm proud to have her write to me, I'm proud to hand her letter on to the gang. There are not many, though, who have the compensations that she has won. Opportunity is not always so kind.

Dear Jerry:

I have been interested in the replies to the lady who feels that suicide is the way out. I notice that they tell her that her disease may not be incurable, which is very true, but no one seems to consider the case from this standpoint—suppose she does have to live for years, a hopeless invalid, what is before her?

Here's where I come in and I do so hope the poor soul can find comfort in my experience.

I KNOW, my girl, just how you feel. Twenty years ago I met with an accident that put me where you are today. I was 18, with all my life before me when I had to face the fact that never again would I take a step or wait on myself. My beautiful young body, a twisted, broken thing, all my plans and hopes and ambitions crushed—that was the prospect.

Of course, I rebelled and raged. Of course the specter at my elbow whispered to end it all. I won't tell of that time. I don't like to remember it, but out of all that wretchedness I managed to work out this idea, that though my body was wrecked, my soul wasn't. If I was to die soon I would go with my head up and face whatever was before me, unashamed. If I was to live for long years I would fill those years to the brim with whatever service and happiness came my way. If I MUST be always a burden and a care to my family I would make them do it because they LOVED to, rather than because they HAD to. And deep under it all was a tiny hope that maybe by some miracle I might not always be helpless. That was twenty years ago, and the hope did not bloom. I am still a cripple. I can take a few painful steps on crutches, but my life is spent mostly in a wheel chair, but Oh, If I had listened to that tempting voice which whispered suicide to me, how much I should have missed the things that are worth while. Perhaps if it had not been for my accident I would never have known how much goodness and kindness there is in the world.

As I go about in my chair my heart is warmed by the kindly faces people turn to me. No street car conductor ever bellows at me to step lively. I am lifted aboard as gently as if car schedules did not exist. At street crossings some total stranger is always ready to see me safely across. All the beauty of the out-of-doors is mine through loving friends who take me out in their cars. My enforced leisure gives me time to explore the wonderful realm of books that the busy ones are denied.

I have time for beautiful friendships that would have made life worth while even if there was nothing else, but some years ago I found that I was to have even more. A man came into my life who loved me well enough, so that my twisted body did not matter to him. We met on higher ground than that, and we were married. I have had eight happy years since and he is still my lover. Of course motherhood is not for me, but all the little people in the neighborhood run in and out of my home and I feed the mother hunger in my heart with service for the unfortunate children, of whom there are so pitifully many.

So I have lived all these years and have found happiness, not by any virtue of my own, but by simply opening my heart to the blessings that were all around me. I might have allowed the grief and bitterness of those first dreadful weeks to poison my whole life, but fortunately I was able to overcome it. If this poor soul will just give to the world the best she has, the best will come to her. There may be, or rather is, all sorts of good things waiting to come into her life if she will only let them. To her I say from my own experience, don't be sorry for yourself and don't expect others to be sorry for you. Face whatever comes with a brave heart and a smiling face, and for every little bit of sunshine that comes your way, rejoice and give thanks. So you will attract to you just whatever conditions you desire. But don't go slinking out of the world whining "I can't bear it." Of course you can bear it; if you couldn't you wouldn't have been required to try. And remember those words of Stevenson's:

"Any one can carry his burden, however heavy, till nightfall; any one can do his work, however hard, for one day; any one can live sweetly, patiently, lovingly, purely, till the sun goes down. And that is all that life ever really means."

ONE WHO KNOWS.

There never was no "lil ole hound dawg" that had been kicked aroun' more than Jerry has in this column because she said impolite things about the ladies. It gives me, therefore, great pleasure to announce that this time someone else is going to get said kicks. Not that I think she deserves 'em. I'm for her, down to last period. I think this is the biggest double fistful of common sense I've read in a blue moon. But is she going to make herself unpopular! We will remark that she most certainly is. However, I'll bet she can handle 'em. So lead on MacDuff!

Geraldine Mine.

Some of the gang have written their opinions during the past week, on a married woman going out to work. Being one of these offenders I should like to explain the situation as I see it.

A man is constantly advancing mentally or physically, or both. Most married women who haven't children are degenerating mentally and physically. Don't they know that no one is ever at a standstill? We are either going forward or sliding backward all the time. No woman has enough house work nowadays to keep her in good health, therefore unless she exercise she is degenerating physically. The afternoons find these women at teas, theaters or similar elevating affairs. Guess they think that now they have "feathered their nest" they can lie down and die or allow mental stagnation to set in and accumulate superfluous adipose tissue. Soon the dainty bride is a baby "hippo" with a peanut brain.

The few years which elapsed between my high school days and my marriage were very full of work and study. I prepared myself for work, and although I made little actual use of my training still I believe it broadened my mind as nothing else could have done, and what I learned I can apply in my home to some extent. After I married I found I had too much time on my hands. I refused to become a victim of "Voluntary Inertia," a disease to which so many of my young married friends have succumbed, so I found myself a nice job a few hours a day and since have kept busy and been very happy. I will continue to work until greater responsibilities come my way, and when they do I hope I have gumption enough to delve in numerous subjects that I am interested in now.

No man could or would have my job. No self-supporting girl could do it. I think this is the case of many married women who are working. We aren't trying to run opposition to "John D." We merely want to be in the swim. We refuse to ossify.

And now, sweet Geraldine, I must give vent to a notion that has been haunting me for some time, and it is this, that you are an honest-to-goodness man hiding behind a skirt. Am I right? If not you are a girl in seven million and I'd like to get a slant at you.

As per recent arguments would say that I see no harm in a girl going about bareheaded. It is healthy and most of them look more beautiful that way. As for me I never could sport a "Cuttie cage," so am content to cover my "glory" under a nifty awning. To me, this habit and the bare knee expose fad are far more decent than the way these would-be artists practice on their maps.

I lay no claim to the title "Dance Hall Hound," nevertheless I think that "Co-ed" who has never entered a public dance hall is in no position to down them. I have, and to those who love to dance and meet nice people I heartily recommend 'em.

Most all of your donations are signed 'Eighteen" although some of them sound suspiciously like "Thirty" to me. Here's one who is honest enough to admit she is "TWENTY THREE."

Nope, Sister—you guessed wrong. The only skirt I'm hiding in, and it isn't much of duck blind at that, is mine by right of birth.

Holding a Husband
by Adele Garrison

How Katie Came to Madge's New Home.

I sat up until midnight sewing the draperies and curtains which Dicky had requested me to make for the rustic studio into which he was transforming the old Dacey corn-crib. That this would be the result of my assenting to his request I had known when I yielded to it. But Dicky, to do him justice, had not realized, I think, how much labor was involved in the thing he had asked.

"For the love of Mike!" he grumbled, putting aside his magazine and knocking the ashes from his cigar. "Are you going to keep this up all night? Didn't you hear that clock strike 10? Remember, you dragged me out of bed this morning at a most unheard-of hour. I'm simply dead for sleep. Chuck it, and come to bed! How about those beds at Ticer's? I hope they're better than the ones at the other place. There may be a soft side to a board, but not to those beds. I could almost find it in my heart to wish Lil and Marian wouldn't come home from the hospital until we are under our own vine and fig tree again, and I can have my own mattress."

DICKY IS ANNOYED.

"I think you'll find the beds Mrs. Ticer furnishes are very comfortable," I replied sedately, keeping my eyes upon the curtain I was hemming, and making no move to rise. I had done all the machine work first, that I might not disturb a sleeping family with its whir, and now I was struggling with seemingly interminable stretches of handwork.

"What d'ye mean, you're going to stay down here and sew?" Dicky demanded irritably.

"If I get these draperies done for you tomorrow I shall have to sit up longer." I explained a bit impatiently as I threaded my needle.

"Oh, can the martyr stuff!" Dicky retorted unpleasantly. "You've had most of the afternoon and all of the evening, and you'll have all tomorrow forenoon to do that stuff, and yet you're handing me a stall like that."

"We did not get back with the sewing machine until after 5 o'clock," I reminded him, "and tomorrow morning I have to meet Jim and Katie."

"Oh, you're determined to chain yourself to a stake and pour boiling oil over your writhing body, I can see that!" he sneered. "Well, have it your own way, old dear, but it'll be a long time before I ask you another favor."

He went huffily out of the room, while I heroically resisted an impulse to crumple the draperies up in a ball and hurl them after him. The next thing I had to combat were self-pitying tears, but fortunately my common sense and my sense of humor reminded me that Dicky not only did not mean a word he said, but that in the morning he would have forgotten he said them, and if accused would strenuously and indignantly deny having uttered the words, and I bent to my sewing with a grim little smile at my husband's vagaries.

A WELCOME ARRIVAL.

When I set the last stitch and folded the shimmering stuff to put it away I was so sleepy that I could scarcely see it, and I was afraid that I would not waken on the hour I had mentally set myself, as I almost invariably am able to do.

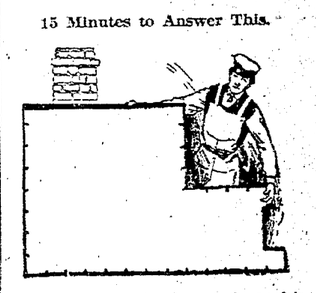

But at 6 o'clock I sat bolt upright in bed, as if I had been suddenly galvanized by an electric shock, and for a bewildered half-minute wondered where I was, and what it was that was so depressing my spirits. As I gradually came to myself I realized with a shame-faced little smile at my own babyish fears, that the depression of the day before because of my knowledge that my father and Allen Drake were to be engaged upon some mysterious and absorbing business of their own while Grace Draper was with us, was still with me. But as I rose and dressed I made a strenuous effort to shake it off.

Curiously enough, it was the remembrance that Katie and Jim were coming which changed depression into tranquil relief. I had not known how much I depended upon these faithful, humble friends until I realized that the day which had just dawned would bring them to me.

Brain Tests by Sam Loyd

15 Minutes to Answer This.

This tinsmith has a puzzle on his hands. You see, he has to place a square patch on the roof. The irregularly shaped piece of tin with which he must do the job contains exactly the amount of material required. It consists of three squares, one 8x8, another 4x4 and the third, one unit square. There is just enough tin to form a 9x9 square.

If he solves his problem to the best advantage he will cut his material into the least possible number of pieces to form the large square.

Suffered Unnecessarily

Oakland, Feb. 3, 1922.
At intervals I suffered severe pleurisy pain which began in the right side of my chest and ran around under my arm into my shoulder blade. It was both painful and difficult to raise my arm. I had taken various sorts of treatment for the trouble, but had found no relief.
Now, after seven weeks of the FONG WAN HERBS, the pain in my chest is entirely gone and I feel quite well. I bought the herbs in packages and cooked them at home.

News of the Churches

Sermon on Absentees' Alibis

"Although there constantly are many absentees from church service and many more people who seldom if ever attend, the church has made more progress during the past four years than at any time in its history and is making an appeal on more solid, substantial ground than at any time since Christ," declared Dr. Charles Kloss, pastor of Plymouth Congregational church, in a sermon on "Smith's Alibi for Being Away from Church," last night. In part he said:

"John Smith says he works hard for six days and on the seventh he wants to rest or read a book or go into the garden. Or perhaps he takes his wife and the little Smiths and explores a beautiful spot in Contra Costa or Marin or San Mateo county. Smith is typical of many. Is there anything wrong with Smith or with the church?

"Christ said the Kingdom of Heaven was like unto the marriage feast when those invited to attend began to make excuses, saying they had married a wife or must try out a new yoke of oxen. Social excuses, business excuses prevailed then as now. Smith's outside invitations or his business affairs leave him exhausted, with no time for religious culture.

"Other reasons for church absences are poor sermons, poor choirs, hard pews, collections, laziness, Sunday papers, automobiles, golf, late beds. One man says the churches are outworn and obsolete, another says they are too modern and that the church is a mere social center or ethical club, more interested in teaching our children how to dance than how to pray. The workingman says there is too much doctrine, not enough care as to how the people live and that the minister is under control of the capitalist. Another 'Smith' has had a business deal with a counterfeit Christian and he is soured on all others.

"As a matter of fact, church going never has been popular with the masses. Polycarp, born 69 years after Christ, in the full flush of the Master's inspiration, complained that the people would rather go to a circus than to church. In colonial times people went to church through fear—fear of social ostracism and a literal hell. That time is past. Never has the church made such a solid and moving appeal as now. Its strong and effective appeal is based mainly on two things: fellowship and aid to one another and leadership in community service and betterment.

"But if the church does not care for Smith, he is not apt to care for the church. If we say we have the best thing in the world, the church should be a dynamo of power, warmth and divine inspiration."

Play Fair, Urges Pastor

"If one tries to succeed by trickery, dishonesty, deception, or mere cleverness he is not playing the game of life squarely. Too many men are succeeding today by hitting foul and not playing the game," declared Dr. Frank Silsley, pastor of the First Presbyterian church, in his sermon last night on "A Man Who Plays the Game." Continuing, he said:

"The inspiration for Theodore Roosevelt's gospel of a square deal came from Christ's appeal in the Sermon on the Mount for men to play the game of life fairly.

"We play the game when we endure difficulties courageously—when we suffer troubles heroically and do not show the white feather. Men today are not playing the game at all if they refuse to repent and give their lives to Christ. The call comes to every walk of life for men to play the game. We have a big President because he is playing the game. A United States senator is big when he plays the game not only for the best interests of his own nation but for the world. He is not playing the game if he makes us think that the "Dove of Peace" is not of this earth but only a "Bird of Paradise" in spite of the efforts of peace.

"The call comes to representatives of education to play the game. The people of the city are asking the question—whether the board of education is playing the game by the adoption of a system for the administration of our school affairs which is not approved by all the leading educators of our country.

"Zaccheus played the game by approaching Christ and His claims with an open mind. We do not play the game when we approach Christ with minds prejudiced by materialistic evolution and rationalism or poisoned by the spirit of the age. Zaccheus restored fourfold to all those whom he had defrauded, and if some of the profiteers and city grafters were to do that today it would be one of the most revolutionary movements in history. Conscience money is the rarest money in circulation."

Home Held Woman's Sole Sphere

Women are one of the greatest influences in the world today, according to statements of Rev. Harold Govette in his sermon last night before the Olivet Congregational church. He used as the theme for his talk "Women, Wine and Woe," and said, in part:

"In marrying, a man should always bear in mind the fact that a woman can lift him higher or drop him lower than any other earthly influence, because women are either angels of happiness or devils of misery.

"While women are superior and more refined in their natures than men and are full capable of filling most of the departments of life, yet they are not so well adapted to leadership as are men.

"The woman should be the dominating figure of the home. She is needed nowhere half as much as in the home. Most of the woe that comes to married people is because there is a lack of home life.

"If we could induce the women of our country to go back to their homes and the men to the soil most of the problems of our great commonwealth would be solved.

"No wine should be permitted to enter the sacred precincts of any home, for a wine drinking woman is a curse to society and an abomination unto the Lord.

"The influence of woman has refined our homes, strengthened our schools and helped to keep pure the life of our churches, but if woman undertakes to run our commercial and political affairs she will lower herself and subject man to fearful loss."

St. Patrick's Service Is Lauded

While many Protestants have learned to admire St. Patrick and St. Joan of Arc, it is unusual for a Protestant minister to claim St. Patrick as one of the great saints of Christian history, was the contention of Rev. Clarence Reed, pastor of the First Unitarian church, in his sermon yesterday morning on "St. Patrick, Everybody's Saint." In discussing the subject Rev. Reed stated:

"The lover of truth in religion rises above narrowness and bigotry which cause a person to see good only in those of his own faith. After studying the life and message of St. Patrick we believe that he should have his name enshrined in the pantheon of great men gathered from all races, ages and religions.

"Under the devoted and magnetic leadership of St. Patrick practically all of the people of Ireland turned from paganism to Christianity. Kings were converted, local chieftans became ministers and schools were established. So great was the love of the Irish people for their new faith that they gladly gave their time and money in order to build churches, abbeys and schools. Men of noble birth deemed it a great honor to enter the ministry of the Christian church.

"The name of St. Patrick has been enshrined for centuries in the hearts of the Irish people. He was not a great warrior or a great poet. Neither was he a scholar like Plato or Abelard, seeking to solve the problem of the essence of reality. He was an apostle of primitive Christianity, a minister of good will, an embodiment of self-sacrifice and a great educational leader. For these reasons he won for himself an immortality of fame."

Meaning of Cross Told

"The Cross of Christ is both a symbol and a challenge," said Kenneth Hobart in preaching last night at the First Baptist church. Hobart occupied the pulpit in the absence of Dr. John Snape, who is on a visit to the East. Hobart used as the theme for his sermon "The Two-Fold Meaning of the Cross," and said in part:

"Love, like so many things of life, is really indefinable, indescribable. To be known it must be experienced. And this is especially true of Christian love. Every follower of Jesus knows how hard it is to communicate a knowledge of that love to others. John felt just that difficulty, and so instead of trying to define it, he pointed to the Cross and said, 'Look! Hereby know we love, because He laid down His life us.' The Cross, then, was John's definition of love, and we on our part begin to understand the meaning of love only when we see it manifested in Jesus Christ. But to know it in its fullness we must experience it in our hearts, respond to it and give back our love in return. Only the lovers know the richness and the joys of love.

"The Cross is the symbol of love; it is also a challenge to us to be Christ-like men and women. It summons the Christian to bear, with Christ, the burden and sorrow of sin, and thus to enter into the fellowship of His sufferings."

Unrighteous Prayer Condemned

In his sermon yesterday morning before the Centennial Presbyterian church, Rev. Edward C. Philleo the pastor, said in part, while discussing the theme which was based on the story of Israel's rebellion against God:

"This story has in it a mighty message for us all. For what we have here is a prayer, but it is a prayer of a peculiar sort. It is a prayer of complaint; a prayer that springs out of the people's discontent, and that voices their rebellion against God and against His servants. That prayer was unwise and unrighteous, just as some of our prayers have been.

"If men refuse and rebel, if they insist upon having the thing that is a stone, and will not trust the wisdom and grace of the Lord, sometimes He gives them what they want. This was the way he treated Israel here. He gave them their request but sent leanness into their souls.

"If the child insists upon having the bumble bee for a plaything, it may be best to give it to him. If he is determined to play in the fire, perhaps the best way to teach him his folly is to let him do so—and get burned.

"A self-willed, rebellious prayer may win its answer from God, but when it does so the answer is a judgment upon him who offers it."

REBEKAHS INVITED.

An invitation has been extended to the Berkeley Rebekah Lodge to be the guests of the Concordia Rebekah Lodge at their meeting on Thursday. A class of candidates is to be initiated at the meeting. The regular meeting of the Concordia Lodge was held on Thursday evening with Noble Grand Hattie Kulick presiding.

ASTOR AUXILIARY POST VISITED BY NATIONAL CHIEF

On Wednesday evening, Astor Auxiliary No. 85, of the Veterans of Foreign Wars of the United States, was officially visited by National Patriotic Instructor, Helen B. Oschner of Lansdale Auxiliary of Sacramento.

Among those present were National Deputy Kate Hutcheson of Astor Auxiliary, and visitors from the San Francisco Auxiliaries, Ethel Lansdale Auxiliary of Sacramento and Lieut. Waterhouse Auxiliary of Oakland.

After the meeting, the visitors were escorted to the banquet hall, which had been tastefully decorated for the occasion in pink and green. After the refreshments, National Patriotic Instructor Oschner, National Deputy Hutcheson, President Alice Adams of Manila Auxiliary, San Francisco, and President Edith Volkman of Waterhouse Auxiliary made speeches in which they paid compliments to Astor Auxiliary. Past Commander George D. Powers of Astor Post and secretary of the county council of the Veterans of Foreign Wars, spoke on the activities of the council. Department Inspector H. G. Leffmann of Berkeley Post also spoke.

President Roxy Hurley of Astor Auxiliary was toastmaster and in her introduction of the various speakers drew attention to the relief work conducted by Astor Auxiliary.

WYMAN CIRCLE INITIATES CLASS

The regular meeting of the Col. John B. Wyman Circle No. 22, Ladies' G. A. R., was held on Tuesday afternoon with President Kathryn A. Page presiding. A class of candidates was initiated into the order with the usual ceremonies.

The charter was draped during the meeting in memory of Amelia C. Hobart.

During the meeting Patriotic Instructor Emma W. Hale reported that she had visited a number of schools on Washington's and Lincoln's birthday in company with members of the G. A. R.

Arrangements are being made by the executive committee, of which Louise Novack is chairman, for a whist party, to be given in the near future. The next meeting of the circle will be held on March 21 in Golden West hall.

Meeting Is Held By Lyon Corps

At the meeting of Lyon Corps, held on Tuesday evening, one candidate was elected and one was initiated into the order. Reports made showed that twenty-five relief calls had been made by members of the corps.

During the business session the secretary of the order reported that an invitation had been received from Dorothy Dix Tent to an entertainment on Friday evening which was accepted by the corps. A letter of thanks and appreciation was read from Bernice Studley for the gifts and good wishes which had been sent her by members of the corps.

The corps noted the passing of two if its members, Sarah I. Hukill and Mrs. Colquhan, and arranged for its official attendance at the funerals.

During the week a number of women of the corps made a surprise visit to the home of Senior Vice President Elizabeth Studley in honor of her daughter, Bernice, whose coming marriage to G. Buckley of San Francisco formed the motif for the party. The guest of honor received many useful gifts.

Civil War Women to View Veterans' Fete

At the regular Wednesday meeting of Division 1, of the Woman and Girl Workers of the Civil War, '61-'65, reports were made that many of the members of the organization who had been reported ill were improving.

Invitations were received and accepted from Lookout Mountain Post to attend a "Peddlars' Parade" on Friday, and one from the Dorothy Dix Circle of the Daughters of Veterans.

Theaters

AMERICAN

"The Four Horsemen of the Apocalypse," the picture supreme of the age, is drawing enormous crowds to the American theater, where it is receiving its Oakland premiere at popular prices.

A tremendous story in the hands of a director with a sense of both the powerfully dramatic and the sympathetically human in life has made of "The Four Horsemen" a film that will be as much relished by the next generation as the present.

Rudolph Valentino, Pomeroy Cannon, Alice Terry, Alan Hale, all have carried their roles in a manner that has won them lasting recognition in the motion picture hall of fame.

LOEW'S STATE

"Uncle Tom's Cabin" came to town yesterday as a play within a play, being "Little Eva Ascends," a Metro picturization of Thomas Beer's story, starring Gareth Hughes.

Few musical comedies billed as direct from New York can compare with the Manheim & Mazor Spring Fashion Pageant, which had its initial production yesterday. The specially written music by Reginald Bassett, with words by Eugene L. Perry, is equal to that of the best musical comedies.

Arthur Deagon in humorous bits and character impressions went over big with all audiences yesterday. The Jack Martin trio ably illustrate superb moments from the musical shows. The vaudeville mixture of Prevost and Goelet is well liked. Norton and Wilson make everybody happy with "Diversions of 1921." "Silver Threads" is a brilliant comedy by Pearl Abbott and company.

PANTAGES

Daring demonstrations with a high-power electric current, in which a woman apparently permits a voltage to pass through her body sufficient to create a carbon light, is one of the outstanding attractions at Pantages this week.

Mlle. Burnell is the person who plays with the electricity. The Patrowars provide a feature on the program which abounds in versatality and attractiveness. Three "evangelists" who spread joy are Langton, Smith and Langton. Edythe and Eddie Adair are pleasantly received in their sketch, "The Bootshop." "The Bagooma Hunters" are blackfacers who have a musical turn and the Aerial Rooneys prove that the air is an easy place to perform in. "The Matrimonial Web" as the feature photoplay and the Harold Lloyd comedy are well worth seeing.

AUDITORIUM

Zoe Akins, the author of "Declassee," in which Ethel Barrymore comes to the Oakland Auditorium theater for four performances, beginning Monday night, March 27, has gathered together in her play a most unusual and interesting group of characters.

Miss Barrymore's role is that of a titled young Englishwoman, who comes to this country following a matrimonial upheaval, and surrounds herself with a cosmopolitan collection of individuals.

The play ran for an entire season at the Empire theater, New York, and Miss Barrymore achieved the distinction of being the only star who ever opened and closed a season at that aristocratic Frohman playhouse playing the same piece continuously.

GALLI-CURCI

Next Sunday will be a gala day musically in San Francisco, for the great Galli-Curci will appear in concert in the Exposition Auditorium at 2:30 p. m. Manager Selby C. Oppenheimer, under whose management the famous diva comes to San Francisco, reports a record-breaking advance sale for the recital of the Italian song bird, and states that the great auditorium will be crowded to its fullest capacity with thousands of her admirers.

On the program she will be assisted by Manuel Berenguer, flutist, and by her husband, Romer Samuels, at the piano. In the Bishop "Echo Song" and the "Lucia" scene, Galli-Curci will have the acquaintance of a flute obligato, played by Berenguer.

CENTURY

"The Promotor," at the Century theater this week, is replete with genuine humor, well presented, and generously interspersed with tuneful songs and dainty dances. The beauty chorus, in a variety of costumes cleverly designed by Maude Amber, added color to the performance.

The specialty numbers were well worth while, and Millie Pedro, assisted by the chorus, singing "He's a Panic," almost caused a panic and were called again for an encore.

Jack Spencer's "She's All Mine" was well received.

NEW BROADWAY

Packed with humor and the eternal joy of youth, Jackie Coogan is at the Broadway theater for two days more in "My Boy." The production, Coogan's latest, will be shown for the last time here tomorrow.

"My Boy" depicts the adventures of Jackie from the moment he lands in America, friendless and parentless, as an emigrant. The program boasts a second comedy in "Devilish Romeo."

Viola Dana appears in "The Fourteenth Lover" on Wednesday only. The same bill will show Herbert Rawlinson in "The Scrapper."

FRANKLIN

A vivid, red-blooded story of the untamed West is Bill Hart's latest drama romance, "Travelin' On," at the New Franklin, written by Hart himself. He plays the role of a man without name, friends, religion, yet he succeeds in building a church in the worst gambling hole of Arizona, and tames the crooked gambling hall boss and his gang. And all for the love of another man's wife. When he has won her he sacrifices his life's happiness for her. Ethel Grey Terry supports Hart.

An added attraction is the first of the Conan Doyle Sherlock Holmes detective stories, "The Man With the Twisted Lip," also an Al St. John comedy.

STRAND

"Camille," featuring Rudolph Valentino and Nazimova, will be screened at the New Strand theater for two days only, starting today.

Jackie Coogan in "My Boy" starts a three-day engagement. He has 100 news smiles for you. 100 lovable pranks, and a natural way of living his role as the immigrant kid who adopts a surly old sea captain, that causes a sob at times.

Mock Initiation for Pythian Sisters

There will be a mock initiation ceremony at the meeting of the Calantha Temple No. 6, Pythian Sisters, on Tuesday evening. At the meeting on March 21 a class initiation will be held by the Temple.

The regular meeting of the temple was held on Tuesday evening at Pythian Castle with M. E. C. Ada Parkinson presiding. Reports made by the visiting committee indicated that all members of the temple who had been reported ill were improving.

ORPHEUM

Spectacular singing, elaborate electrical effects and tensely dramatic moments mark "The Storm," the highly colored presentation that tops the bill at the Oakland Orpheum this week. In addition to this unusual offering there are two other featured attractions offered by Miss Julia Nash and C. H. O'Donnell and Bostock's Riding School.

"The Storm" is being presented in vaudeville form for the first time after long runs in New York and Chicago and is one of the most elaborate presentations that was ever attempted.

"Almost Single" is the title of a most entertaining little triangle playlet. Bostock's Riding School, showing how circus riders are made; Joe Shriner and Billy Fitzsimmons in "The Newsdealer," Walter Daniels and Minna Walters in "The Old Timer," Jess Linobati in a "musical riot," and Mahan Company, round out the bill.

T. & D.

From Chinaman to Mexican to New Englanders, and finally to the role of Virginian mountaineer, is the devious path that has led Richard Barthelmess to his first starring part, and each succeeding transition has added another feather in the cap of the talented screen actor. It is in the last named part that Barthelmess presented in his first star production "Tol'able David," which came to the Oakland T. & D. yesterday.

David's ambition is to succeed his brother as driver and guardian of the government mail, but he is held too immature for the job. Chance in the form of an intoxicated driver places the opportunity at his feet. On the first day he is a victim of the Hartburns, one of whom steals the sack of mail from the road.

Short reel features, including The TRIBUNE CAMERA NEWS and T. & D. concert orchestra, will be presented on the program to balance it well.

KOLB AND DILL

Kolb and Dill seem destined for a big reception when they make their first appearance of the year here Sunday night, March 19, at the Auditorium in "Give and Take," a farce-comedy from the pen of Aaron Hoffman. The two comedians bring with them an all-star supporting company as well as a crops of entertainers who will contribute the musical features. These include a bevy of pretty girls and a symphonic jazz orchestra. In the supporting cast will be found May Cloy, Thomas Chatterton, John Fee, Lou Davis, Delos Carpenter, Marie Rande and Frances Castle.

NEW CHIMES

The story of "The Call of the Wild," which is now playing to capacity houses at the New Chimes theater, is one that will satisfy the heart of every one who feels in him the unquenchable tugging of nature. There's a vista of mountains, outdoor life, action, and finally—there's Flash. Flash is a Belgian police hound.

The supporting cast is made up of several well-known actors, including: John Bowers, Kathryn McGuire, William Dyer, James Mason, Nelson McDowell, E. J. Brady and Robert Bolder. The picture was directed by Laurence Trimble and adapted by Jane Murfin and will have its final screening at the New Chimes theater tomorrow night.

LATEST NEWS OF INDUSTRY, TRADE AND FINANCE

TELEPHONE LEADS SPECIALTY LIST MAKING GAINS

NEW YORK, March 13.—Last week's general advance of prices was confidently resumed at the opening of today's stock market. Traders evidently were not disturbed by adverse foreign advices, which were reflected in the further decline of British and other international currency. Of the more representative shares American Telephone was strongest, gaining 1¼ points in the first few transactions. American Car, American Tobacco, Famous Players and International Paper preferred averaged one point gains. Texas Oil was the only weak stock, its decline of 2 points being associated with the company's poor annual statement.

Call money opened at 4 per cent, although heavy withdrawals of funds to meet income tax payments are expected today and Wednesday. Investment rails and industrials again were supplanted in speculative favor by specialties.

Market Street Railway common rose 2 points and preferred 3½ points. United Railway investment preferred, an affiliated property, gained 3¼c. Brooklyn Union Gas, Manhattan Elevated and Montana Power Company comprised the other strong utilities.

Sugars, especially the Cuban group, were 1 to 2½ points higher and Lee Rubber was strongest of the motor accessories. Firm miscellaneous shares were featured by Sears-Roebuck and Remington Typewriter common and preferred.

Confident buying in particular issues produced a favorable influence on sentiment, and many of the recognized speculative favorites swept upward in the afternoon. The floating supply of stocks seemed scarce when large buying orders appeared. Remington Typewriter second preferred advanced 5 points; Kelsey Wheel 3½ and a long list of other industrials were quoted 1 to 2 points above Saturday's closing. Later profit taking in Studebaker, Mexican Petroleum and General Asphalt took the edge off the rise.

Aggregate Reported Deficit of "Big Five" Packers Over $77,000,000.

CHICAGO, March 13.—The annual statement of Wilson & Company, packers, revealing an operating deficit of $8,462,650 during 1921, was made public today. Including payment of preferred dividends, the deficit for the year was placed at $9,206,269, compared with profits of $1,500,000 in 1920, and $5,000,000 in 1919. The statement said that while sales totaled fewer dollars in 1921 than in previous years, the tonnage was nearly the same.

Wilson and Company was the last of the big five packers to issue a statement and each company reported a loss for the year. The aggregate deficit of Wilson and Company, Cudahy and Company, Armour and Company, Swift and Company and Morris and Company, was $77,817,460.

BUSINESS and FINANCE

BUOYANCY characterized the general list at the opening of the New York Stock Exchange today. Saturday's clearing house statement showed that loan contraction was continuing among New York banks and the prospect of continued ease in money heightened the bullish interest prevailing at last week's close.

Studebaker made a new high for the year at 103¾ and Mexican Petroleum got into new high ground at 127½. American Woolen gained ½ at 89½. U. S. Steel was up ⅜ at 95⅛. American Locomotive was up 1¾ at 109¾ and Crucible was up ¼ at 58½. American Sugar moved contrary to the general trend, receding ⅝ to 72¼.

New highs were reached in the tire group in the second hour. Lee Tire was at 34⅜; Goodrich, at 41⅛; Kelly Springfield, 46⅝; Ajax above 16, and U. S. Rubber, 62⅛. Heavy selling in National Enameling broke the stock two points to 35. Jewel Tea common made a new high for the year at 21⅜.

P. G. & E. OUTPUT ONE-THIRD OF STATE.

The following figures, taken from the most recent report of the United States Geological Survey, show the number of thousands of kilowatt hours of electrical energy produced by water power in the United States during the year 1921. The four states having the largest output are as follows: California, 3,223,352,000 kilowatt hours; New York, 2,180,262,000 kilowatt hours; Washington, 1,137,595,000 kilowatt hours; South Carolina, 710,508,000 kilowatt hours. During this twelve months' period, California produced 21.5 per cent of the total hydro-electric output of the entire country.

The output of the Pacific Gas and Electric Company for the year 1921 was 31.8 per cent of that of the State of California and 6.8 per cent of that of the entire country.

TEMPORARY HALT CALLED IN BOND MARKET.

After a remarkable advance in values in October, November and December of last year, the municipal bond market was temporarily halted by the huge volume of new bonds offered for sale. The calling in of the Victory Loan 3¾s (the tax-exempt notes) early in February, however, worked a miraculous change in the tax-free bond situation. In place of a glut of undistributed bonds, the market is now virtually cleaned out of municipals, and with new issues coming out in very much reduced volume, as compared with the last quarter of 1921, the future stability of municipal prices seems assured.

The following tabulation, compiled by The Daily Bond Buyer of New York, shows the total amount of new state and municipal bonds floated in February and in the two-months period ending February 28 for the last ten years:

	February.	Two Mos.
1922	$74,213,578	$150,141,321
1921	74,449,779	150,630,935
1920	38,857,933	125,505,064
1919	21,004,352	45,840,200
1918	23,386,739	41,737,795
1917	24,987,302	64,332,942
1916	35,915,303	87,326,120
1915	39,610,087	70,976,965
1914	26,807,680	111,014,613
1913	21,102,868	64,036,209

STOCKS UNAFFECTED IN FOREIGN TROUBLES.

In the face of reactionary tendencies in the cotton and garin exchanges and in foreign exchange, stocks on the New York Stock Exchange continued their persistent display of buoyancy and strength today, says the Wall Street Journal.

The upward action broadened to include a large number of normally dormant issues and buying standard set by such stocks as American Telegraph and Telephone, Consolidated Gas, Westingtouse Electric and Southern Pacific, was of a quality tending to show the market was nearing a substantial reaction after its steady advance.

Market operators' activity was of a kind that prevented a break of any consequence in the market. As an evidence that trade was rallying from its winter depression, it was pointed out that weekly car loading in February was at the rate of 800,000 cars which was six weeks ahead of normal.

February bank clearings outside of New York were slightly ahead of January whereas as a rule they are 20 per cent less. Stocks in many groups made new highs for the year today, especially in the rubber and sugar classes. Among these were U. S. Rubber, Kelly Springfield, Cast Iron Pipe, Cuba Cane Sugar common and preferred and Lee Tires.

FOREIGN BONDS WEAK UNDER BRITISH TURMOIL.

Foreign bonds were again unsettled today in connection with British colonial disturbances. United Kingdom 1922 and 1929 lost 1⅝ and 1½ points respectively.

Some of the French state and municipal offerings, as well as Belgian, Swedish, Japanese issues also were lower by large fractions to 1½ points.

Local tractions became more reactionary, Interborough Rapid Transit 5s losing 1¾ points with increased heaviness in Manhattan Elevated and Brooklyn Rapid Transit.

Colorado Southern 4½s, Denver and Rio Grande Refunding 4s, Sea Board Convertible 6s and Peoria and Eastern Firsts were moderately large.

Detroit United Railway was strong and the feature of the liberty group was the activity and strength of the third 4¼s.

Bankers Urge Almond Exchange on Growers

SACRAMENTO, March 13.—A bankers' association representing twenty-two northern California counties has endorsed the proposed five-year contract between the Almond Growers and California Almond Growers' Exchange and recommended "its adoption by almond growers of California as necessary to their best interest and development of the almond growing industry in California." The resolution endorsing the contract was sponsored by J. H. Stephens, president of the Merchants' National Bank, Sacramento. The resolutions claimed a necessity for the five-year contract to stabilize bank credit or exchange.

SLOW ARRIVALS OF GARDEN CROPS DUE TO WEATHER

Asparagus Still Remains Luxury, Though Ordinarily It Ought to Be Staple Now.

Miss Winter lingering in the lap of Spring is causing a lot of trouble and disappointment to the wholesale market men. Here it is slipping along past the middle of March and still the word from the interior is cold weather and delayed garden crops. For instance the California Packing Corporation sent the word to the Delta region Saturday for asparagus. In picking over 5000 acres the return was 7 boxes. Winter hanging around Spring is the cause of it all. The opening of the schedule of the river boats of Hunt, Hatch and Company, announced to begin yesterday, was postponed for the reason there is nothing yet in the way of vegetables to gather.

The Fruit Growers' Association, according to report, is considering giving the citrus fruit market another tilt. Despite a short crop the demand for oranges and lemons is not at all keen. It may be that the apple supply has something to do with it or else the price but at any rate the orange crop is moving slowly.

Butter was off a cent today from 39½ to 38½c. Eggs on the other hand were half a cent better at from 24½ to 25c.

Arrivals today included 3 cars of bananas, 3 cars of lettuce from Imperial and Los Angeles region, 5 cars of oranges, 1 car of sweet potatoes and 10 cars of spuds.

The Washington Prune Growers' Association has just announced that it has sold 250,000 pounds of Clarke county, Washington prunes to Holland buyers.

According to announcement made by the Association, this is the first foreign shipment of Washington prunes which has been made by the association since before the world war.

The price at which these prunes were sold to the Dutch interests was twelve and one-half cents a pound, f. o. b. Vancouver, Washington, for 30-40s.

Lodz Traders Get Orders From East

Large orders have been placed with the cotton mills of Lodz by traders from the Eastern provinces. The textile mills are operating to 90 per cent of capacity, and 56 per cent of the wool industry is in operation. According to official statistics, 24,000 workmen were employed in the cotton industry of Lodz in 1920, and in November, 1921, the number was 46,000. The number of workmen employed in the wool industry rose from 6,000 in 1920 to 14,500 in November, 1921.

Exchange Drops With Reports of British Trouble

(By Associated Press)

NEW YORK, March 13.—Foreign exchanges were extremely nervous and unsettled here today. The reaction was primarily due to British political and economic disturbances at home and in India and South Africa.

Bills on London fell 3 cents under last week's final quotations and showed an extreme decline of 13 cents to the pound from their high prices of last February.

Rates on France, Belgium and Italy were from 11 to 17 points lower and the setback in Scandinavian remittances was even more severe, extending from 18 to 30 points.

Far Eastern exchanges, including the Chinese, Indian and Philippines, remittances also were adversely influenced by developments in India.

Engels Output Is At High Level

Over Million Pounds of Copper Each Month Is Now Being Produced.

QUINCY, March 13.—A new record for production was made at the Engels mine during the last month, it is announced by General Superintendent W. R. Lindsay. Unusually high averages were maintained throughout the last three months of 1921.

In January and February, Lindsay says, more than 950 tons of high-grade ore was extracted daily, making a total of 30,000 tons a month.

About 500 men are employed at present, and according to Lindsay, the labor market has been good. Some mines have been reporting a shortage of labor, but Lindsay says the Engel concern has been paying about 25 cents a day more than the camps of Butte, Mont., and Utah.

A check made recently by officials of the mine revealed that twelve of the shareholders in the property are employed in the mine.

DRIED APRICOT CROP OF 1921 IS ALL SOLD OFF

Prices Rising and Demand for Output of 1922 Promises Activity.

The dried apricot season of 1921 is practically a matter of history.

There are practically no stocks of 1921 crop dried apricots available for purchase in the New York market and independent operators on the coast and the California Prune and Apricot Growers, Inc., both report that they are cleaned-out of stocks of 1921 crop apricots.

With this situation prevailing, prices are naturally rising to higher levels and the attitude of the market is very strong.

The few stocks which are held in the hands of the wholesalers and jobbers will undoubtedly move out of their hands and there will be a full clean-up of 1921 crop apricots both from wholesale and retail hands long before any stocks of 1922 dried apricots are available for shipping.

Coast operators already are reporting that they are receiving numerous inquiries from buyers as to future purchases of 1922 crop apricots.

At least in the case of the California Prune and Apricot Growers, Inc., these inquiries are being filed and held for later action as the association always has refused to accept future orders at such an early date or to name a price until it is nearly certain what the size of the crop would be.

Market for Hay Dull and Flat

Prices Are Unchanged for the Past Week; Alfalfa Is Best Seller.

Arrivals of hay in the bay region for the past week 881 tons as compared with 940 tons of the previous week. Although prices are unchanged the feeling at the week's end is a little healthier and a somewhat firmer situation is manifest, says the A. W. Scott Company.

Export trade and coast shipping have both picked up a little and this increase in volume has improved the general situation. Indications seem to be for a continued increase in these lines of trade.

Interior movement continues in regular and steady volume. Dairy and stock men are buying feed and the ordinary grades of hay are finding an outlet that would not be possible on this local market. Good grades of wheat and tame oat hay are scarce and sell readily at good figures. An increased demand from the Los Angeles market and the south of the state for barley hay and good tame oat hay, have kept a good stream moving that way and strengthened the interior market.

Alfalfa is the best seller with a demand excellent all over the interior.

Millfeeds are strong but somewhat irregular. Barley feeds are unchanged but the rise in the oat market has strengthened all oat feeds considerably. Small shipments of foreign linseed cake have arrived on the market and small lots of linseed meal have been offering but at extremely high prices. Cocoanut meal is strong and at higher figures. Alfalfa meal holds steadily but in small volume.

EASTERN MARKETS

CHICAGO, March 13.—Better crop conditions in the southwest led to material declines in the price of wheat today during the first part of the board of trade session, further rains being reported in Kansas and Oklahoma. Besides, unpromising views of the economic outlook tended somewhat to weaken values, and there was a setback in Sterling Exchange. The opening, which varied from ⅛c lower to ½c advance, with May $1.37 to $1.37¾ and July $1.17⅝ to $1.18, were followed by decided downturns in price all around.

Corn and oats declined in value with wheat. After opening ⅛ to ⅝c higher, May 63 to 63¼c, the corn market receded to well under Saturday's finish.

Oats started ⅛c off to a shade up, May 39⅜c and then underwent a moderate general sag.

CHICAGO, March 13.—Cattle—Receipts 24,000; market slow; early sales beef steers, she-stock and stockers and feders, 15 to 25c lower; top beef steers, early $9.35; bulk $7.50@8.50; bulls about steady; calves weak to unevenly lower.

Hogs—Receipts 57,000; 15 cents to 25 cents lower than Saturday's average; fairly active early; slow later; top, $10.95; bulk, $10:30@10.75; pigs about steady; bulk desirable 100 to 120-pounders, $9.25@9.60.

Sheep—Receipts, 14,000; little done early; sellers generally asking higher; only lamb sales early; three loads 82 to 88-pound clippers fully steady at $13.00; few small lot fat ewes steady at $9.00 down.

COTTON MARKET

NEW YORK, March 13.—There was a fairly active trade at the opening of the cotton market today, but not much change in prices, which were two points higher to two points lower. On the buying side were Liverpool, Japanese and Wall street interests, while New Orleans and spot houses sold. The cables were steady but many traders appeared to be concerned over conditions in India and South Africa. The market after the start was steady to about unchanged from Saturday's prices.

20,000 Pounds of Hops Sold at 18c

SANTA ROSA, March 13.—Twenty thousand pounds of hops of the 1921 crop have been held by the Charles Talmage estate at 18 cents a pound. This price has encouraged the growers to continue intensive cultivation of their vines, according to market experts.

40 PER CENT OF FARMERS SAID TO BE CLEAR OF DEBT

Dairy Sections Reported in Best Shape Financially by Bank Surveys.

BY CONSOLIDATED PRESS.
Special to The TRIBUNE.
By ED JENCKES.

ST. PAUL, Minn., March 13.—Northwest business men await the coming of spring in full confidence that the hard-pressed farmer will be able to adjust his finances. Money is easier. Recent increases in the price of agricultural products has enabled the farmer to accumulate some ready money. Bankers assert comparatively few farm mortgages will be foreclosed in this section and that seeding will start late this month, under adequate financing.

A careful survey of the Northwest indicates 40 per cent of the farmers in no financial difficulty, 43 per cent able to pull through without much difficulty and only 5 per cent of the remainder who cannot recover their losses and get back on their feet. Dairy sections are in the best shape financially. The survey indicated that the financial soundness of the Northwestern farmers was greatest in Minnesota, with Wisconsin, North Dakota, Montana and South Dakota following in the order named.

There has been a slight falling off in wholesale trade, due to weather conditions. Retail business holds firm here, but is hampered somewhat in rural sections by the snow blockade.

PITTSBURGH

PITTSBURGH, March 13.—The steel industry now has a more encouraging outlook than at any time for over a year. The coal market is displaying a firmer tone and nearly all markets in this section show a tendency toward improvement. Betterment in the industries is not fully reflected in retail trade and collections, but changes are in a favorable direction. Millinery is picking up in response to seasonal demand and sales of winter clothing are clearing the shelves for spring stocks.

A building boom now is under way in this district which promises to solve the housing problem. According to actual statistics, permits were issued for erection of 204 dwellings in the first two months of the year, these to cost $1,755,749. Immediate operations within the city limits are on a basis of erection of 1200 dwellings a year and favorable weather will widen this movement. The chamber of commerce housing corporation, for example, estimates that it will begin work on 300 dwellings as soon as the weather permits. Construction of large business structures is on a similar scale.

Lumber prices are irregular with hardwood firm. Dealers are inclined to look for higher prices in some lines of building materials.

NEW YORK

By JAMES ALLERTON.

NEW YORK, March 13.—The Easter season already has begun to exert an influence on both wholesale and retil trade in this section. The markets this week are crowded with buyers from out-of-town retail houses who are seeking spring stocks. These purchasers are not shopping for exceptionally large quantities and they are paying strict attention to price inducements, but the volume of business, while spotty in some lines, is holding up very well on the whole. Women's apparel lines seem to be holding the center of interest at present.

Shoe factories are fairly busy with more demand for high-grade women's shoes, but tanners are doing little and hides are dull. Structural steel inquiry has been somewhat better and the approach of spring is evidenced by renewed activity in brick and other building materials. There is interest manifested in the market for wash goods and ginghams and silks are in slightly better demand.

Pottery and glassware are showing increased signs of life and plants are well supplied with orders. The paint business is improving and demand for plumbing supplies and electrical equipment is more evident.

BUSINESS TOPICS

BALTIMORE, March 13.—The results obtained from the experimental scrapping of wooden ships of the shipping board are being closely watched by shipping men along the Atlantic. The vessels will be broken up here by local yards and others will be junked at Philadelphia, Boston, Washington and Richmond. The results obtained will determine whether the shipping board will scrap more wooden ships.

FORT WORTH, Tex., March 13.—The cement finishers in this section, following the lead of the carpenters, brick masons and electricians, have voluntarily cut $2 a day from their wages in order to stimulate building operations.

BOSTON, March 13.—Traffic over the Boston & Albany railroad in February was the largest experienced in any February since 1917.

COMMODITY NEWS

LEATHER.

PEABODY, Mass., March 13.—The tanneries which are equipped to make patent leather have all the business they can handle. Demand for other leathers is dull, but manufacturers of women's shoes are buying all the patent leather they can get.

MACHINERY.

EL PASO, Tex., March 13.—Additional railroad shops throughout Texas which have been closed since January 1, have reopened.

NEW YORK, March 13.—The activities of the American Locomotive Company are expected to increase this year, as it is believevd additional foreign business can now be booked because of the betterment of foreign exchanges. American roads also are adding materially to their equipment.

LIVE STOCK.

EAST ST. LOUIS, March 13.—The activity of the local live stock market is attributed to a combination of higher prices and equalized long and short haul freight rates. Cattle are coming in here from the remote Southwest. The equalized rates have given stock growers a wider choice of markets and enabled them to ship to the point where quotations are highest.

COTTONS.

BOSTON, March 13.—The movement to reopen some of the Rhode Island cotton mills which have been closed by a strike, for such workers as wish to return, has not yet progressed far enough to indicatew hat success the movement will have. It is being watched closely in view of announcement by the great Amoskeag mills in New Hampshire that they will reopen when enough strikers signify a desire to return to make operations advisable.

TEXTILES.

PHILADELPHIA, March 13.—While local textile mills are operating well, there has been a decline in the demand for both woolen and cotton yarns. This is probably traceable to the labor troubles in New England, where a part of the product of local spinners is sold.

COTTONSEED OIL.

FORT WORTH, Tex., March 13.—Texas cottonseed crushers claim that for the first time in two years they are able to do business on a paying absis. They declare they now are getting back more for the oil than they put into the purchase of seed.

CANDY.

CLEVELAND, March 13.—Candy manufacturers report that business is better. Prices of raw materials have been stable and sales volume is being maintained by larger purchases of the cheaper grades of candy.

COAL.

UNIONTOWN, Pa., March 13.—Production of coal and coke continues to increase. Both the H. C. Frick and independent interests are firing additional ovens. A shortage of miners is reported in two districts. With the approach of April 1 this district is preparing for maximum production. Spot furnace coke is quoted at $3.25 to $3.50, depending upon quality. Foundry is quotable at $4.25 to $4.75. These prices represent an advance of about 50 cents in three weeks.

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., March 13.—Coal operators in the Illinois field assert that they will be able to produce enough fuel for industrial purposes for their customers, even in event of a strike next month.

STEEL.

PITTSBURGH, March 13.—Foundry iron shows strength, with small lots selling at $19 f. o. b. furnace. Most of the valley sales of basic have been at $17.75, with $18 generally the asking price. Bessemer has sold at $19.50.

ALONG THE WATERFRONT

Reports from off-shore vessels today show cloudy skies and moderate southeast winds, while along the coast northwest wind and moderate sea is reported. At Eureka the steamers Washington-Mayfair and the Flavel sailed with lumber cargoes for Oakland. They passed out after being barbound for several days. At Marshfield, several of the barbound steamers also proceeded to sea, and a large fleet will make their appearance at this port during the next few days. Fourteen large passenger and freight steamers from off shore ports, besides many coasters, arrived through the Golden Gate today. At an early hour this morning the steamer Golden Gate with passengers and freight from the Orient put into port and two-thirds of her cargo consists of silk valued at several million dollars. In fact, it is the largest and most valuable silk cargo to be brought into this port on a single vessel. This cargo will be shipped to eastern cities by rail, passing through Oakland. The steamer City of Rangoon with a full cargo of freight from England, was among the arrivals. She will also unload some of her cargo at Oakland.

Captain R. F. McChesney, master of the steamer Blue Eagle, one of the Shipping Board fleet, was taken into the Federal Court and released on bonds pending trial for having been short $3000 of the ship money. He is a resident of Berkeley. The Blue Eagle was built four years ago at Astoria and is 2531 tons register, with her home port at Astoria, Oregon.

Reported only a short distance from this port the long overdue ship Golden Gate has not yet made its appearance. Owing to the haze outside the heads this morning the lookouts could only see a short distance to sea. On Saturday the ship was sighted off Monterey sailing towards this port with a fair wind and she was expected to make port yesterday. The Golden Gate, owned by the Rolph Company left Manchester, England, in ballast on June 27 last year, but was ashore, then spoken off the Lower California coast and supplied with fresh provisions January 15. On March 10 she was sighted off Monterey.

The bark St. Katherine and the bark Pactolus, of the Frank B. Peterson salmon fleet, were towed from their winter quarters at East Oakland to the Moore's Shipyard, where they have been placed on the drydock for cleaning and painting. After floating again they will take on their coal for the cannery use, also tin plate, and leave Oakland harbor for the west side of the bay where her stores and other cannery and fishing material will be placed on board. The other vessels of the salmon fleet will follow suit as soon as drydock space can be obtained.

The ship Edward Sewall, recently purchased by the Alaska Packers' Association, has been reported as sailing from Norfolk on March 10 for this port. Captain Otto Schultz of Oakland, one of the pioneer windjammer skippers, was sent to the Atlantic coast to bring the big ship here, which will enter the salmon trade after her arrival.

The steamer Necanicum from the Columbia river, arrived at Oakland this morning and unloaded her cargo of 830,000 feet of lumber. She will be ready to sail again for the north tonight. The steamers Helen P. Drew and the Pasadena brought 725,000 feet of lumber from the north and are unloading here today.

The steamer Santa Inez which left here on March 1 for Vancouver, B. C., with the schooner Rose Mahoney in tow, is making slow progress, according to her wireless. Last night at 8 o'clock she was 105 miles south of Cape Flattery and is due to reach her destination some time today. Owing to the head winds and seas that overtook her she was delayed several days. In fair weather she should have made the passage in less than five days.

NEW YORK, March 13.—A deficit of $495,591 in 1921 in the operation of the Pacific Mail Steamship Company as compared with a net income of $1,622,470 in 1920, is shown in the annual report. Gross revenues last year were $5,948,931, against $10,156,096 for 1920. "Adverse shipping conditions of the past year are likely to continue during 1922," said President C. J. 30,000 ACRES OF NEW PLANTING IS PLANTED IN 1922

New Orchards Promised to Peach Center From Fresno to Modesto.

Special to The TRIBUNE.

FRESNO, March 13.—Indications point to a heavy planting of fruit trees and vines this spring in all parts of the state, and particularly in the San Joaquin valley, according to managers of the local nurseries, who ship trees not only to all sections of California, but to many parts of the world. The three leading nurseries of Fresno are practically sold out at the present time on all leading commercial varieties of drying and canning peaches and apricots, also on shipping pears, plums and prunes, although the season was late this year in the matter of ordering stock for this year's plantings. This seems to be true of all the leading nurseries in the state.

In one nursery over 700,000 trees have been ordered and figuring at an average of 70 trees to the acre, this would mean 10,000 acres. Making an estimate on this basis it is conservatively believed that the new acreage in the San Joaquin valley this year will be between 25,000 and 30,000 acres of new plantings.

Aside from the new plantings there is a large acreage that will come into bearing within the next two years, totaling in the neighborhood of 1500 acres in Stanislaus county, with a considerable new acreage in Merced and Madera counties. This new orchard acreage will move the center of the peach industry, which has been south of Fresno, to north, centering about Modesto.

Sailors, Newsboys Battle at Midnight in S. F. Restaurant

SAN FRANCISCO, March 13.—A fight between sailors of the U. S. S. Tennessee and a crowd of newsboys in a midnight lunch place at 8 Kearny street, early today, assumed almost riot proportions and sent four men to the hospital suffering from stab wounds and other injuries.

Those hurt were:

F. A. Keyer, 651 Central avenue; severe cuts and lacerations.

A remark made by one of the newsboys is said to have been responsible for the fight, which resulted in tables being overturned, dishes smashed and a general disturbance. Keyer, who was passing, saw the three sailors getting the worst of it and outnumbered five to one, and went to their aid. Someone turned in a riot call and when half a dozen policemen arrived only the injured remained on the scene. Within a short period a large number of newsboys had been rounded up and were questioned at the Central police station, but responsibility could not be fixed on any of them.

Of those hurt MacCormack may lose the sight of one eye. He and the sailors went to the Harbor hospital and Keyer was taken to the Central Emergency hospital.

REDWOOD GROVE PURCHASE URGED

Conservation of the redwood trees on Redwood Peak was the subject-matter of a letter that has been sent by the Civic League of Improvement Associations to Marston Campbell, president of the board of park directors.

The letter, which is signed by J. M. Kinucan, secretary of the league, reads in part, as follows:

"Feeling that it would be little short of criminal to fail to secure and conserve as a public park the magnificent redwood forest on Redwood Peak, this organization unanimously carried a motion that we immediately take such action as would help secure this property.

"According to available information this property was included in your chain of parks plan. While we are in favor of the plan we believe at this time that it would be advisable to concentrate our efforts in first securing Redwood Peak for the reason that the owners of this property are contemplating subdividing it in the near future.

"Quick action is essential and we now stand ready to co-operate with your honorable body in any feasible plan that will lead to the desired acquisition of this magnificent grove."

PORTLAND, Ore., March 13.—"Oh, boy, but I'll bet the rummies are all pepped up over this new-fangled gospel 'Rev. Jim Jeffries, D. D.,' is going to spill all over the sawdust trail," whooped Rev. George H. Bennett, pastor of the Patton M. E. church, with ironical glee, here in his Sunday sermon.

"'Who cares' whether I drank liquor if my heart is right?' the Rev. Jeff wants to know. That's the stuff the guzzler and bum has been waiting for all this time and now Jeff's going to give it to him.

"Who'll you lay your money on with the devil in one corner of the squared circle and Jeff, with his religion, in the other?

"That's one time when you can bet on the devil to win, just like Jack Johnson did, back there in 1910.

"Jeff's got a phoney religion, folks. Yea, brother, he won't get through the first round with it. Don't let 'im tell you you can break the eighteenth amendment and still have your heart right. It ain't so.

"This is a fine move the saloon crowd is making to beat prohibition. Attaboy, Jeff! We know who's with you! We're watching you. Attaboy! Whoop-la!"

DRYS PLAN FIGHT FOR WRIGHT ACT

SAN FRANCISCO, March 13.—The dry forces of the state, through a committee headed by Chester Rowell, member of the Railroad Commission, will launch a drive in behalf of the Wright enforcement act at a meeting to be held in the Palace hotel next Wednesday noon. The proposed act is to be voted on at the state election next November.

According to an announcement issued by the committee, the campaign now under consideration will be "educational." It will be patterned after that conducted successfully in Santa Clara county.

"The elastic provisions of the Wright act, which adopt as the law of California the law of Congress relating to the eighteenth amendment as it now is or may hereafter be, enable all of those who feel that bootlegging ought to be suppressed to unite, irrespective of their views on prohibition or the Volstead act," declares a statement issued by the committee.

The other leaders of the publicity committee who will handle the publicity campaign for the Wright act, besides Chester Rowell, are the executive secretary, C. S. Allen, president of the Board of Education, San Jose, and Frank Cramer, Palo Alto, who has been identified with publicity work for the Anti-Saloon League for the past two years.

SPEEDY REDRESS IN BERING FLEET SEIZURE SOUGHT

Urging passage of the bill providing for the relief of persons whose vessels were seized thirty years ago in the Bering Sea, and their heirs, telegrams were being sent to members of Congress today by men prominent in the bay cities.

The messages requested that some measure be taken to speed up legislation on the proposed bill, which will revert to the former ship owners, or their heirs, the claims made against the government as a result of the confiscation and sale of the ships.

"Give these poor people a day in court to present their claims against the government for losses sustained a generation ago," is the general text of the telegrams sent in an effort to secure passage of the bill which is now before the House of Representatives. If the bill is passed the families of the ship owners will come into thousands of dollars.

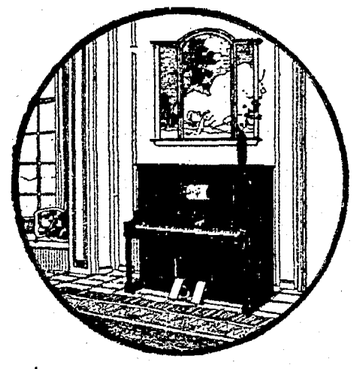

Ever since the government seized the fifty-vessel fishing fleet from the bay region, three decades or more ago, for alleged illegal seal fishing, the ship owners, or in cases where the owners or their heirs, have been endeavoring to secure redress.

The fleet left San Francisco Bay in about February of 1892. All of the vessels had licenses, which extended for a period of years. In July of the same year Congress passed a law prohibiting the hunting of seal for twenty years, and the vessels were confiscated by revenue cutters and the ships sold.

After the seizure of the vessels it was decided that the government had no right to confiscate the boats. Last year Senator Hiram Johnson secured the passage of a relief bill in the Senate, and now Representative Julius Kahn is before the House with a similar measure. It has been reported favorably by the judiciary committee and is now on the calendar.

There Can Be No Substitute for the Laundry

Laundry service eliminates the necessity of handling wet, dripping clothing—a serious matter at this season of the year when colds which lead to influenza are so easily contracted.

Laundry service has made good with every housewife who has patronized it.

It has added hours of leisure to her life; it has made no promises which it could not fulfill. It has done all of the work; it has washed all of the garment and not merely part of it.

And far from being expensive the cost of laundry service is well within the reach of every housewife no matter how limited her household budget.
